CULBERTSONS GET LEAD BUT LOSE IT, 15 POINTS BEHIND

After Six Nights' Play, Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby Hold Narrow Margin, 21 Rubbers to 19.

CARDS AND BREAKS WITH CHALLENGERS

But Woman Expert Goes Set Twice and 'Official' Master is Downed Three on Five-Bid Doubled.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—With 40 rubbers played in their 150-rubber contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson are only 15 points behind today. Winning six of seven rubbers at the sixth session last night reduced the Culbertsons' deficit by 4825 points. At one time they were ahead 745 points.

Of the 40 rubbers thus far Lenz and Jacoby have won 21, the Culbertsons 19.

After the third hand a week ago the Culbertsons led by 30 points. They did not lead again till 217 hands had been dealt. With the fifth hand they found game and the thirty-ninth rubber and went ahead by 745 points, a lead wiped out in the fortieth rubber, the only one of the sixth session won by Lenz and Jacoby.

The cards were running with the Culbertsons. They admitted it and they pressed their luck a bit with doubles, and the net result was a loss. They were set twice when doubled. They doubled the enemy four times. On one such double, Lenz, the master, went down five, for a gain of 1000 points for the Culbertsons. On three doubles Lenz and Jacoby fulfilled their contracts, once being doubled into game on a three-spade bid.

Possibly indicating that the Culbertsons did not get full value out of their cards was the fact that in 33 hands they took more tricks than bid. They essayed two little slams, Mrs. Culbertson playing each time. Once she was set one undoubled and the second time she went down two doubled.

Gamble for a Big Score.

The first effort was a great gamble for a big score. It was in rubber No. 36. The Culbertsons had a game; the enemy had none. In addition Lenz had just gone down 1100 points. Had the slam succeeded the Culbertsons would have accumulated more than 1450 points right there. As it was, they won the rubber by point total, although Lenz and Jacoby received the honors. The second slam try was a deliberate sacrifice.

Mrs. Culbertson was much of the business end of the partnership in the session's scoring. She played every hand of a four-hand rubber herself. No. 38. With 100 honors she was set one at five clubs, then made six no trump on a bid of three, six more on a bid of two and then five spades on a bid of four.

In the belief that the representatives of the "official" system were using his "approach" methods of bidding, especially by bidding one of a suit on a balanced hand instead of no trump as recommended in the "official" system, Culbertson called a conference of players and referees before the session started. He described the discussion as friendly. He cited letters to him from friends who had thought from published hands that Lenz and Jacoby were not adhering to their system's methods as stipulated in the agreement for the match.

Mrs. Culbertson's Slam Try.

Mrs. Culbertson's first effort at little slam was in diamonds. She went down one when vulnerable because her opponents held the ace and king of spades, and she had no trump herself.

UPROAR IN PRISON, TROUBLE-MAKERS PUT IN DUNGEON

Leavenworth Convicts Howl and Curse in Cells as U. S. Investigates Last Week's Outbreak.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 15.—Trouble makers among the convicts of Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary were being weeded out today and placed in solitary confinement to put a stop to unrest incident to the investigation of last week's break for liberty by seven convicts.

The prison industries, except the essential services such as the power plant and boiler room, remained shut down and "hard-boiled" convicts who have displayed an ugly mood since last Sunday night were kept in their cells.

Occupants of cellhouse "D," where the most dangerous inmates are housed, were fed sandwiches through the bars of their cells. Other prisoners were taken to the messroom as usual without any untoward incidents.

The last uproar of shouting, howling and cursing of any consequence in cellhouse "D" occurred around midnight. There was a small disturbance this morning. Minor trouble also was reported in cellhouse "B."

Prison authorities blamed about 25 leaders for agitating the outbursts among the 250 convicts in cellhouse "D." The leaders were being singled out and placed in the dungeon. Officials were having difficulty in fixing the responsibility, however, as the approach of a guard along the cell corridors was a signal for silence. When guards passed out of sight the yelling was renewed.

Caught After Seeking Food.

Earl Thayer, 65-year-old mail robber, characterized by officials as the most desperate of the seven who fled Friday morning, taking with them Warden T. B. White as a hostage, was returned yesterday after his capture by two civilians when he applied at a home for food. His captors were John S. Masterson, 64, and Roy Daugherty, 35. The gray-haired convict, who rejoined three of the other fugitives within the prison walls, was not questioned yesterday because of his weakened condition.

Sanford Bates, director of Federal prisons, who arrived yesterday from Washington, continued his investigation of the break. Warden White, who was shot in the arm by one of the escaped prisoners, was reported on the way to recovery.

Director Bates disclosed that four revolvers, a rifle and a shotgun constituting the armament of the convicts had been returned an didentified. He said that through serial numbers the Bureau of Investigation had undertaken to trace the purchase, transfer and delivery of the weapons.

The prison director said an investigation was being made of a theory that the weapons had been smuggled to the prisoners through a former guard, discharged last summer.

Sees Convict Out Window.

Masterson told yesterday how Thayer was captured.

Masterson glanced up from his newspaper at lunch in the house where he lives alone, looked out the window and saw the man about whom he had been reading—Earl Thayer.

"I was eating lunch right there by that window, reading the newspaper that told how bad Thayer was, when I looked up and saw a man go by with a rifle," Masterson said. "He was kind of stumbling

CLARENCE HOWARD LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW AND SON

Former Gets 75, Latter 25 Per Cent of Property Under Will of Steel Multimillionaire.

ASKS HEIRS TO PAY CERTAIN BEQUESTS

These Are to Relatives—Nothing for Charity, to Which Testator Gave Largely During Life.

The estate of Clarence H. Howard, multimillionaire steel manufacturer and large donor to education, philanthropy and Boy Scout work, is left to his widow and son by the terms of a will filed in Probate Court at Clayton today.

Mrs. Howard is to get 75 per cent of his holdings, and the son, Clarence H. Howard Jr., is to get the remaining 25 per cent. They were named executors without bond.

After a brief paragraph prescribing the disposal of his estate, the will continues that the testator has left with his heirs "a list of bequests which it is my wish they make for me out of the property I leave to them herewith."

Gave to Charity During Life.

Clarence Howard Jr. said these bequests are to various relatives of Mr. Howard and are relatively small as compared to the bulk of the estate itself.

"They are not bequests to charity," he said. "My father left no specific bequests to charity because he always adhered to the principle that it was more worthy to give generously during his lifetime, than after death.

"He found a distinct joy in giving largs sums to the enterprises of which he was a benefactor and he always felt that his charities were happier at receiving his donations while he was living than they would have felt had the disposal of his estate after death been the occasion for the gifts."

Notable Benefactions.

The principal object of Mr. Howard's benefactions was The Principia, a school for the children of Christian Scientists. He and Mrs. Howard gave $200,000 for the purchase of the site of the new Principia College at Elsah, Ill., and were also reputed to be the donors of a $1,000,000 college endowment fund. In addition he had made many other large gifts to the school and to various Christian Science activities.

To the Boy Scouts' national fund he was the donor of $100,000 in a single gift. He also gave the local Boy Scout organization $10,000 a year for several years, and presented it with its camp at Irondale, Mo. The Community Fund was also the beneficiary of many large gifts.

No announcement of the value of the estate has been made. An inventory will be filed later in Probate Court. Mr. Howard is understood to have made a substantial distribution of his wealth to his wife and son prior to his death.

The will, drawn on Dec. 2, 1928, was filed by Ethan A. H. Shepley, attorney.

BANK ROBBERS SHOOT WAY OUT WHEN CIVILIANS FIRE ON THEM

Highland (Ind.) Pastor Heads Group Attacking Marauders Who Flee With $3000.

By the Associated Press.

HIGHLAND, Ind., Dec. 15.—Three men held up the Highland State Bank today, taking $3000, then walked out to face a group of civilians armed with shotguns. They exchanged shots with the citizens, reached their automobile and fled over the Illinois line, a mile away, closely pursued.

An alarm given by the Rev. W. B. Young, who saw the robbers in the bank, gave the police and officers from Hammond, 10 miles away, time to organize and they arrived only a moment after the robbers had shot their way out of town. Dr. Young led the group with shotguns which exchanged shots with the robbers.

Car loads of officers and armed citizens raced out of town in pursuit, following the fugitives through Lansing, Ill.

Americans in British "Who's Who"

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Three Americans are included for the first time in the British "Who's Who" for 1932, one of these is the late Senator Dwight Morrow, who died after the volume had gone to press. The others are Bobby Jones and "Bill" Tilden, who is described as "journalist and author, also actor; three times world champion of tennis."

COINER CAUGHT BY BAD DIMES PUT IN CHURCH PLATE

Counterfeit Money Found in Room of Man Arrested in Caliente, Nev.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 15.—Counterfeit dimes in a church offertory plate led to the arrest of Peter Smith, 62, of Caliente, Nev., W. A. Merrill, United States Secret Service agent, reported here yesterday.

Efforts to trace counterfeit dimes in various Nevada cities were fruitless, he said, until it was found two of them were placed in the collection of a Caliente church each Sunday. A close watch resulted in Smith being placed under suspicion, Merrill stated, and his arrest disclosed some 400 of the spurious coins in his room. He was held under $2000 bond for the Federal grand jury at Carson City.

'ROXY'S' FATHER DIES LISTENING TO SON ON RADIO

Broadcaster Had Just Finished Appeal for Receiving Sets in Hospitals.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Gustave Rothafel died last night as he sat listening to the voice of his son, Roxy, appealing for aid to hospital patients.

The radio program, broadcast over station WMCA, was being given by "Roxy and His Gang." As Roxy finished his appeal for funds to place radio sets in hospitals he was called from the microphone to answer a telephone call. The call was notification that his father, 78 years old, had died suddenly as he sat, seemingly in perfect health, before the radio in his Brooklyn home.

The "Radio Scandals," as the program was called, was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn.

The elder Rothafel was born in Germany on Christmas day. He came to America as a young man, settling in Stillwater, Minn., where he established himself as an orthopedic shoemaker. His widow and another son, Max, survive.

NOLTE FINDS HARDLY ANYONE USES PEDESTRIAN TUNNEL

Foot Passengers Dodge Traffic in preference to Crossing Twelfth Street Underpass.

Comptroller Nolte has been making some practical observations in mass psychology. As a result, he has concluded the average citizen would rather dodge through traffic than walk up and down stairs to use a pedestrian tunnel under a busy street.

The Comptroller, who passed on the $16,000 appropriation for the city's first pedestrian tube, under Twelfth street, at the south side of Market street, had occasion to use this passage yesterday. It was opened last week. For ten minutes, about 4 p. m., Nolte watched, and no one used the tunnel, but many walked across the busy street.

The first such tunnel in the district was built recently by University City, beneath Delmar boulevard at Kingsland avenue. Nolte said a policeman out there told him: "All the grown-ups walk over the street, and if I were not here to make them use the tunnel all the kids would, too."

MAYOR MILLER IS GOING AWAY FOR 30-DAY REST

Has Been in Hospital Since Last Week and Is Losing Weight.

Mayor Miller, who has been ill, has decided to go away for a 30-day rest, his physician, Health Commissioner Starkloff, said today. Dr. Starkloff suggested that a quiet place be chosen, and the Mayor is thinking of California or Florida.

The Mayor has not been at City Hall since Dec. 2. Last week he entered Deaconess Hospital for X-ray examination, but no organic defect was found. It was stated that he was suffering from a cold and had been losing weight since his return from a European trip last spring. He is still in the hospital.

CHINA'S PRESIDENT RESIGNS 'TO KEEP NATION AT PEACE'

Chiang Kai-Shek Hopes Retirement Will Insure Internal Unity — Foreign Policies Under Fire.

STUDENTS WRECK FOREIGN OFFICE

Also Attack Headquarters of Nationalist Party in Protest Against Stand in Manchurian Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, Dec. 15.—President Chiang Kai-shek handed in his resignation from all the Government posts he held and the resignation was accepted late today.

Lin Sen, veteran member of the Kuomintang (Nationalist party), was named chairman of the Government, and Chen Ming-shu, prominent Nationalist military leader, was chosen chairman of the executive Yuan. This is one of the posts held by Chiang.

Lin was a member of the first Chinese Parliament after the revolution of 1911. Chen is President of the Kwantung provincial Government.

Marshal Chiang is going back to his own private residence near the mausoleum of Sun Yat-sen, first President of the Chinese republic.

Demonstration by Students.

A crowd of 600 Chinese students from Peiping stormed and wrecked the Foreign Office of the Government and then attacked the headquarters of the Kuomintang, where Government leaders, including President Chiang, were meeting.

The attack on the Kuomintang headquarters was halted by police who surrounded the building and opened fire over the heads of the students, causing them to withdraw, but not before many bricks and stones had been thrown through the windows. When they arrived at the headquarters the students demanded an interview with Chiang. This was refused and they attacked Chen.

The Peiping students came to Nanking, as did students from many other places in China, to protest against the Government's failure to take a stronger course against Japanese activities in Manchuria.

During the raid on the Foreign Office four minor officials were reported seriously injured as a result of rough handling by the students and many others were bruised as the crowd swept into the building. Foreign Minister Wellington Koo and his assistant, Vice Minister Lee, were absent, but their offices were wrecked.

Rifles Seized from Police.

Carrying rifles they had seized from the police in the outer court, the students rushed the main building, but were halted when another section of the police guard fired into the air.

They clamored for Chiang, but Chen appeared and told them Marshal Chiang was engaged in important deliberations. Enraged, the mob turned on Chen and injured him slightly. Then they fired on the police at the main entrance. In the return fire one student was wounded. Three others were arrested when the police were reinforced. There was an attempt to seize Chen after he had been hurt, but he was rescued by police.

The demonstration continued in front of the Foreign Office and the party headquarters until several veteran statesmen begged the students to leave. Shortly after noon they marched away.

Statement by Chiang.

Chiang stepped out, he said, in the interest of internal peace in China and because of the strong criticism to which his foreign policies had been subjected.

"I have tried to fulfill by obligations ever since I was made chairman of the National Government in 1928," said Chiang. He referred to the serious split in the Nanking Government last spring which resulted in the formation of the present Canton Government, composed of men who formerly had participated in the Nanking regime, and expressed the hope that the breach would be healed.

"My comrades at Canton said they would come to Nanking only on condition that I resign," he said. "This means that I must retire before peace and unity are restored.

"My original desire to carry on at least until my friends of Canton returned proved a stumbling block in the path of the nation's welfare.

"We have been criticised as lacking a responsible body for dealing with foreign relations. Since our unification has a strong bearing on our foreign relations, I decided to tender my resignation.

"My future actions will be governed by the demands of the national welfare. I have resigned

REALTY DEALER ROBBED OF $400 IN HIS OFFICE

Frank Miceli, 4733 Natural Bridge Av., Employe and Client Are Herded Into Washroom.

Frank Miceli, a real estate dealer of 4733 Natural Bridge avenue, was robbed of $400 by two armed men who entered the office shortly after noon today. The men had been to the office earlier in the day inquiring about a house to rent, Miceli said.

Miss Ruth Glynn, a bookkeeper, and Patrick O'Keefe, 4736 St. Louis avenue, a client, were forced into the washroom with Miceli. The robbers searched him twice before finding his wallet containing the money.

Two robbers of similar description held up Hudson McAllister, proprietor of a wholesale oil company at 7600 Hall street, and an employe at 11 o'clock this morning. They first inquired about employment and then drew revolvers. The robbers took $75 from McAllister and $11 from Leonard Gross, the employe, and then forced the two into the washroom and tied their hands behind their backs. In leaving the robbers took two rifles. In both robberies the men were said to be driving a green coupe.

CHILDREN HELP PAY TEACHERS

Draw Money From Banks to Buy Tax Anticipation Warrants.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—School children in suburban Oak Park are taking their savings out of banks in order to buy tax anticipation warrants which are being sold to raise funds to keep the schools open. Like Chicago, Oak Park has been having trouble getting money to run the schools due to a tax muddle, resulting froma property reassessment.

"If we sell enough 1930 warrants our 7000 children will continue their education without interruption, but if we don't and if the Legislature fails to help us we will be forced to close them," said James J. Garvey, president of the Oak Park Grade School Board.

BANKS ARRANGE PLAN TO ASSIST NEEDY RAILWAYS

Money to Be Advanced to Recently Organized Pool Without Waiting for Added Revenues.

(Copyright, 1931.)

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Substantial aid for needy railroads will be available in the near future, in fact much earlier than has been generally realized, it was learned in high banking quarters today.

While the increased freight rates granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission will probably not yield any considerable sum for at least six months, it was learned that leading New York banks have arranged to extend early assistance through a method worked out in connection with the formaton of the new Railroad Credit Corporation. This corporation has been formed for the pooling of funds which the increased rates are expected to yield, variously estimated at around $100,000,000 annually.

Railroad presidents and leading New York bankers have held several conferences on the question of speeding up relief. Representatives of the carriers said that speed was almost as essential as the question of getting a loan itself.

The bankers, some of whom two weeks ago showed their earnest desire to co-operate with the carriers during their present plight by agreeing to accept $100,000,000 of newly authorized New York Central bonds as collateral on approximately $50,000,000 of maturing bank loans, then worked out a joint recommendation.

Under this recommendation, the individual loan petitioner will file his application with the Railroad Credit Corporation.

Traffic and revenue figures, covering estimates for future months, will be compiled and if the corporation finds these justify the amount of the loan sought, the corporation will issue a due bill. This, in turn, will be acceptable to the banks entering the plan as security for a loan which will be advanced with minimum delay.

Bankers said today that this method would make the rate increase plan immediately effective in gaining needed assistance. They again voiced their confidence in the future of railroad earnings.

ENTERING WEDGE TO CANCELLATION, SAYS M'KELLAR

Charges Plan Is "Dole" to World Bankers; Republican Representative Accuses Hoover of "Underhand" Arrangement.

MILLS EXPLAINS PRESIDENT'S PLAN

Treasury Official Tells Committee in House Executive Proposed It to Ward Off Threatening Catastrophe.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. — The administration's reasons for proposing a one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts were outlined to the House Ways and Means Committee today by Under-Secretary Mills of the Treasury.

Meanwhile, hard words were being said about the Hoover proposal in the Senate.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee, a Democrat, said the desire of "our international bankers" to "put their interests ahead of the Government's" was back of it.

"They want these debts cancelled to make their own private debts surer," he said.

McKellar said cancellation of "all these billions" of public debts would be "a dole to the international banks."

"It is not onl a dole, but the most monstrous dole in history," he added.

Favors an Investigation.

The Tennessean praised the resolution introduced last week by Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, for an investigation of foriegn bond holdings of American bankers.

McKellar said the moratorium was the "entering wedge" for "cancellation of the foreign debts."

"Whenever these debts are canceled or lessened," he said, "it means removal of the burden from the foreign taxpayer to the American."

McKellar read a long list of loans made to France after the armistice.

Senator Smoot of Utah said he knew of no legislation which authorized those advances. This brought a sharp retort from Senator Glass (Dem.). Virginia, who was Secretary of the Treasury at that time.

"There was a definite authorization," Glass said, "and I'm astonished at the Senator from Utah."

Senator Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, usually a staunch administration supporter, charged that one of the chief sources of propaganda for cancellation of the war debts comes from bankers who hold foreign securities.

Reed said American loans to the allies were advanced "reluctantly and only for the purpose of winning the war." Later, he said, came a series of private loans made with full knowledge of the prior debts of the Government.

"Now to ask that some of these claims be given priority over intergovernmental debts which belong to all the citizens of the country," he asserted, "is a piece of unwarranted effrontery."

Presents a Statement.

Mills presented the Ways and Means Committee a financial statement of the sum involved in the plan. Including German army costs, he said, it came to $252,566,803.

"There is not a great deal to add to the general proposition set forth by the President," he said. "The world was confronted last June with the danger of a major catastrophe with incalculable consequences to the economic structure of all the people of the world which rose far above the technicalities of carrying out our debt agreements.

"In the light of all the facts, the President took the action he deemed essential. Everything which has followed has served but to confirm the accuracy of his judgment."

Mills reviewed the financial situation in Europe preceding the

RAIL PRESIDENTS NAME COMMITTEE FOR WAGE PARLEY

It Is Authorized to "Negotiate to Conclusion" With Union Representatives on Eastern Lines.

WESTERN GROUP ALSO TAKES ACTION

Suggests That Executives From All Parts of Country Join in Conference With Men.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Western railway presidents decided today to negotiate with union representatives on the matter of wage reduction, and suggested that executives from all parts of the country meet in New York on Friday to form a fully authorized committee.

In deciding to accept the invitation of organized railway labor to "negotiate to a conclusion," the issues of wage reduction and unemployment, the Western management followed the lead of the Eastern presidents, who appointed a committee of three yesterday for the same purpose.

Executives of Southern lines have been asked to meet in New York Friday and the Western presidents today suggested that that would be a good time for representatives of all of the three districts to get together.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Eastern railway presidents yesterday named a committee of three "to negotiate to a conclusion with the labor representatives" the questions of unemployment and wages.

While none of the presidents who attended the conference would elaborate on a statement issued by F. W. Leamy, vice president of the Delaware & Hudson and secretary of the Eastern presidents' conference, it was apparent some at least were pleased at the development.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, who was in Chicago during the meeting last week of 1500 union chairmen, answered all queries with the remark, "I am smiling."

It is believed that Willard carried to his colleagues a message from the labor leaders which caused them to withhold, at least temporarily, the posting of a 30-day notice required to affect wage reductions.

Possible Result of Arbitration.

Before the conference some of the presidents favored immediate posting of the notice. The question was believed, therefore, to have been argued during much of the meeting, with Mr. Willard leading the group favoring postponement until a committee, empowered to act, could meet with a similar committee of labor representatives.

Previous conferences between the presidents and union chairmen, at which no agreement was reached, had been conducted by committees without authority to take definite action.

It was pointed out that the railway presidents have suggested that the unions accept voluntarily a 10 per cent reduction, arguing that the cost of living has declined in recent months enough to make their real earnings equal even then what they were when commodity prices were higher. It was also said the union leaders were somewhat apprehensive lest a board of arbitration might order a wage reduction larger than the 10 per cent asked by the presidents.

The voluntary reduction would be made for a stipulated period of not less than a year, whereas a reduction ordered by arbiters probably would contain no provision for reinstatement of wages to present levels.

Members of the committee named are Willard, John J. Pelley, president of the New Haven, and C. E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad.

Quick Negotiations Urged.

Various rail officials are said to have prepared 30-day notices canceling their labor contracts. These, however, will not be posted, it is understood, until the contemplated negotiations are concluded.

Executives of the carriers are urging speed in calling the joint wage conference. At the recent gathering of brotherhood representatives in Chicago, it was agreed that a union committee would have to get authority from union chapters to conclude any general agreement. It was thought that Jan. 7 was the earliest date that the union men could meet the employers.

The rail officials, however, are said to think the proposed joint conference can be held not later than two weeks from today. They say that every day means adding to the growing weight of their financial burdens and that something must be done soon for their relief.

DEBT MORATORIUM BITTERLY DENOUNCED IN BOTH HOUSES

President's proposal. He used notes and spoke as though delivering a speech.

"If the situation had kept up, the Reichsbank would have been forced to lower its legal reserve requirement, and later, probably have gone off the gold standard," he said. He added that the President's announcement averted "a major catastrophe."

Touching upon the point of bankers' interest, Mills said: "Admitting any benefit to the banker—which I don't—I would say what of it? American banks are institutions in which the American people deposit their savings. To destroy them is to destroy the savings of the American people."

Debate In the House.

At about the same time, Representative McFadden (Rep.), Pennsylvania, was assailing the moratorium in biting language in the House.

He called the moratorium and the arrangements by President Hoover "underhanded" and "false and insincere humanitarianism," and charged the German budget, for the sake of appearances, was "doctored and left unbalanced" before Mr. Hoover was elected.

"Britain Was Ready to Pay."

As debate went ahead in the Senate, Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, said he had information that Great Britain and other debtor nations "had the money all ready to pay yesterday, but didn't do so because our Government didn't seem to want the money."

An installment of the debts was due today.

"All of these debtors," McKellar asserted, "are able to pay."

"I can't see any justice in declaring a moratorium on the honest debts of foreign nations when we are unwilling to declare a moratorium on indebtedness of the American farmers who have mortgages on their farms."

McKellar then assailed the proposal of Smoot, that debtor nations be allowed to pay in silver. "The Senator from Utah offers a bill to cancel these debts without anyone knowing anything about it," he said, pointing out the present low price of silver.

Prefers Silver to Nothing.

This brought Smoot to his feet with the statement that "as between not getting anything and getting silver, I prefer the silver."

McKellar said that, "as silver is now worth about 29 cents an ounce, the naive, kindly proposal of the genial Senator from Utah would cancel just three-fourths of all debts."

To this Smoot replied that his plan called for acceptance of silver at the regular market price.

The Tennesseean pictured Smoot, "a former leader in the cause of sound money, asking that American debt be paid by foreigners in a depreciated currency.

"He is now in favor of debasing and depreciatin ga currency which once he worked so hard and spoke so eloquently in favor of preserving from debasement."

Situation as to Germany.

Meanwhile Mills was telling the Ways and Means Committee that from Jan. 1 to July 1, $850,000,000 was withdrawn from German short term credit by foreign nations.

The House committee hearing is intended to be short. Collier wants to lay the moratorium plan with a report before the House day after tomorrow. He predicts approval within a week, despite that open debate on the floor has disclosed some stiff opposition. Collier has said he approves the moratorium in its essentials.

After Mills, the committee sought to hear from the State Department. Dr. Herbert Feis, an expert on the subject, was chosen to appear, and Secretary Stimson, who had held himself ready if wnted, was asked today to testify.

The Democratic joint policy committee today determined that the Hoover moratorium was not subject matter for party consideration and to leave it open to the personal views of the Democratic members. This decision was made known in a statement by Speaker Garner and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader.

Senator Smoot has called the Finance Committee of the Senate to meet tomorrow to consider the moratorium ratification resolution.

CHINA'S PRESIDENT RESIGNS 'TO KEEP NATION AT PEACE'

but I will continue to fulfill my duties as a member of the Kuomingtang and as a citizen of China."

Chiang, 46-year-old Cantonese who was Commander in Chief of the Nationalist forces in the Chinese Civil War, was elected President of the National Government in October, 1928, and was re-elected in June, 1931.

In 1911 he was studying at Tokio Military College when a revolution began in China. He abandoned his studies and became secretary to Sun, later joining the troops in the field in time to participate in the storming of Shanghai. There followed a few years of obscurity, but in 1923 he reappeared as Chief of Staff to Sun, and three years later, having become a member of the General Executive Committee of the revolutionary executive party, he emerged as Commander in Chief of the Northern expedition of the Canton troops.

In 1927 dissatisfaction with his policies became so strong that he resigned all his offices and retired to private life. Within three months he was back in public life and ever since has been in the lead of the Nationalist drive for power.

While the League of Nations' Council was formulating its Manchurian policy approved only last week by both China and Japan, Chiang asserted that if the League failed to settle the dispute China would resort to war even if war should bankrupt the nation for 50 years.

LONDON MOUNTED POLICE CHARGE CROWD OF UNEMPLOYED

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 15. — Mounted police with swinging clubs charged a gathering of hundreds of unemployed in the fashionable west-end district today when disorders started after a meeting in Hyde Park.

The trouble began when a red banner became entangled in the wheels of a taxicab and the chauffeur refused to stop. As the police charged, a long line of movie fans waiting outside a theater scattered screaming.

One policeman was pulled from his horse and several persons were hurt.

NATIONAL BANK IN BOSTON AND 9 AFFILIATES CLOSE

Aggregate Deposits of Concerns Affected $58,700,000, According to Their Latest Statements.

By the Associated Press..

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—Nine Massachusetts banking houses with aggregate deposits of $58,700,000 according to their latest statements, were closed today. The list includes four National banks and five State banks. The central figure is the Federal National Bank of Boston, which has five city branches and with which all the the other banks closed were affiliated.

The Federal National Bank, whose directors voted to ask thhe Comptroller of Currency to take charge after runs at the bank and its branches yesterday, had deposits, Sept. 29, of $28,235,238.

The other banks and their latest available statements of deposits follow: Middlesex National Bank, Lowell, $4,000,000; State National Bank, Lynn, $2,013,565; Gloucester National Bank, Bancroft Trust Co., Worcester, $5,876,474; Lawrence Trust Co., Lawrence, $9,555,926; Inman Trust Co., Cambridge, $3,808,412; Brockton Trust Co., Brockton, $1,508,753; Salem Trust Co., Salem, $2,115,530.

Gov. Ely, in a statement, said that with proper measures, a plan for the speedy reopening of the institutions could be arranged and further said he had instructed Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy to proceed with that end in view.

Three savings banks in East Boston and South Boston experienced small runs today. They are independent of the group affected by today's closings and officers sought to assure depositors that their funds were safe.

President Daniel C. Mullooney of the Federal National Bank expressed the opinion that with careful handling of resources, depositors in his bank would receive 100 cents on the dollar. The Federal National was not a member of the Boston Clearing House. It held State deposits of $729,889.

National Bank at Marion, O., Closed; Ex-Cashier Missing.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, O., Dec. 15.—Henry B. Hane, president of the Marion National Bank, said apparent irregularities in the accounts of his son, H. W. Hane, former cashier, caused the closing of the bank today.

The elder Hane issued a statement announcing that the directors had placed the bank in the hands of the Federal Comptroller of Currency and that national bank examiners were checking the records.

"The nature and the amount of the apparent defalcations have not yet been determined," the statement said. Hane, cashier, in whose accounts the confusion in records has been found, resigned as an officer of the bank last week. He left the city at that time and his whereabouts are not now known.

The bank's deposits are listed at $143,094.

BANDRUPTCY PETITION FILED

Against Alyce Shops, Inc., Operating Dress Stores.

A bankruptcy petition against the Alyce Shops, Inc., operating dress stores at 812 Olive street, 7372 Manchester avenue, and in Collinsville, was filed in Federal Court today by three creditors with claims totaling $589.

The petitioners allege that the company made a preferential payment to another creditor last month. Officers of the company could not be reached.

TILSON ADVOCATES STATE CONTROL OF LIQUOR BUSINESS

Republican Leader Urges New Amendment Taxing Sales—Would Banish Saloon for All Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A constitutional amendment "forever prohibiting" the open saloon, but at the same time providing for the sale of intoxicating beverages under a dispensary system controlled by the states was proposed in the House today by Representative Tilson (Rep.), Connecticut. The amendment would give Congress authority to tax the manufacture and sale of intoxicants.

Tilson, former Republican floor leader of the House, and recognized as being close to the administration on questions other than prohibition, said:

"If the constitutional amendment I have proposed shall be submitted to the states and ratified by the required number, I believe it will put the prohibition question on the way to a final solution so far as the Federal Government is concerned.

"The adoption of the proposed amendment would remove from Washington, where it does not belong, the question of dealing with this age-old problem, and bring it back to the states, where, under our dual system of government, it properly belongs."

UPROAR IN PRISON, TROUBLE-MAKERS PUT IN DUNGEON

along, awkward like, and he appeared awful weak.

"He went around to the back door of my house and knocked. I got my gun, a .32-caliber pistol, and went out the front door around the same way he did, right after him. He was looking through the back door and I stuck my head around the corner and said, 'hullo.'

"He said, 'Oh, I thought nobody lived here. I ain't a ribber and I didn't want to break in the house. I am an old bum and I'm broke. I'd like something to eat and would like to stay with you a while until I can get on my feet. I couldn't find any work. I'll sell you this gun cheap. I found it on the highway. Must've dropped out of a car.'"

Masterson then told him, "I've got guns enough and that gun's too heavy for me anyhow."

"He begged me to let him in and boil up some coffee and I told him I only had a heating stove and didn't have any coffee, anyway," continued Masterson. "I had him pretty well sized up by that time, knew he was the man they were looking for. I didn't like the looks of his shirt but he didn't have on prison shoes."

Masterson persuaded Thayer to start with him to a neighbor's house (Jacquenot) with the assurance that there they could boil some coffee.

"About a block up the road," Masterson went on, "the old man said 'I'm about all in and can't go any farther.' He pulled a small bottle out of his pocket and took a drink. It looked like blue ink to me but the officers said it was denatured alcohol.

"I told him Jacquenot wasn't home and I'd just stop Dougherty," who had eaten lunch at Masterson's house and was then riding a tractor down Lecompton road. "I hailed Daugherty so Thayer couldn't see me and told Daugherty after he stopped about 100 yards past us that this man wanted to sell his gun.

"Daugherty asked the price and was told $10, and he asked the old man to let him look at it. The man handed it over to him and that really relieved my mind.

"Daugherty asked if the gun was any good and the old man said, 'Sure, try it.' Instead, however, Daugherty slipped a cartridge out of it and hurriedly replaced it.

"Then we stood there a while and decided to take him back to my place. We told him we'd get him warm there."

A neighbor, Albert Mallody, was instructed to call Sheriff Roy Murray. Daugherty stood guard outside with the rifle while Masterson entertained the escaped convict inside.

"Daugherty went out to try to flag down a car, because we wanted to take him over to the Federal penitentiary, but nobody would stop," Masterson continued.

"Well, he was sitting in here when the Sheriff came. He told the officers he was pretty cold and sick, about all in with the rheumatism. The Sheriff asked him if he wanted to go back and he said 'Back where?'

"The Sheriff said, 'Well, we'll take you where it's warm,' and they went to the Federal prison."

Bethlehem Steel Volunteers Aid To Men Not Making Living Wage

Guarantees Work Relief at Lackawanna Plant, Where Unemployment Suffering Has Been Serious.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has volunteered to "give work relief to all employes on its Lackawanna (N. Y.) payroll who are receiving less than a living wage," Jesse Isidor Straus, chairman of the temporary emergency relief administration, announced yesterday.

Straus said that Eugene Grace, president, and the entire Bethlehem management had co-operated fully in relieving the situation in Lackawanna, one of the so-called "black spots" where unemployment suffering was most serious.

"I only hope," said Straus, "that other industrial organizations will see fit, whenever they are financially able, to follow this lead. It not only is to be praised from a humanitarian viewpoint, but, in my judgment, this type of endeavor will also do much to stimulate and encourage the revival of purchasing power and in this way, perhaps, assist in the general economic recovery."

Of Lackawanna's total population of 23,948, the last census listed 3949 as gainfully employed. More than 7000 of these were on the Bethlehem payroll, which includes all employes, whether receiving wages or not, who have been employed by the corporation and have not been specifically discharged or otherwise removed.

The statement asserted the "stagger system," inaugurated early in the general business decline to spread available work as widely as possible, has about reached the limit of its usefulness."

"It has been found," it said, "that a large number of men are now getting less than is necessary to sustain life. The Bethlehem Corporation realizes that it has an obligation toward its employes to keep them from becoming relief charges upon the City of Lackawanna. It therefore volunteers to give work relief to all employes on its Lackawanna payroll who are receiving less than a living wage."

It was said the company had appropriated $100,000 for a start on the new program. The City of Lackawanna has appropriated $100,000 and $60,000 has been provided by the state administration.

SANITARY BOARD PAID $3851 FOR TRIPS NEVER MADE

Witness Tells of Padding His Expense Account in Chicago Drainage District Disclosures.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—New evidence of alleged padding of expense accounts by "investigators" of Illinois Valley flood claims was introduced in the $5,000,000 sanitary district conspiracy trial today.

Samuel Reed, a photographer, testified he received $3851 in expense accounts covering 62 trips to Beardstown, Ill.

"Did you make any trips to Beardstown?" he was asked.

"No."

He was also on the payroll for 1927 at a salary of $250, later increased to $300, Reed testified. His salary was paid up to Nov. 30, 1928.

The expense accounts were made out every Saturday, he said, on instructions from "a certain office."

Another witness who collected $700 salary as legal investigator for the district was Joseph Bradac. He testified his duties were to ride the elevated lines and make sure political advertisements had not been damaged or removed.

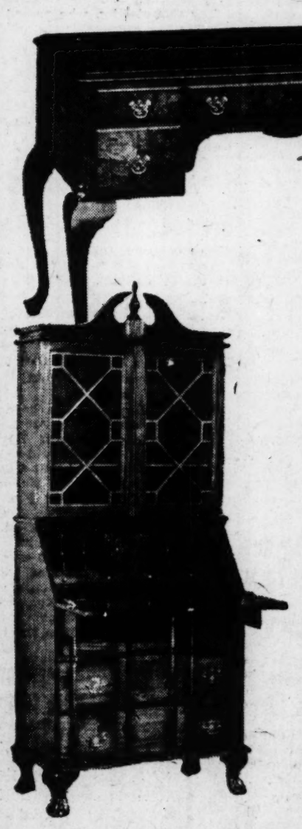

Mrs. Othelia Myhrman, founder of the American Daughters of Sweden and decorated twice by the King of Sweden, testified she drew a salary of $1800 from the district but did no work.

A man who said he drew pay from the Sanitary District while he was touring Europe for pleasure and another who said he was sponsored for a job by Gov. Emmerson then a gubernatorial candidate, furnished the highlights yesterday at the trial.

John Schaeffer testified that Timothy J. Crowe, former district president and chief of the nine defendants, had procured a job for him at $250 a month in the law department. Through Crowe's further help, he said, he was placed on an expense account as an Illinois floor claim investigator.

OSCAR JOHNSON IN COURT SAYS MAN IS KIDNAPER

Identifies Felix F. McDonald as One of Band Who Beat and Robbed Him Near St. Albans.

FIRST WITNESS CALLED BY STATE

Defendant Charged With Holdup With Deadly Weapon as Result of Attack on Youth.

Felix F. McDonald was identified in court at Clayton today by Oscar Johnson as one of two men who abducted, beat and robbed him on the Melrose road near the St. Albans estate of his wealthy mother, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, on last Aug. 3.

Johnson, the first witness called by the State in the trial of McDonald on a charge of robbery with a deadly weapon, pointed to McDonald when asked if either of his assailants were in court. Bart Davit, the second defendant, had obtained a separate trial.

Johnson, who said he is 26 years old, and lives at 38 Portland place, gave the following account of the holdup:

"I was driving on the Melrose road, north of Manchester road, about 12:30 p. m. on the day in question, when I started to pass two men, who appeared to be fixing a tire on an automobile. The men jumped into the road, one covering me with a sawed-off shotgun, and the other with a revolver. I stopped and got out, and reached in my pocket and remarked, 'here is my money, and there is the car,' indicating my Cadillac roadster.

Threatened With Shooting.

"The larger fellow, who had the shotgun, said, 'We dont want that; get back in the car.' I said, 'the hell I will,' and he said, 'You better do what you are told, or I'll shoot you in the stomach.'

"The small fellow took the wheel and the big one put taped goggles over my eyes, and we started off. I tried to push the goggles off my face and he pushed them down again several times. Then he told me to stick my head under the dashboard.

"I tried that, but it wouldn't work. Then we passed Kreinkamp's store. I kicked the ignition key, and started to yell. The big fellow, McDonald, who was tusseling with me, remarked 'This is the worst I ever had a hold of.' The little fellow said, 'Stop fighting, or I'll dump this car over!' I told him to go ahead, that I didn't care. The big one said, 'Don't do that; go on down the road a way and we will work on this baby.'

Beaten With Shotgun.

"They stopped the machine, dragged me out and started milling me. I guess they didn't get so far with their fists, for the larger fellow started beating me with the shotgun. He split my lip, chipped several teeth, and put four gashes in my head before I went down on my hands and knees. While I was in that position the man with the shotgun reached into the inside pocket of my coat and took out my purse, and a patent pencil."

Johnson then related that the robbers went in one direction while he stumbled along the opposite way until he came to the home of Leo Stearns, and was taken to Barnes Hospital by Harvey White, a visitor at the Stearns farm.

Shown a pair of taped goggles and a shotgun, recovered near the scene of the attack, Johnson said they resembled the articles he had described in his testimony.

Defense to Present Alibi.

Former State Senator A. E. Gardner, defense counsel, told the jury in his opening statement that McDonald will present an alibi.

"We will show by persons who know McDonald that he was in Wellston until 10:30 a. m. on Aug. 3. The State will introduce witnesses who will testify that the men who held up Johnson waited for him near St. Albans from 8:3 a. m."

Gardner included in his statement a reference to the eviction of the Brown family last summer from an island in the Missouri River near St. Albans, after the island was purchased by Johnson's mother. He described in some detail how the Browns were forced to leave the island by Sheriff Groth of St. Charles County, who went there with a force of deputies armed with machine guns and other firearms.

Holdup Charge Questioned.

Gardner questioned the State's contention that Johnson was held up, stating that the men refused to accept their victim's offer to take his money and automobile. He said the defense would also show that Johnson's first explanation of the affair was, "I had a fight with two fellows."

In support of his client's alibi, Gardner said testimony would be introduced to show that McDonald and Davit rode to Pond, St. Louis County, on a truck after leaving Wellston, and were arrested while walking near the scene of the hold-up three hours after Johnson arrived at the Stearns farm.

"The officers just picked up the first two men that might answer the description of Johnson's assailants," the attorney said.

Mrs. Culbertson and Lenz Discuss 6th Night's Play

Great Excitement and Commotion as Challengers Come Up From Behind and Momentarily Take Lead—Room Ordered Cleared.

Following are descriptions of last night's play in the 150-rubber contract bridge match between Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, written by Mrs. Culbertson and Lenz:

By Mrs. Josephine Culbertson.
(Copyright, 1931.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — Last night we started our sixth session and thirty-fourth rubber with 4840 points against us and although Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby are powerful opponents, we were not worried.

We started the play with the modest hope of chiseling down our opponents' lead by a couple of thousand points and would have been satisfied had we gained a few hundred. We won six straight rubbers, which wiped out the 4840-point lead and, with the help of Jacoby's set of two on the first hand of the last rubber, gave us plus 745.

It was a very exciting moment. Again I felt a commotion behind the press screen, and once more my husband ordered the room cleared. Lenz cracked a few jokes.

Before the next deal my husband scribbled a note which he passed to me. I read, "darling, you are wonderful, but a la guerre, comme a la guerre—do not be demoralized by success." After this sound warning he immediately proceeded to make a few costly blunders himself. Here is one of his costliest errors:

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 d'mond	Double	2 clubs
2 hearts	2 spades	Pass	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	3 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

When the hand came up, our opponents had scored a game and were 60 on their second game. We had a partial score of 90. Culbertson passed. Lenz bid a diamond and I doubled. Jacoby bid two clubs and Culbertson two hearts. Lenz then bid two spades, which I passed, and which Mr. Jacoby passed, but Culbertson skated over thin ice and bid three hearts. Jacoby bid three spades and all passed.

I opened with the king of hearts. On analysis I should perhaps have opened a trump, but Culbertson could have saved the situation. Lenz won with the ace and returned his knave, which I won with the queen. This established the 10-spot of hearts in the dummy on which I felt Lenz had very cleverly planned to get a discard.

Fearing that he intended to get rid of a losing club, I led a club instead of a trump. This Lenz took with his singleton ace and led a low diamond, which I could have taken with my ten. Culbertson, however, overtook my ten with his queen—for some mysterious reason of his own. He also failed to lead a trump but returned a club. I made a mental note and added this hand to my stock of ammunition, to use when Culbertson presents his "crime sheet," on which he writes down all of my errors of bidding and play and a few of his own.

All factors being equal, the odds against winning five straight rubbers are 31 to 1. In the sixth rubber tonight, we lost the rubber premium, but our penalty points were so large that technically we won the rubber by more than 300 points. We then lost the seventh and last rubber, which gave our opponents a lead of 15 points, after a total play of 40 rubbers, a remarkable result.

The remarkable feature of the session was that honor cards broke about even. Opponents led us with aces, while we led with kings. Distribution, however, favored us and the types of hands fitted in perfectly with the "approach-forcing" system.

Lenz and Jacoby have held 470 aces and 445 kings to our 438 and 463. Last night they held 89 aces and 76 kings; we held 87 and 100.

Last Hand of the Session.

On the first deal of rubber No. 38, the last one of the session, Lenz and Jacoby cleverly forced us to a five-spade contract which we could have made except for a fine lead by Jacoby. We could have set our opponent's five-diamond contract by one trick, or, at most, two tricks, which doubled would have given us only 100 or 200 points. I felt that, in view of the bidding, we had a fine chance for game, and that the game was worth more than the penalty. After my partner's penalty double, therefore, I bid five spades.

The hand follows:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
	1 Club	Pass	1 Spade
2 Diam.	2 Spades	3 D.	4 Spades
5 Diam.	Double	Pass	5 Spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Had Jacoby chosen the king of diamonds as his opening lead, instead of the heart king, we would have made our game.

A Very Subtle Bid.

In the following hand, Culbertson made a very subtle bid but was blamed by observers who were too obvious:

GIRL ROBBER'S AGE TO BE DETERMINED FOR PROSECUTION

If She Is 17 She Will Be Regarded as Adult—If 16, Her Case Will Go to Juvenile Court.

Whether Louise Showalter, girl robber, is to be treated as a juvenile delinquent or an adult criminal was in question today.

The girl, held at Page Boulevard Police Station on her admission that she accompanied an armed young man in a filling station robbery and took the attendant's money, insists that she is 17 years old. Her mother, Mrs. Stanley Elliott, 4709 Kensington place, says the girl was 16 her last birthday, which was in July.

If the girl's statement as to her age is accepted, she is amenable to the state laws, which provide punishment up to the death penalty for first-degree robbery with a deadly weapon. If she is held to be less than 17 years old, her case could be handled in the Juvenile Court, which has wide discretionary powers.

The girl, whose name was given by the police yesterday as Showalt, at that time was insisting on another name, which she had given when arrested. She seems determined to stick to James Choate, 23, who has been identified with her in two filling station robberies, and whom she says she accompanied in the one robbery which she admits. Choate and Benjamin Farrar, 26, are held at Page station.

James Crane, 24, who was arrested Sunday with the girl in Choate's automobile, was released last evening for lack of evidence connecting him with any robbery.

The girl, brown-haired and with small, attractive features, took an I-don't-care attitude in talking with reporters and other visitors. She told various stories as to her family life, one statement being that her father had supported her in high school at Alton, but that she had not seen him for four years. She had not lived with her mother and stepfather recently.

"Everybody's been against me," was one of her declarations. "I've been out of a job and broke." She told of meeting Choate at a dance, and of the invitation, which developed into a dare, that she go out with him for a holdup. She told of going with Choate to the filling station at 343 South Vandeventer avenue, late on the night of Dec. 2, and of taking the attendant's money-changer, reaching around him to get it as Choate held him up.

Besides the Vandeventer avenue filling station employe, another man, held up in like manner two nights later at the filling station at 6870 Easton avenue, has identified both Choate and the girl. Jerome McDaniel, robbed in his hamburger stand at 5316 Easton avenue the night of Dec. 1, has not made a positive identification, and said the girl who helped in robbing him wore a black coat. Such a coat was found among the girl's effects in a room on Hamilton avenue.

"I never had a gun in my hand in my life," the girl insisted, in denying that she took part in more than one robbery. Robberies in which a young woman was reported as figuring, in the last two weeks, included the two at filling stations, three at hamburger stands and one on a Market street car in Richmond Heights, in which the conductor's money changer was taken.

STOLE TO PAY CREDITORS, GETS ONE TO TEN YEARS

Oil Salesman Admits Embezzlement of $2500 From East St. Louis Employer.

Carl Kempen, oil salesman, who told City Judge Borders he had "robbed Peter to pay Paul," received an indeterminate sentence of one to 10 years in the State penitentiary at Chester, Ill., yesterday in East St. Louis on his plea of guilty of operating a confidence game.

Over a period of six months, Kemper admitted, he stole $2500 from his employer, Otto M. Lindenberger, proprietor of the Lindy Oil Corporation, 5000 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, by collecting money from customers in Illinois and Indiana and billing their purchases "credit" to his office.

He said he had robbed the company to pay his creditors.

Louis Bryant, Negro, of East St. Louis, was sentenced to six months in the State penal farm at Vandalia for assault to murder Ernest Cobb, another East St. Louis Negro, with a shotgun Oct. 1.

PRINCE NICHOLAS REPORTED TO HAVE RENOUNCED BRIDE

Said to Have Agreed With King Carol of Rumania That Morganatic Marriage Was Illegal.
By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 15. —Prince Nicholas was reported tonight to have agreed with King Carol that his recent morganatic marriage was illegal and to have renounced Mme. Jan Lucia Deletj, his bride.

Mme. Deletj, it was believed, will receive a villa and grounds at Filipesiu, recently purchased by Nicholas and transformed into a park.

Nicholas and Carol met today and a complete reconciliation regarding the marriage is said to have taken place. Carol again conferred on him all the military and civil offices he formerly held.

Nicholas went to the King's palace in civilian dress. He and his brother had an interview lasting more than an hour and at the close Carol was reported to have embraced Nicholas, accompanying him to the anteroom.

Jacoby took a chance and led low from king and six of spades through strength.

On hand No. 222, when the enemy had a game and a part score on another Mrs. Culbertson, scoreless, was doubled in an effort to make six hearts and was set two. The enemy had bid a little slam in clubs, which could have been made. The hand:

C. F. LUTZ, 77, GETS DIVORCE ON CROSS BILL

Makes $20,000 Settlement—Gave 11 Rasons Why He Deserved Decree.

Charles F. Lutz, 77 years old, who filed a crossbill recently setting forth 11 reasons why he thought a divorce should be granted to him instead of to his 34-year-old third wife, obtained a decree today after giving Mrs. Lutz a cash settlement of $20,000.

However, before Circuit Judge Green would grant the decree, he required Lutz to present considerable evidence although he had been notified of the settlement.

"She treated me worse than a dog," Lutz said on the witness stand. "She used to curse me every day and I soon realized I was done. I couldn't sleep at night and it made a nervous wreck out of me."

Lutz's account of the indignities he said his young wife heaped on him started with the day of their marriage, Oct. 7, 1930, when Mrs. Lutz on the way home from their elopement to Edwardsville, stopped the automobile and demanded that he make a new will naming her as executor.

Nine days later, he testified, she came home late one evening, failed to prepare dinner and told him when he asked for something to eat that she had decided to divorce him.

In all, he said, she told him eight times that she was going to sue for divorce, but the first time he learned she had appealed to the courts was one day when he was writing checks to pay for $36 worth of dresses which she had purchased.

"She came in," he said, "and told me not to mind, that she was going to take the dresses back. Just then the doorbell rang. It was a Deputy Sheriff. He had a notice of a suit she had filed against me for separate maintenance."

Mrs. Lutz, with a fur coat over her arm, paced up and down the corridor outside of Judge Green's court, until her lawyer came out and announced that the decree had been granted. Lutz divorced his second wife in April, 1929. She was a sister of his first wife, who died in 1927. The last Mrs. Lutz, he said, became acquainted with him by sending him cards, signed "Admirer," and following them with a letter telling him where "Admirer" could be found.

F. W LEHMANN ESTATE VALUED AT $783,250

Several Stocks of No Par Value Not Listed in Inventory.

The estate of Frederick W. Lehmann, widely known St. Louis lawyer, who died Sept. 12, is valued at $783,250 in addition to considerable stock holdings of no par value, in an inventory filed today in Probate Court.

In the listed estate, Liberty Loan bonds make up $670,000 of the total. The listed stocks, amounting to $99,000, are shares in the National Candy Co. amounting to $40,000; Pierce Building Leasehold Co., $25,000; Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., $20,000; Mississippi Valley Trust Co., $7500; Boatmen's National Bank, $4500, and oil stocks.

Other items are life insurance, $10,000; cash, $3150; chattels, $1000, and a $100 bond in the Liederkranz Club. The no par value stock is 5700 shares of Burroughs Adding Machine Co., quoted at $11 a share on yesterday's market; 60 shares of the Bank of Commerce Liquidating Co., 68 shares in the Merchants-Laclede Surety Co. and 10 shares in the State National Security Co. No real estate is listed in the inventory.

Mr. Lehmann's will left his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Nora Stark Lehmann, and his three sons, Sears, Frederick W., and John S. Lehmann. Frederick W. Lehmann lives in Des Moines, Ia., and his brothers and mother in St. Louis. Mrs. Lehmann was named executor of the estate.

POLICE LIEUT. MISSIMORE DIES AFTER OPERATION

Peritonitis Develops After Rupture of Appendix; On the Force Since 1908.

Police Lieut. John E. Missimore, 52 years old, died at Missouri Baptist Hospital today of peritonitis resulting from a ruptured appendix.

Lieut. Missimore was taken to the hospital on Dec. 3 by his brother, Dr. Louis E. Missimore, for an emergency operation.

Missimore joined the police force in June, 1908, and was appointed a Lieutenant in April, 1923, serving in Central District until last March, when he was transferred to Newstead District. He lived at 3715 Wyoming street with his wife, Florence, and their two sons.

Burial will take place at Hillsboro, Ill., Missimore's former home, at a time to be decided later.

INVENTOR WINS PATENT SUIT AGAINST EASTERN FIRMS

$153,553 Damages Awarded to Man Who Devised Push-Button for Cameras.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Damages of $153,553 against the Eastman Kodak Co. of New York and the Eastman Kodak Stores, Inc., of Philadelphia, were awarded by a Federal jury yesterday to Charles B. Gray, an inventor of Millbourne, a suburb.

Gray had sought $500,000 damages, alleging infringement of one of his patents, and asked that any judgment awarded him be trebled under the "unfair trade" clauses of the anti-trust laws. Whether the jury verdict will be trebled will be decided by Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, before whom the suit was tried.

The inventor alleged the company unlawfully used his ideas for the push-button mechanism for opening camera shutters, in place of the bulb-pressure method. The company contended Gray's patent was not valid on the ground that other inventors had the same idea before he obtained his patent in 1919.

SUIT TO FORCE BANKS TO RELEASE WABASH DEPOSITS

Court Orders First National and Mercantile-Commerce to Show Cause for Holding Up Funds.

The First National Bank and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. will present legal arguments before Federal Judge Davis next Monday, as to their right to retain deposits of Wabash railroad funds amounting to $617,545, as security for loans to the railroad company, now in receivership. In past railroad receiverships here, such funds have been held to be part of the railroads' assets, and not subject to levy by the banks.

According to a petition filed yesterday afternoon by Nat S. Brown, counsel for the receivers, the First National Bank made a loan of $1,000,000 to the Wabash Aug. 19, due one year later, or Aug. 19, 1932. Railroad stocks were deposited with the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. as collateral on the loan. Since the receivership, however, the bank has stated its purpose to retain $559,805 of the sum of $724,805 which the Wabash had on deposit with the bank, as further security for the loan. The bank released the remaining $165,000 of the deposit for payment of salary and material accounts.

The Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., the petition sets forth, loaned the railroad $500,000 at the same time, on a note which matures Aug. 19, 1932, and which is secured by collateral. It is seeking to retain the road's deposit of $57,740 as further security for the loan.

As the notes are not in default, the petition alleges that the banks, in withholding the deposits, are violating the receivership order, in which Judge Davis directed the receivers to take charge of the company, its properties and assets. In response to the petition, Judge Davis directed the banks to show cause Monday why they should not turn over the deposits to the receivers.

The notes given to the two St. Louis banks are part of a series aggregating $9,750,000. The collateral posted by the Wabash for the entire loan is stated to consist of 258,929 shares of Lehigh Valley Railroad common stock, 8256 shares of New Jersey, Indiana and Illinois Railroad Co. capital stock, 1217 shares of American Refrigerator Transit Co. and $508,000 first lien 50-year 4 per cent terminal bonds of the Wabash, due in 1954.

STANLEY M'CORMICK REPORTED COMPETENT TO MANAGE HOME

Said to Be Directing All Details of His Estate at Santa Barbara.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—The condition of Stanley McCormick, wealthy Californian who was declared mentally incompetent 25 years ago, has improved to such an extent that he has assumed management of his big estate on the Western coast, a report received by Probate Judge Henry Horner said. The report came from the Board of Personal Conservators appointed for McCormick.

The Conservators said McCormick was in constant consultation with workmen and architects constructing a new wing to his home at Santa Barbara, and that he was handling even the smallest details of the management on his property.

McCormick's wife is seeking, in Cook County courts, to have herself named sole conservator of his estate.

Indicted for Alien Quota Fraud.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Carmen Ferraro Sr., head of the International Grand Opera School of Chicago, was indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud. The indictment alleged he advertised widely he could get aliens into the country as non-quota citizens by representing them as students of opera.

Salvador Junta Dissolved.

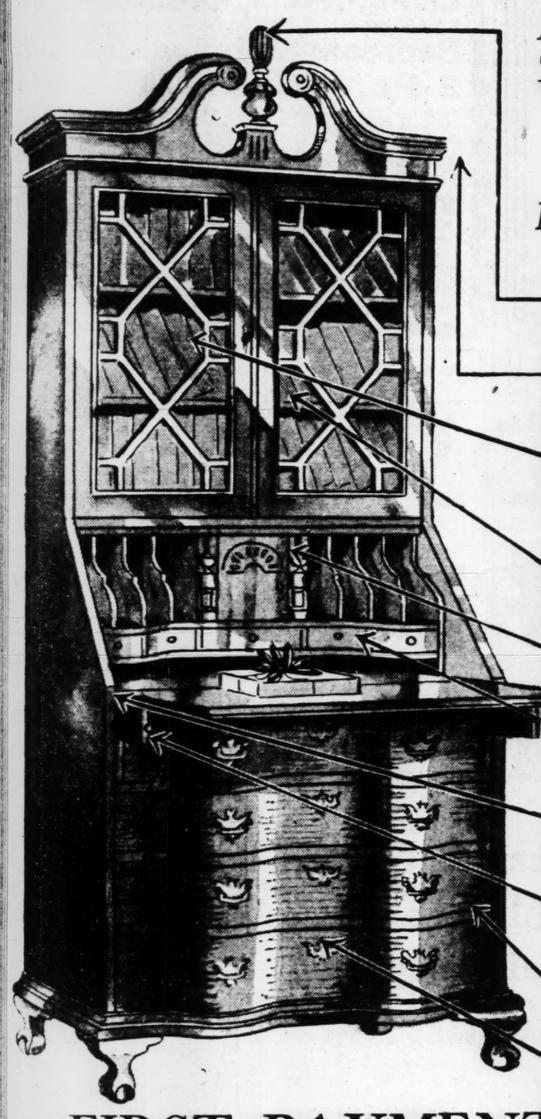

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Dec. 15.—The military directorate installed after the revolt which overthrew the Araujo Government two weeks ago, was dissolved yesterday. President Maximiliano H. Martinez, installed as the chief executive, was assured the country has complete confidence in his regime.

MRS. CULBERTSON AND LENZ DISCUSS 6TH NIGHT'S PLAY

The bidding:

South.	West.	North.	East.
		1 Spade	2 Clubs
2 Hearts	3 Diam.	Pass	Pass
3 Hearts	Pass	Pass	4 Diam.
4 Hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

The question was asked "why didn't Culbertson double Jacoby's four-heart bid? Was he afraid of spades?" It seemed almost certain that I had all the spades. My husband quite properly abstained from doubling, not because he feared that opponents might bid four spades, but because he feared that I might bid five diamonds.

Our opponents, especially Lenz, played at least as fine a game, if not better, under adversity, than we did at previous sessions when the breaks favored us.

My husband and myself were somewhat bewildered by our good fortune, which caused us several serious errors.

By SIDNEY S. LENZ.
(Copyright, 1931.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Fate was against us last night. We lost the first six rubbers and were at that time 745 points minus, after having started out with a plus of 4840 points. While we won the two games of third rubber, it has to be considered as lost, according to the scoring rules, as it ended for us with a loss in points because of the sacrifice bids we had made.

We succeeded, however, in winning the last rubber, scoring 760 points which, after six sessions of play and 40 rubbers, gave us a final plus score of 15 points. Certainly the match could not be any closer.

We scored the first game of the evening on the following hand:

(JACOBY, Dealer.)

The Culbertsons had a partial score of 70. My partner, the dealer, passed. West bid one heart. I might have doubled informatorially to the score, but had full confidence in Jacoby's aggressiveness and knew that he would not sell the hand so cheaply if he could find any bid at all. Mrs. Culbertson passed, as one heart was sufficient to give them game. Jacoby bid two clubs. Culbertson bid two hearts and I raised my partner to three clubs. East went to three hearts. Jacoby now showed his other suit by bidding three spades which was passed by Culbertson and myself, and doubled by Mrs. Culbertson.

Culbertson Too Ambitious.

The hand could have been defeated easily, with a heart opening, but Culbertson was too ambitious and opened with the Ace of diamonds, followed by a small diamond. Jacoby now played a small spade up to the Jack of spades, which trick was taken by East with the Ace. Mrs. Culbertson had a chance to defeat the contract by returning a diamond, but she returned the Jack of hearts. Jacoby then played all the trumps, the Ace of clubs and the King of diamonds, discarding a small club on the latter card. Culbertson could have made an excellent play by discarding the Queen of hearts and two small hearts on the last two trumps and the King of diamonds, but instead he discarded all the small hearts, keeping the King and Queen of hearts and the three clubs. This was fatal, because Jacoby played a nine of hearts from dummy, and although it was covered with the 10 by East, West had to overtake and was compelled to lead up to the King, Jack of clubs in the South hand. I certainly was proud of my partner.

Many Partial Scores.

Yesterday's play was characterized by many partial scores when a game could have been made. The following hand is just on the border line:

(JACOBY)

Culbertson opened third hand with one heart and when his partner responded with one spade he bid one no trump. East rebid the spades but only two while five spades were made. The hand could have been held to four with a club lead. Three no trump also could have been made easily.

Stiff Fight for Third Rubber.

We put up a stiff fight in the third rubber, taking a number of sets so that when we finally succeeded in taking the second game we had a total loss of 320 points on the rubber. Our loss, however, would have been much greater if we had allowed the opponents to win the rubber without any opposition. We won the rubber on the following hand.

(LENZ.)

(JACOBY)

Both sides were vulnerable and had partial scores, which explains why each side bid the other up.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 D.	double 1 spade
2 hearts	2 spades	pass	pass
3 hearts	pass	pass	3 spades
4 hearts	double	pass	pass

My partner certainly surpassed himself, as again, by fine playing, he succeeded in making his doubled contract.

No Trace of Missing Inspector.

By the Associated Press.

CAULFIELD SAYS GOVERNMENT IS STILL IN OX-CART STAGE

By the Associated Press.

SEDALIA, Mo., Dec. 15.—Gov. Caulfield addressing the Sedalia Rotary Club last night, criticised the present system of State and county government because of "ruthless expenditures and multiplicity of executives, boards and bureaus." He stated his aversion to increased taxes and stressed the importance of all departments being under the supervision of the executive, of a centralized power to which all departments must be responsible.

"Our State and county government is still in the ox-cart period," he said. "It is not constructed according to modern ideas. It has not developed.

"One hundred years ago, the cost of maintaining the Government of Missouri for a two-year period was $72,000. Today the cost for the same period is $192,000,000. That means a complexity of government, a vast complexity calling for a centralized power, and you haven't that in your Constitution."

Speaking of overcoming the business depression, he said, "We must all make sacrifices and if I know my folks, a special session of the Legislature to raise taxes, is not the way to do it."

U. S. SUSPENSION OF 43 LIVESTOCK DEALERS UPHELD

Federal Court Finds No Evidence That Four Others Boycotted Farm Board Co-Operatives.

An order of the United States Department of Agriculture, suspending 47 East Side livestock dealers accused of boycotting two co-operative members of the Federal Farm Board's marketing organization, was upheld in a decision filed in Federal Court in East St. Louis today, with the exception that the court found no evidence against four dealers and provided that they should be exempt from provisions of the order.

Secretary Hyde's order, made early this year following a lengthy hearing in East St. Louis, was that the accused dealers should be suspended for 90 days. He decreed that the order should become effective 20 days after being issued and reserved the right to revoke it. The dealers affected appealed to the Federal Court and the case was argued last September at Danville before a special court composed of District Judge Walter Lindley and Fred L. Wham and Judge Samuel Alschuler of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Informed of the court's decision today W. A. Moody, president of St. Louis Livestock Exchange, said the appeal would be carried to the Supreme Court and that trading would be conducted as usual at National Stockyards pending a final decision.

All Contentions Rejected.

The Federal Court rejected each contention on which the accused dealers based their appeal. It upheld the constitutionality of the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921 and the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1928 which created the Federal Farm Board.

"The proceedings upon which the order was based," the decision read, "contained no irregularities and were not violative of the plaintiffs' constitutional rights."

Secretary Hyde's order, the Court continued, "was not unreasonable, discriminatory or confiscatory."

"Refusals of registered market agencies on a public stockyards to trade with other registered agencies without just cause," the Court held, "is an unfair and unjustly discriminatory practice and device within the meaning of the Packers and Stockyards Act."

Judge Wham said a temporary injunction granted the dealers restraining the Department of Agriculture order from becoming effective would be dissolved and that the permanent injunction sought would be denied.

The dealers found not guilty of boycotting practices by the Court, and exempt from provisions of Secretary Hyde's order are John Bowles & Co., Shippers' Livestock Commission Co., Johnso Livestock Commission Co., and Leiner Livestock Commission Co. No evidence was offered, the Court held, to show that these dealers refused to trade with the Farm Board agencies, the Producers' Livestock Commission Association and the National Order Buying Co.

The National Order Buying Co., which precipitated the alleged boycott a year ago when it first began business at National Stockyards, withdrew from the market a month ago and is no longer a factor.

At the hearing held in East St. Louis before an examiner for the Department of Agriculture, most of the accused dealers readily admitted they had not traded with the National Order Buying Co. or the Producers' Association, but all denied the existence of a boycott agreement.

They contended they were justified in refusing to trade with the two agencies, alleging the latter indulged in forbidden marketing practices, and that the association between the two, the commission association being a representative of farmers and the order buying company a buying agent for Eastern packers, resulted in a combination which could control the market and eliminate competition.

Requests for Books Denied.

In their defense the accused dealers asked that Secretary Hyde, Alexander Legge, then chairman of the Federal Farm Board, and others be subpenaed to testify, and that subpenas duces tecum be issued for the books and records of the National Order Buying Co. These requests were referred by the examined in charge to Secretary Hyde at Washington, and denied by him.

This action led to the charge made at the hearing by counsel for the dealers that Secretary Hyde was acting in the proceeding in the triple role of prosecutor, judge and jury.

St. Louis Stockyards Exchange was not a defendant in the action although most of its members were. Moody, president of Moody Commission Co., a defendant, and president also of the Exchange, said:

"Naturally we are disappointed at decision and have no other course but to appeal to the United States Supreme Court. While in no way attempting or desiring to criticise the decision of the court, I personally feel that it upholds the contention of those who argue and believe that the Government should invade the realm of private business.

"Our exchange has been in operation continuously since 1885, endeavoring to the best of our ability to conduct the business of the market on the highest possible plane of business ethics."

FIVE MONTHS FOR SALE OF LIQUOR TO YOUTHS

Sandusky, Ill., Man Also Fined $100—Girl in Party Killed by Train.

Robie Dunn, Sandusky, Ill., was sentenced to five months in jail and fined $100 yesterday by Federal Judge Wham in East St. Louis when he pleaded guilty of violation of the liquor laws.

The case grew out of the death of Miss Dorothy Vick of Tamms, Ill., in which Dunn and others were arrested Nov. 1, last. Dunn admitted he sold a half gallon of whisky to a party of eight young people, Miss Vick being in the group.

After leaving Dunn's place at Sandusky, Miss Vick was put out of an automobile near her home. Her body, crushed by a train, was found later lying on a railroad track on which she evidently had collapsed. Dunn was released when a Coroner's jury found she died from accidental causes.

Mannin R. Joiner, New Liberty, Ill., who was found by prohibition agents in possession of parts to a "community still," was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $200. Arrested in open woods along the banks of the Ohio River near Kincaid Landing, Joiner told the agents that residents of the district used one still to "cook off" their whisky.

A "hip-pocket" bootlegger, Chris Gallamore, Golconda, Ill., received a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and was placed on probation three years. Prohibition agents said they arrested him on Golconda's main street with two pint bottles of whisky in his possession.

William Meyer, 62 years old, Belleville, who said he had manufactured home brew ever since prohibition went into effect, was fined $100 and placed on probation for three years. He is the father of nine children.

Six other persons from Illinois pleaded guilty of liquor violations and were given jail fines and sentences as follows: Arthur Pierpont, East St. Louis, who operated a "speakeasy" in the basement of his home, $300 and six months; Hallie Gower, New Liberty, who operated a still, $300 and six months; O. E. Campbell, East St. Louis, $150 and 90 days; Charles McLane, Murphysboro, $50 and 60 days; Fred Klaus, Belleville, $150 and 90 days; Charles W. Ploger, Marion, $50 and 60 days.

13,323 Requests Received For Christmas Baskets

Post-Dispatch Festival Fund Gifts Below Figure on This Date Last Year With Need Greater.

Gentlemen: Would you please be so kind as to give us a Christmas basket? My daddy has been out of work for 17 months and sometimes we have something to eat and sometimes we don't. I have four brothers and one sister and altogether there are eight in the family. It will be a sad Christmas if we don't get anything from you. ANNA.

It is for Anna and her brothers and sisters and other needy children like them and their downcast parents that the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival exists and has existed for 32 years.

Generous persons who donate to the Christmas Festival Fund have the assurance that their money goes directly to relieving the dreariness of such homes at Christmas time.

Contributions acknowledged today bring the fund to $1523.40. This amount is less than was in hand on the corresponding day before Christmas last year. The activities of the festival have in no wise been lessened, so that a fund similar to that of last year is needed.

Food is now being bought for the baskets which will be distributed to the neediest homes on Christmas eve, and preparations are under way for the children's celebration and presentation of gifts in the Coliseum Christmas morning.

Applications recorded yesterday brought the total of families requesting baskets to 13,323. Most of these have been left through personal visit, but more than 3000 have come through the mail.

WANTS POWER TO REMOVE INCOMPETENT BANK OFFICERS

Comptroller of Currency Also Renews Plea for National Bank Branches.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A means of removing incompetent national bank officers was urged yesterday by John W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency, in his annual report. In addition, he renewed his recommendation that Congress permit branch banking by national banks to strengthen the nation's financial system.

He said one of the greatest difficulties of his office was to get the management of some banks to correct various practices which, if continued, might lead to disaster to the banks and their depositors. He added: "There should unquestionably be power lodged in a proper body to require a change in the character of the management of a going national bank where the officers and directors refused to correct conditions."

The Comptroller suggested that such power could be placed in a group composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER SEEKS CONNECTICUT LICENSE TO WED

Says He and Fiancee Will Return Thursday for Marriage Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

GREENWICH, Conn., Dec. 15.—William Angus Drogo-Montagu, Duke of Manchester, who last week was refused a marriage license in New York, has applied for a license here to marry Miss Kathleen Ethel Dawes, it was learned today.

The Duke and his intended bride came to Greenwich Saturday, to file their application. They returned to New York immediately afterward, saying they would be back Thursday for the ceremony.

In the application the Duke gave his name as William Angus Drogo-Montagu Manchester, 55 years old, and described himself as a Privy Councillor. His home was given as London, and he said he had been married once before. The intended bride gave her age as 24, her home as London, and said it was her first marriage.

77-Year-Old Sports Writer Killed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Francis Alfred Steimer, 77-year-old assistant sports editor of the Sun, died in St. Luke's Hospital today of injuries suffered when he was struck by a taxicab yesterday. Steimer was a sports writer 60 years.

Dies at Union Station.

A man about 72 years old, identified through letters and a bankbook as W. F. Pfenenger, Morrison, Mo., died in the waiting room at Union Station last night. Death apparently was due to heart disease. Railroad tickets and papers found in his pockets indicated he was on his way to Morrison from Riggston, Ill. The body is at the morgue.

MISSOURI CONGRESSMEN GET IMPORTANT ASSIGNMENTS

Cochran and Lozier Given Chairmanships—Other Democrats Fare Well.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. — Missouri Democratic Congressmen have received choice House committee assignments. Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis will be chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the executive departments and Ralph F. Lozier of Carrollton will be chairman of the Census Committee. Joseph Shannon of Kansas City, serving his first term, was assigned to the important Rivers and Harbors Committee.

Milton A. Romjue of the First Missouri District was reassigned to the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads and Jacob L. Milligan of the Third District was returned to the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Other assignments were as follows: C. C. Dickinson, Sixth District, Ways and Means; Robert D. Johnson, Seventh, Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries; W. L. Nelson, Eighth, Agriculture; Clarence Cannon, Ninth, Appropriations; Clyde Williams, Thirteenth, Banking and Currency; James E. Fulbright, Fourteenth, Flood Control, Irrigation and War Claims, and William E. Barton, Sixteenth, Naval Affairs.

The Expenditures Committee, of which Cochran will be chairman, will consider President Hoover's recommendations for reorganization of the Shipping Board, and the creation of a separate Public Works administration.

60 DIVORCES IN DAY AT RENO DURING PRE-CHRISTMAS RUSH

Mrs. Jennie Burgard Among Those to Get Decrees; Denies She Will Wed Tibbett.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 15.—More than 60 divorces were granted here yesterday in a pre-Christmas rush.

Kenneth Harlan, former Hollywood movie actor, got a decree from Doris Harlan, New York artist's model, while Mrs. Jennie Burgard, prominent in San Francisco, obtained a divorcee from John Clark Burgard, stock broker of that city.

Mrs. Burgard denied reports she and Lawrence Tibbett, opera star, will marry. She obtained custody of her three children. It was the second time Mrs. Burgard, the former wife of Robert J. Adams, son of the chewing gum manufacturer, obtained a Reno divorce. She was divorced from Adams here 12 years ago.

Katherine Clark duPont got a divorce from Francis Victor duPont of the prominent Delaware family. Francis Hendricks, Denver composer, was divorced from Kathleen Wheeler Hendricks, his bride of less than five months. Stewart McKee Morgan, socially prominent resident of Pittsburg, Pa., obtained a decree from Margaret Elizabeth Morgan, who is Justice of the Peace at Sewickley, Pa., Pittsburg suburb.

NAGEL DEPLORES PUBLIC APATHY IN POLITICAL AFFAIRS

Tells Junior League That Government Has Fostered Leadership in Business but Not in Civic Life

Public indifference is the most serious aspect of "The Depression in Politics," Charles Nagel, president of Washington University Corporation, and, in the Taft administration, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, told the Junior League yesterday in his lecture of its Monday series.

Despite "scandalous, disgraceful" occurrences in New York, he remarked, Mayor Walker was just as popular as ever, and Chicago officeholders probably would get their "fat salaries" despite disclosure of "unbelievable" conditions there.

Public knowledge of what the State was doing about the depression might extend to the fact that the Governor had bought a box for a charity athletic show. Of the national Government, the public knew Congress was to pass on the moratorium today, but not what the decision would be—and neither, apparently, did Congress, after six months to think it over.

The absence of interest in public questions might be attributed, he said, to an impersonal and uninspired system of education and the facts that we are a new people, engrossed with the material, and that the Government has fostered leadership in business and discouraged it in politics.

Suggestions for Peace.

As steps out of the depression and toward world peace, he suggested revision of the tariff without delay, cancellation of war debts likewise without procrastination if they cannot ever be paid, and reduction of navies by Great Britain and the United States on the probability that smaller nations—and eventually even France, forced by its own taxpayers and military time-servers—would follow.

Not only had preoccupation with material success and Government "insistence on competition at all costs" fostered concentration of leadership in business, he declared, but that competition "forced on business" had brought about the displacing of men by machines.

"You hear people wishing for a return to the old prosperity," he said. "But if we have the same kind of prosperity, in my opinion, we'll have the same kind of a calamity. We must make our goal something higher and better and more spiritual. We have been engrossed with material success, and we must learn that it is only an incident, a point of departure toward the more important things."

He saw no political leaders in this country—or elsewhere, with the exception of Prime Minister MacDonald—of a kind with Washington or Lincoln, Jefferson or Hamilton. In their day, he said, a stateman had convictions and voted them. Then a man in politics explained his reasoning to his constituents, as their leader, and acted on his conclusions with their approval—or, if need be, without it.

Stay-at-Home Congressman.

Now, Nagel commented, a Representative in Washington was a mere "delegate," who might more intelligently remain at home, the more readily to know what his constituents wanted, and register his vote in Washington by pushing a button.

"Most people are unwilling to talk about politics," he remarked. "If you insist on talking about it, they think you're a bore.

"They may ask, 'What do you think about the moratorium?' I think it's nothing but a postponement of the agony. The same situation will confront us again next year. If one believes in the moratorium at all, surely he should believe in a revision of that whole situation. But most people are not willing to go that far. They don't want to get at the principle. They want a ready cure. They don't want to dig down to the cause."

Uninspired education, he said, was possibly most to blame for lack of interest in public affairs. He said he had visited colleges structurally so magnificent that he was impelled to ask, "Will you ever have students to live up to these buildings?"

Recalls German Jingle.

It reminded him of a German jingle, "The cage is not the thing to make canaries sing," and an old German professor who told him, "When I visit your American colleges, you always show me your buildings. When you come to our country, we introduce you to our professors."

"Science is the chief recipient of large donations to education," Nagel continued. "It's almost impossible to get anything for the liberal arts. I'm not quarreling with the donors who have placed our Medical School in the first rank, but we cannot get anything for the Law School.

"And men in modern times need nothing so much as counsellors. In the old days a lawyer was more than merely an advocate. He was a responsible arm of the court, a part of the governmental system. He is not today, and that is because of a lack in our educational system.

"We need endowments for education, not dry-as-dust textbook education, not memory education, but the kind of education that makes men think.

"Perhaps our system lacks the inspiration of religion—and never was the need greater than today for the stamp of religion on our whole range of life. I'm not speaking of creeds, but of the soul of religion."

Disillusioned Youth.

"The great mass of our people—our youth—are disillusioned," he said. "They have lost confidence in political promises. They remember that the majority of the wartime promises—democratization, self-determination, the war to end war—were not and will not be realized unless public opinion forces their realization.

"Self-determination—we have minorities crying to be heard and they cannot get a hearing in the League of Nations or anywhere else. War to end war—if we have no more war, it will not be because of the last war, but because the people of the world have seen the light and will not stand for another."

"We must remember that the last war was started largely by commercial friction," he said, advocating tariff revision, "yet now many countries are starting a commercial war regardless of the common truth that if you want a debtor to pay, you must give him a chance to make a living."

"The real thought of modern times," he continued, "is a rational peace for the world, not a peace of platforms, pacts, leagues or agreements, for they cannot be relied on. We see that now in the Orient. I think Japan eventually will come around, not because she joined the League of Nations or because she signed the Kellogg pact, but because she is afraid of public opinion, on which I place all my reliance."

Declaring he believed the public mind had grasped the essentials of the war debt situation "much more than the accepted leaders," he remarked that he had more confidence in the public mind now than ever before.

"It's true that our youth are disillusioned," he continued. "They know they were fooled once. I think they would like to know that they would not be fooled again. That disillusionment has given them a wholesome contempt for sham. They do kick over the traces. I sometimes think the Government does everything to get them to do it.

"I believe we care more for truth and justice than ever before. To support that belief I can cite only the last war. Up to that time wars had been fought for all sorts of terrible causes, but that war was fought in the belief of every people that it was right.

"Never in the history of mankind has deception been practiced on such a scale. And why? Because the leaders knew the people would not fight except on one ground, that they believed they were right.

"Peace cannot be made by declaration. A structure cannot last on a rotten foundation. Peace must rest on justice, and on the wholesome opinion of the people themselves."

HUNTER'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Frank Strand Stumbled With Gun, Witness Says at Inquest.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Frank Strand, 22 years old, 1041 Shenandoah avenue, who was wounded fatally while hunting near Owensville, Mo., Sunday afternoon.

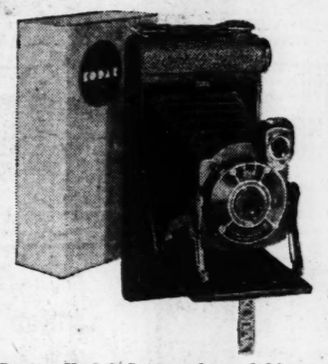

John Wilcheck, Owensville, a member of the hunting party, testified that Strand apparently stumbled while walking through a woods, causing his shotgun to be discharged. He was wounded in the head.

Robbers Get $20,000 in Diamonds.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15.—Two robbers obtained diamonds valued by Ed S. Michelson, their owner, a $20,000, in a holdup of Michelson's office yesterday. Michelson was away playing golf at the time. The robbers compelled a stenographer to open the safe.

SAYS HOME IMPROVEMENTS, AS GIFTS, WILL AID JOBLESS

Mrs. E. A. Kieselhorst Speaks on Radio in Behalf of Employment Bureau.

Recreation rooms, cedar closets and other home improvements which will afford employment were suggested as Christmas presents by Mrs. E. A. Kieselhorst in a radio talk yesterday in behalf of the Citizens' Free Employment Bureau, 2033 Washington avenue.

A recreation room in the basement, Mrs. Kieselhorst said, "may be a gift for the whole family or for the children. It may be a playroom, billiard room, workshop or study. To get the best Christmas effect, unveil the room with proper ceremony on Christmas day."

Citizens' Free Employment Bureau, Mrs. Kieselhorst said, can supply workmen for such jobs and others, among which she mentioned modernizing bathrooms and installing radio extensions. The bureau may be reached by telephone at CEntral 0491.

VIVID PICTURE OF COUNTRY'S PLIGHT GIVEN IN SENATE

Senator Wagner in Statistical Summary Points to Decline in Industrial Construction.

URGES PROGRAM OF PUBLIC WORKS

Two-Billion Plan Proposed —Figures Show Jobless Increase and Heavy Demand on Charity.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD REPRINTS POST-DISPATCH'S "THE COUNTRY'S PLIGHT"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.

THE Congressional Record for Dec. 14, out today, contains the text of the Post-Dispatch article of Nov. 29, on "The Country's Plight."

Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin placed the article in the record as "a very comprehensive discussion of the economic situation," although, he said, there were some conclusions in it with which he could not agree.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A vivid statistical summary of the present plight of the United States was given to the Senate yesterday by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, in offering a resolution looking to a $2,000,000,000, Federal public works program, to be financed by a long-term bond issue.

Wagner asked that the machinery of the Federal Employment Stabilization Act, one of the unemployment bills which he fathered in the last Congress, be set in motion so that the Federal Government might step "into the breach created by the terrible decline of private employment" at the earliest possible moment.

The first step would be the submission to Congress by the President of supplemental public works estimates in the amount stipulated by the resolution.

"Every pertinent piece of information," said the New York Senator, "brings fresh evidence that the unemployment condition . . . January, 1931, has been seriously aggravated. According to the National Industrial Conference Board, the number of unemployed has reached 7,300,000 in August."

Two Examples of Drop.

Wagner said the decline in industrial production could be realized from two examples taken from the reports of the Federal Reserve Board: First, the fall in the number of automobiles produced from 171,848 in January to 80,142 in October, and, second, the decline in steel ingot production from 2,45[illegible] 589,000 tons in January to 1,59[illegible] 276,000 in October.

The construction of buildings, he said, had declined not only from the 1929 level but from the [illegible] level of 1930. Not only had general building been affected, he continued, but also public works and public utilities, "the very branches that ought to be taking up the slack in private building activity." He said that, in the first nine months of 1930, the volume of construction of public works and public utilities was $1,283,300,000, as compared with $982,700,000 in the first nine months of this year.

The demands on charitable institutions, said Wagner, were increasing at an alarming rate, having been 142 per cent greater in September, 1931, than in September, 1930.

Other Comparisons.

Some of the other comparisons made by Wagner, from official sources, were as follows:

Employment in manufacturing establishments declined from an index figure of 72.1 in January to 67.3 in October and their payroll totals from 62.2 to 53.7.

The number of bank suspensions grew from 747 in the first nine months of 1930 to 1752 in the corresponding period this year.

Production as measured by the Federal Reserve Board declined from an index of 82 in January to 77 in September. Freight car loadings in the same period dropped from an index of 82 to 69.

The total volume of the foreign commerce of the United States was $6,629,000,000 during the first nine months of 1928, and $3,460,000,000 during the first nine months of this year, a decline of 48 per cent.

The wholesale prices of all commodities fell from an index of 86 in January to 69 in September, and the wholesale prices of building materials from 82.9 to 74.9.

"The vigorous prosecution of an extensive public works program," said Wagner, "would not only provide useful employment to many hundred thousands of workers now

Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin placed the article in the record as "a very comprehensive discussion of the economic situation," although, he said, there were some conclusions in it with which he could not agree.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A vivid statistical summary of the present plight of the United States was given to the Senate yesterday by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, in offering a resolution looking to a $2,000,000,000 Federal public works program, to be financed by a long-term bond issue.

Wagner asked that the machinery of the Federal Employment Stabilization Act, one of the unemployment bills which he fathered in the last Congress, be set in motion so that the Federal Government might step "into the breach created by the terrible decline of private employment" at the earliest possible moment.

The first step would be the submission to Congress by the President of supplemental public works estimates in the amount stipulated by the resolution.

"Every pertinent piece of information," said the New York Senator, "brings fresh evidence that the unemployment condition of January, 1931, has been seriously aggravated. According to the National Industrial Conference Board, the number of unemployed had reached 7,500,000 in August."

Two Examples of Drop.

Wagner said the decline in industrial production could be realized from two examples taken from the reports of the Federal Reserve Board: First, the fall in the number of automobiles produced from 373,448 in January to 80,142 in October, and, second, the decline in steel ingot production from 2,458,000 tons in January to 1,592,000 in October.

The construction of buildings, he said, had declined not only from the 1929 level but from the low level of 1930. Not only had general building been affected, he continued, but also public works and public utilities, "the very branches that ought to be taking up the slack in private building activity." He said that in the first nine months of 1930, the volume of construction of public works and public utilities was $1,282,200,000, as compared with $982,700,000 in the first nine months of this year.

The demands on charitable institutions, said Wagner, were increasing at an alarming rate, having risen 342 per cent greater in September, 1931, than in September, 1930.

Other Comparisons.

Some of the other comparisons made by Wagner, from official sources, were as follows:

Employment in manufacturing establishments declined from an index figure of 73.1 in January to 67.9 in October and their payroll totals from 62.3 to 53.7.

The number of bank suspensions grew from 747 in the first 10 months of 1930 to 1753 in the corresponding period this year.

Production as measured by the Federal Reserve Board declined from an index of 82 in January to 77 in September. Freight car loadings in the same period dropped from an index of 82 to 69.

The total volume of the foreign commerce of the United States was $6,629,000,000 during the first nine months of 1928, and $3,460,000,000 during the first nine months of this year, a decline of 48 per cent.

The wholesale prices of all commodities fell from an index of 77 in January to 69 in September, and the wholesale prices of building materials from 82.9 to 74.9.

"The vigorous prosecution of an extensive public works program," said Wagner, "would not only provide useful employment to many hundred thousands of workers now unwillingly idle but would stimulate private trade, revitalize private industry and put into circulation a stream of purchasing power which would bring new life to every branch of the economic efforts of the American people, agricultural as well as industrial.

CONGRESS IS WETTER THAN USUAL BUT STILL NOT WET ENOUGH TO VOTE FOR BEER

Poll of Members Shows Many Non-Committal, but Measure for Referendum May Be Successful.

(Copyright, 1931.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The new Seventy-second Congress, although wetter than its predecessors, will not vote to modify the Valstead act to permit beer and light wines.

There is a chance, however, that the new Congress may see a majority vote rolled up for some sort of referendum on prohibition, although it is extremely doubtful if two-thirds could be mustered for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment itself.

These are the outstanding results of a poll of Congress by International News Service, the only complete poll that has been made in Congress on prohibition in 10 years. Four hundred and thirty-four members of the House were canvassed and 95 members of the Senate, there being one vacancy in each branch.

The members were asked two questions:

"One, do you favor a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment as proposed by the American Legion?

"Two, do you favor legalizing beer?"

The results were:

House of Representatives: For referendum, 155; against referendum, 96; undecided or non-committal, 182. A majority of the House is 218.

Senate: For referendum, 32; against referendum, 29; undecided or noncommittal, 34. A majority of the Senate is 49.

On the beer question, only 125 members of the House and 21 Senators said they would vote in favor of it, the rest being frankly hostile to the suggestion or non-committal. Many of those willing to vote for a referendum on the whole prohibition issue were unwilling to vote for beer because they do not believe such action to be consistent with the amendment itself.

Non-Committal Bloc Hold Balance.

From these figures it is at once apparent the ultimate fate of the referendum hinges upon those large blocs in both houses which are unwilling or unable to state how they intend to vote upon it.

In the House, this non-committal bloc numbers 183. It would require 63 votes from this bloc to give the 155 a majority. In the Senate the undecided bloc numbers 34 and 15 of them would have to join the wet side to make a majority.

Many of those who preferred to be listed as non-committal are really undecided until they see what form the proposed referendum takes. Many others declined to take a position on either side of the question for publication for fear of causing political repercussions in their home districts.

Prohibition is the bogey-man in every Congressman's life—unless he happens to represent a district that is safely wet or safely dry. Some of those questioned in the poll even objected to being listed as "non-committal." They just don't want their names associated with prohibition in any form—in print.

It probably is a safe prediction that when prohibition is voted upon this session—as it will be since the rule that 145 members can cause the discharge of a committee considering legislation—some members are going to find pressing business that will take them away from the Capitol that day.

Analysis of the poll disclosed that prohibition has cut both parties almost in twain. The party division is interesting. It follows:

House Vote on Referendum.

	Yes.	No.	Non-committal.
Republicans	81	36	97
Democrats	73	60	86
Farmer-Labor	1	..	..

Senate Vote on Referendum.

	Yes.	No.	Non-committal.
Republicans	16	16	16
Democrats	15	13	18
Farmer-Labor	1	..	..

A number of Democrats stated frankly they would be noncommittal until "the party acts," presumably in candidate and platform at the convention next June. Southern Democrats, particularly, adopted this attitude in many instances.

That there has been a marked drift toward the wet side of the question, particularly in the past year, is apparent. Many members who have consistently voted dry for years on every question affecting prohibition now prefer to be listed as "noncommittal." Many of them are really undecided; many others are politically fearful of making any commitment, especially since the allied dry organizations served notice recently that they would regard a vote for referendum as "a wet vote."

Position of Couzens.

Some hitherto known drys stated they were "inclined" to vote for a referendum when the time comes, but insisted upon being put down as noncommittal. Still others declared they would be guided by the sentiment of their districts or states.

Typical of this group who will be guided by home sentiment is Senator Couzens (R.) of Michigan. He said he was willing to vote for a referendum, but that he would vote against beer.

"Politically," he said, "I am dry. As long as the Constitution of Michigan prohibits all alcoholic beverages I shall vote as my constituents desire. If they express a desire for a change I shall vote to carry out that expression."

Many others said the same thing in varying language.

MEXICAN LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY IN GUADALUPE CELEBRATION

Church Is Attacked for "Commercialized Methods" and "Exploitation of Pilgrims."

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—A sweeping investigation of all activities leading up to the anniversary celebration of the Virgin of Guadalupe day by hundreds of thousands of persons last week appeared likely today if suggestions made during bitter attacks on the church and Government departments by members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies are followed out.

The principal points of the oral attack thus far have been the Catholic Church itself, the "reactionary" press, the National Railways management and several governmental departments. The church was attacked in both Houses for what members called "commercialized" methods and "exploitation of thousands of pilgrims" who came to pay homage to the Virgin. The newspaper Excelsior was attacked for publishing advertisements of an organ concert at the Basilica and for alleged "reactionary" tendencies. The management of the National Railways was criticised for allowing reduced fares to Guadalupe when "crops were rotting in the fields because of high rail rates, and no reduction has been granted agriculture." President Manuel Perez Trevino of the National Revolutionary party led this criticism, charging the railway offered commissions to leaders for enlisting large delegations to buy the reduced fare tickets.

Alleged presence of Knights of Columbus in governmental offices came into the Chamber discussion, and demand was made that the Mexican Revolutionary Government be swept clean of these members. A demand was also made that the department that allowed religious broadcasting be investigated.

FRANCE CHECKING FOREIGNERS

Making Sure That Laborers Have Proper Contracts.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—All Americans and other foreigners in Paris are being summoned to police stations, where their papers are closely scrutinized. While the authorities insist their check is a normal proceeding, they do not deny that, owing to growing unemployment, they are looking for foreign workers without proper contracts with a view to their elimination from the labor market.

Foreign workers in Paris are required to have contracts stamped by the Ministry of Labor. Non-working foreigners whose papers are not found in order are understood to be liable to a fine or expulsion from France, according to the gravity of the case.

For Liquor on St. Patrick's Day.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 15.—In order to give Irishmen the chance of observing the custom of "drowning the shamrock," the Free State Government will introduce tomorrow in the Dail a bill providing for the opening of public houses on St. Patrick's day.

MILLS URGES RISE IN TAXES TO SAVE FEDERAL CREDIT

Under Secretary of Treasury Answers Questions of New York Audience on Revenue Program.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stating that the Government must increase revenues, cut expenses and balance its budget, or face worse than a tax boast, Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, last night explained how the administration drew up its new tax program and answered objections to it.

He told hundreds of financiers and business leaders at a meeting of the Economic Club of New York that higher taxes are inevitable, although he expressed doubt whether Congress would adopt the plan "as it is."

"You can imagine what chance we have of that," he said.

Dozens of questions were presented for him to answer after his address. It was announced that most of them dealt with the repeal of prohibition as a possible income measure.

Must Keep Promises.

"Beer would bring in a great revenue," Mills said with a smile—"if you can get it. It is a matter of common knowledge the wets are in a small minority in both houses. When the people elect a majority that favors repeal or modification, then something can be done about it. The Treasury can't repeal the eighteenth amendment by edict."

"Is it not true," he was asked, "that the cancellation of reparations by all creditor nations would actually revive confidence and stimulate industry everywhere, thus bringing about a quicker return of individual prosperity, even though the citizens of creditor nations would face an increase in taxation to the degree of cancellation?"

In reply, the Undersecretary quoted the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow that "the civilized world today is run on promises," that "we may at least take some comfort in the trust which men show in each other's promises."

"Governments," said Mills, "must keep their promises to the extent of their capacity to do so."

He denied the proposed increase in income taxes would work any hardship on anyone.

"Remember," he said, "we don't collect the tax unless the income is there."

Silent on Tariff.

The only question he refused to discuss was one concerning the reduction of tariffs as a possible means of stimulating business. He said it would be an "all-night argument."

Two questions were presented concerning the possibility of the United States going off the gold standard. Mills pounded the table with his fist, and his voice rose, as he denounced "rumor mongers" in replying.

He said he would state the United States is going to remain on the gold standard, only if it were not interpreted as "an implication there has been any possibility of the United States going off the gold standard.

"One of the most wholesome things we could do," he added with feeling, "would be to set up old-fashioned pillories on the steps of the subtreasury here in New York with a sign, 'A welcome reception for all scandal and rumor mongers.'"

He was asked if a slash of 10 per cent in the salaries of all Federal employes would help balance the budget and replied:

"As far as Congressmen, Senators and under-secretaries are concerned, it is a matter of complete indifference."

He added he would "hate to see" old Federal employes who hold key positions, "who receive no recognition, who work 10 and 12 hours a day," have their salaries cut.

Airplane Development.

Asked if he did not think it a mistake to reduce the appropriation for construction of airplanes "in view of the fact they are of such supreme importance in national defense," he replied:

"The development of transportation by air is being encouraged by very large mail subsidies, rather than by building army and navy planes."

He told how the Treasury had considered a Federal license for trucks.

"We would not be limited to trucks doing an interstate business," he said. "We could license every truck. It is our constitutional right. A great many classes unquestionably would have to be excluded. I do not have to tell you farmers' trucks would be among them.

"There is some merit in the idea in view of the fact that an enormous amount of trade is being diverted from railroads to trucks paying nothing directly for the use of highways. But we haven't seen our way clear to overcoming the administrative details and the fact that this revenue heretofore has been looked on as belonging to the states."

State and Inheritance Tax.

To a suggestion that taxes on inheritances and estate be increased, rather than taxes on incomes, he said:

"We look on inheritance and estate taxes as belonging principally to the states. Such taxation would be absolutely unsuitable as an emergency measure, because it would be years before the returns would amount to any considerable sum." In answering another question, he said:

"You have seen Government bonds drop 10 points. The Treasury has had pretty definite notice that even the borrowing capacity of the Government is limited."

Inefficiency of Democracy.

Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York and Undersecretary of the Treasury under McKinley, said, discussing the economic situation:

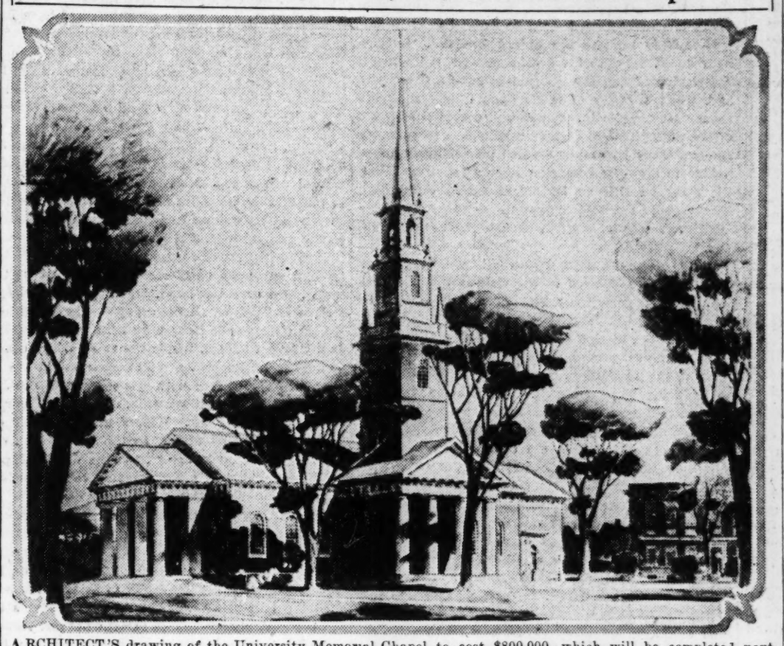

"We know that democracy, as we conduct it, is an inefficient system for administering municipal, state and Federal affairs. We know that these affairs are administered contrary to sound economic principles. We praise the system and close our eyes to its faults."

Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, economist of Columbia University, charged the administration with "leaning backward."

"I urge," he said, "a little greater reliance on loans and less on taxation. * * * Mr. Mills and Mr. Mellon are not quite in harmony with public opinion in relying so much on income taxes and

THIS YEAR IS HARDEST, GERMAN BANKER SAYS

Association Head Appeals to Creditor Nations to Consider Reich's Position.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—George Solmssen, president of the German Bankers' Association made a dramatic appeal to Germany's creditor nations, in an address before the association today, asking that they "make an effort to understand Germany's position."

"This has been the hardest of all post-war years," he said. "Encroachments on private property which we resisted to the last, we submit to now because we have reached a point where all which calls itself German must stand together."

He contrasted the third of President Wilson's 14 points, relating to the removal of economic barriers, with the present situation when "all the world is erecting such barriers."

He blamed the agent-general for reparations for transferring reparations out of borrowed money instead of out of surplus exports.

"If the German Government now calls upon the fatherland for a last defensive effort until a definite international settlement is reached, it must be emphasized again and again that all efforts are vain unless such a settlement meets the requirements of the world's economic needs."

He made no effort to conceal past mistakes in the utilization of borrowed capital by both public anud private concerts.

"But," said he, "we were encouraged in taking up short loans by all foreign financial advisers, even by the reparations agent himself."

Solmssen strongly deprecated any lowering of the currency standard on the ground that the stability of the mark was the strongest safeguard of the country's finances.

CANADA KEEPS GOLD STANDARD

No Talk of Abandoning, Says Premier Bennett.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 15.—R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, said today regarding rumors that Canada would abandon the gold standard:

"You can say authoritatively no action has been taken in any manner, shape or form, nor has the matter been discussed since my return."

King Alexander Goes to Paris.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 15.—King Alexander and Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia have left for Paris, traveling strictly incognito, it was learned today. The royal powers have been transferred to the Ministerial Council by decree during the absence of the King.

1932 CONVENTION OF REPUBLICANS GOES TO CHICAGO

Both Detroit and St. Louis Withdraw at Committee Meeting—$150,000 Guarantee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Chicago was selected today at a meeting of the Republican National Committee for the Republican National convention in June next year.

Withdrawal of Detroit from the convention race was formally announced to the committee by James E. Davidson.

Missouri also passed on the call of states, eliminating St. Louis.

Rufus C. Dawes of Chicago, brother of the Ambassador to Great Britain, guaranteed $150,000 necessary for expenses. He said it had been contributed by citizens.

The vote was Chicago 36, Atlantic City 14.

A special committee was appointed to determine the allocation of seats at the convention. It decided tentatively to increase the rolls by 65, some states gaining and some losing as compared with representation at the Kansas City convention in 1928. Under the plan there would be 1154 delegates.

On motion of Hilles of New York the committee left to a subcommittee the determination of a date for the convention. The subcommittee was instructed to report back to the full committee tomorrow.

Senator Fess of Ohio, Republican National chairman, in an address opening the meeting of the Committee, said its job was to place Mr. Hoover in the public mind on the eminence which "his stupendous efforts and brilliant leadership justify."

"This stage reached," he added, "there will be no doubt about the results of the contest next November."

In today's address Fess traced the origins of the current economic upset to the World War. He credited the President with having displayed, in its handling, a leadership without precedent in American history.

"Were it not that we are approaching a presidential campaign, Mr. Hoover would be the most widely supported public man in his efforts for relief . . .," asserted the chairman.

"It is regrettable that in the exigencies of party politics political leaders are inclined to employ a depression as a basis for utilizing the unthinking disaffected who have been taught to look to the

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Queer Echo of 1917.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FRIDAY'S Post-Dispatch carried a mighty fine cartoon entitled: "The Civilized World." With it were these inscriptions: "World Armament costs $5,000,000,000 a year"; "More men under arms than in 1914"; "Millions facing nakedness, hunger and starvation." Well, that is a queer echo of the familiar song of 1917, which ran thus: "America must help in this great fight for civilization"; "We must help make the world safe for democracy and liberty." And above all things, we must "end militarism." These statements, shrouded in the cloak of patriotism and Americanism, served the purpose rather well at the time. Germany, militarism and the Kaiser were to be crushed together, once and for all. Germany and the Kaiser are indeed crushed and harmless, but militarism is greater than ever.

In the light of these experiences, will the public in future be guided by its own intelligence and common sense under similar circumstances, or can it again be influenced at will by those who profit by war?

The Arena.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE that certain philanthropists, some of whom are well versed in politics, are trying to unload The Arena, which, in these Hooverish times, is a white elephant to its promoters, on to a tax-burdened public. It is obvious that if the voters of St. Louis vote in favor of a bond issue to buy The Arena, that they are more simple-minded than one would suspect. J. ICKENROTH.

In Behalf of Service Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT seems that "Dontby Hicks," who wrote to your column the other day, has a wrong impression of the service car system here in St. Louis. He doesn't realize that there are 400 men here in St. Louis who earn an honest living driving service cars, which are regulated by the city. He doesn't know that each driver takes an examination at the City Hospital before he can drive. The driver must also have five different kinds of licenses. They are city, State, chauffeur, service car operator and service car licenses. Now I wonder if Dontby Hicks thinks we are not regulated. And another thing, each driver has enough insurance on his car full of people, and pays more per month than the street car system or bus company does for its transportation for a whole year. Figure that out.

The other day, after the fire at Grand and Olive, a St. Louis newspaper stated that the service cars did a thriving business due to the street cars and busses being stalled. And did they congest traffic? Don't ask. Come downtown some evening and see who blocks traffic, the big awkward bus with its solid tires, or the service cars which are built like your own auto.

Here's for faster service, more comfort and more prosperity to the service car. AN OPERATOR.

Economy in Military Expenses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM writing to say I heartily agree with "Ex-Lieutenant" when he says we should try to economize in the ranks of the army. If Uncle Sam would disband the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C., the amount he quotes as being spent on them would help quite materially in cutting the deficit. ANN CHILDES.

A Property Owner's Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS a citizen of South St. Louis all my life and a property owner, I wish to protest most vehemently against the service cars being operated on Gravois boulevard.

I have been assessed the amount of $1000, which it is claimed I have been benefited by the widening of said street, and I understand that the paving bill will be in the neighborhood of $900, a total expenditure of nearly $2000, and this outlay coming during a time of depression.

Now in all sincerity, I will ask any fair-minded person, have I not the right to have some voice in the matter of who is going to use this street?

It is bad enough for folks living in the county and using this thoroughfare, being employed in St. Louis, who do not contribute a cent to the cost of this street or pay any taxes to the City of St. Louis, but now a bunch of people are begging for permission to operate jitneys on this excellent highway.

It is a sin and a shame for our City of St. Louis to tolerate these jitneys at all. FAIR PLAY.

Favors Mr. Clark.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF Charles M. Hay is narrow-minded enough to be a prohibitionist, he certainly is not broad-minded enough to represent the great State of Missouri in the Senate. Let us have the chip off the old block, namely, Bennett C. Clark, son of the immortal Champ Clark.

ROBERT F. FLORENTIN.

MR. HOOVER'S FUMBLE.

The President is solely responsible for the administration's embarrassing position with respect to the Hoover moratorium on war debts. By obstinately refusing to call an extra session of Congress to act on the question, he risked—one might say, invited—the situation that has developed. He knew that Congress would not constitutionally convene until Dec. 7, and that installments on the debts were due Dec. 14, and blindly trusted that, in the short space of a week, Congress would organize and immediately proceed to ratify the moratorium.

Everybody realized the hazard involved. But nobody knew, not even the President, what the political complexion of the House would be until a short time ago, when a series of by-elections finally gave the Democrats a majority. It was well within the bounds of possibility that the House might have met a week ago yesterday so evenly divided politically as to be unable to organize excepting after a long-drawn battle, during which no legislative action could have been taken. Mr. Hoover was unmoved by that possibility. No extra session, though the heavens fall, was his attitude.

The heavens are not going to fall—not, at least, on account of the delayed ratification of the moratorium. Nevertheless, the administration is obliged today to advise our debtors, with such dignity as it can contrive, that, though payments are due, remittances need not be forwarded, since Congress will presently approve the suspension. Congress will. Nobody seems to have any doubt about it. But it is an awkward episode that reveals a deplorable lack of administrative tact and political sagacity on Mr. Hoover's part.

That isn't all. Truly, the cup of ineptitude runneth over. Consider the effort of Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury Department to procure assurances from the congressional leaders of both parties that the moratorium would be ratified. The House leaders tartly declined to sign on the dotted line. Mr. Mills may have felt like a canvasser who has had the door irately slammed in his face. Retiring in confusion from the House, he tried a different tactic in the Senate, where he collogued with fellow partisans and adversaries as to what the Treasury Department would say today to the debtor nations. He was told the Treasury Department would have to write its own notes of apology—gnaw its own pencil, as the ancient metaphor depicted the throes of composition.

Mr. Mills, it may be observed, is a man of high intelligence and wide political experience. As a former member of Congress, he is aware that congressional leaders have no authority to commit their parties in advance to any proposed legislation on the request of a department, even though the request impliedly carry the executive seal. That is not the Washington way. It may not affect the ultimate score, but Mr. Hoover certainly fumbled the ball.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Reuben T. Wood, president of the Missouri State Federation of Labor, urges passage of an old age pension law, making the point that it costs more to maintain almshouses than to pay pensions. Among all the leading nations of the world, only China, India and the United States have failed to make provision for the old. However, the individual states are waking up to the need for such aid, and already 12 states have old age pension laws. The first one to be enacted on American soil was in Alaska in 1915. The last Missouri Legislature passed a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to be voted on in November, 1932, which, if adopted, would permit the Legislature to adopt an old age pension law.

Our machine civilization has been particularly cruel in its effects on older men. On the one hand, improved methods of preventive medicine have lengthened the life span and, on the other, labor-displacing machines have closed many opportunities that once existed for elderly men to gain a livelihood. We are accustomed to think with horror of the habit of certain savage tribes of abandoning their old men and women to die of exposure and starvation, yet we, in a sense, are guilty of the same inhumanity. The old age pension movement, designed to rectify the condition, deserves the most earnest and sympathetic consideration.

TIME TO CLEAR THE PLAZA.

Plans for the Municipal Auditorium at last are progressing well, but the prospects for carrying out the Memorial Plaza scheme are darkened by a mistaken policy of Comptroller Nolte's office. The Comptroller should change his views about the plaza at once and order all the old structures remaining on the site cleared away this winter, except, perhaps, the one building that is under a lease having two years to run.

It would easily be possible for the city to carry out some grading and preliminary improvement of the grounds, at small expense. There is no fund now for extensive development of the plaza. Mere cleared space, however, would be preferable to the ramshackle piles of brick and wood now defacing the site. The effect on the community would be great; here would be a step of progress. Property in the vicinity, some of which has deteriorated, would receive a tonic. The city's appearance would be improved materially.

The Comptroller has been removing some of the old buildings, but has failed to make a clean sweep. He has been renting some of the lots to parking operators, thus depriving owners of private property of revenue. The recent Municipal Auditorium settlement, which has resulted in a bill to start construction, also has provided funds to pay for the 10 lots still needed for the plaza. After nearly nine years' delay, St. Louisans are tired of waiting for the plaza's consummation.

As Sir George Paish and H. G. Wells see it, the crack of doom is just around the corner.

MARCONI.

The world paid tribute to Signor Marconi Saturday, the thirtieth anniversary of the first wireless message across the Atlantic. Just the letter "s" darting through space, straight as an arrow to the receiving station on that bleak Newfoundland coast, but no watcher of the skies ever felt a greater thrill when a new planet swam into his ken than did the Italian inventor in that epic moment. Now, East and West and North and South, in many tongues, make their acknowledgments. That protoplasmic "s" has evolved into the magnitude and variety of cosmic communication, brimming with prophecies of wonders yet to come. If mankind some day speaks a common language, if some day the children of earth confer, argue and debate the state of the universe with the folks of the other stars, it will have come to pass through the inspiration and medium of the radio. The Caesars will have vanished from the legends of the tomorrows that will, or ought to, honor Marconi.

JAPAN OFF THE GOLD STANDARD.

There are many parallels between Japan's abandonment of the gold standard this week and the similar action by England three months ago. In both instances, the change was the immediate sequel of a Cabinet crisis. Both nations had suffered from budget derangements, and from loss of foreign trade. There was an exodus of gold from the country in each case. There is now a movement in Japan for tariff increases, just as there was in Britain's crisis. All these are symptoms of general economic ills from which many nations now are suffering. For these ailments, the modified inflation resulting from abandonment of the gold standard's restrictions offers relief. Japan is the fifteenth nation to take the step in recent months, though many of the others did so because of their close financial links with the pound rather than from troubles of their own.

China's boycott of Japanese goods has made heavy inroads on Japan's exports to her second best customer. On the other hand, Japan has profited by the Indian boycott on British goods. Depreciation of the pound gave the British an edge in the Asian and Antipodean markets, where the two nations compete, so Japan's action will meet to some extent the British advantage. Trade with this country, where Japan is a heavy buyer of raw cotton, will become more difficult as the yen falls. With a nominal value of 50 cents, it now stands at 40. By the same token, wages are likely to drop in Japan, as they did in England, reducing the cost of manufacturing cotton goods and sending raw silk prices still farther down.

Japan's finances have shown a continual excess of expenditures over receipts since 1918, and her national debt has mounted steadily. For this year, the deficit is estimated at $200,000,000. The departed Cabinet was striving heroically to balance the budget and stop borrowing, without success. Japan's teeming population and lack of certain natural resources force her to be an importing country, and any blocking of imports, such as a depreciated currency would cause, can only add to her woes. The problem of financing a possible war in Manchuria would be a serious one. Japan would need to import much of her munitions, iron ore and other supplies. Military expenditures, already running $250,000,000 a year, or one-fourth of the total budget, would be increased, with little prospect of obtaining credit from abroad and the value of internal loans decreased by depreciation. Japan, sharing the world's ills, has chosen a prevailing method of alleviation which has in it, after all, much of desperation.

They are now wearing peekaboo gloves that reveal rings on their fingers, and watch for the sandal in which we'll see belles on their toes.

MR. DOAK FERRETS OUT A FACT.

A full week after the event, Secretary Doak has arrived at a conclusion about that "hunger march" on Washington. Having looked carefully and listened intently and weighed all the pros and cons, he announces his decision the demonstration was "wholly the inspiration of Communism." This is a mature opinion from a high official, and is entitled to far greater consideration than the snap judgments previously offered by the National Civic Federation and the Secret Service. These bodies, even while the marchers were marching along in their trucks and autos several days away from Washington, announced their discovery: the Communists were back of it. That was a rash premise, a stab in the dark, and its prematureness may be gauged by the length of time required for Mr. Doak's ruminations. The Secretary and the Federation and the Secret Service are undoubtedly correct. There is plenty of evidence to back their contentions against skeptics. For weeks preceding the hunger march, the Communist press had been filled with explicit articles and glaring headlines about it. Despite this effort of the Reds to keep their sponsorship secret, and even though the demonstrators sought to shroud the affair in still greater mystery by singing the "Internationale" at the Capitol, evasion was all in vain before the sleuthing prowess of Secretary Doak.

Dr. Assar Hadding, Swedish geologist, says life started in hot water. It's still there, Doc.

NOT SUITABLE FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Norman Thomas will not lecture tonight at Illinois State Normal University as scheduled. President H. A. Brown, who said Mr. Thomas' visit had been "indefinitely postponed," refused to discuss the cancellation other than to deny the charge that influence had been brought in the case. It was pointed out, however, by those interested in Mr. Thomas' address, that, following a protest by a group of residents against recently proposed addresses by a faculty member of the University of Chicago, that that engagement was broken off. Whatever the connection or his reasoning, it is apparent that officially President Brown does not think Norman Thomas a proper person to address the future school teachers of Lincoln's State. What President Brown needs to know is that when Mr. Thomas spoke at Princeton recently, that great university accommodated his enthusiastic audience of students in McCosh Hall, named for one of the most distinguished of American educators, and that the man who delivered the introductory remarks was none other than Princeton's president, Dr. John Grier Hibben.

Property and special taxes have increased more than 250 per cent in Missouri since 1917. That, in the words of William Allen White, is "what's the matter with Kansas."

NEW FASHION IN BANDITRY.

Apparently there is a new fashion among bandits, as the half-baked jellybeans preying upon oil stations and grocery stores like to be termed. It is to get some silly young girl, who should be home washing dishes, to accompany them on their escapades. The usual result of such alliances is that both the robber and his girl find it difficult to make ends meet on the miserly sums they manage to obtain, and, in the course of repeated efforts to recoup the exchequer, they are captured. But the presence of the girl brings notoriety, and apparently that is what these young squirts crave. We feel sure that Jesse James, who operated in the days when bandits were bandits, would turn in his grave if he knew how sissified his old profession had become.

"DID YOU EVER SEE THIS BEFORE?"

—From the New York World-Telegram.

The Man-Killing Automobile

Because auto is viewed as substitute for horse, and not as powerful machine loosed on highway, we have failed to curb fatalities; with death rate rising, writer fears human irresponsibility will always prevent safety; carelessness of both drivers and pedestrians at fault; license system would help, if it could be made effective.

Seth K. Humphrey in the Atlantic Monthly.

IN the early days of motoring there was a conviction that an instrument of danger was coming on to the highways. After having been kept apart for generations, machine transportation with its machine speeds was leaving its protective rails and invading the safe paths of horses and men. The new anxiety had its first crude expression in attempts to hold the automobile down to somewhere near the speed of the horse. In a vague way, it was expected to behave like a horse.

But the lawmakers of that day were ignoring a fundamental twist in human nature: a contrivance built to run 40 miles an hour was going to be run 40 miles an hour, laws and ordinances notwithstanding. Even today, our incoherent protests against motor killings reveal us as still horse-minded, still quite unable to grasp the wholly changed character of the highways, and not yet ready to accept the fatalities as a necessary feature of motoring.

The motor car was never a substitute for the horse. Every horse that vanished took his seven-mile gait and his kindly intelligence with him, and every motor car put into commission brought its own speed and its brainless tons of steel to the road. The old safety of the highways is gone forever, as surely as the auto has come to stay.

A doleful picture? Not at all—a mere statement of fact. In the face of constantly improving safety regulations, motor fatalities in the 11 years, 1920-30, rose without one year of decrease from 12,542 to 33,000. Of still greater significance, the rate of kill is increasing faster than the increase in the number of cars on the road; the rate per 100,000 registrations rose without a break in the last five years from 106.6 to 124.4. This shows the extra penalty added each year by the increasing congestion; yet motor enthusiasts tell us that the "saturation point" for automobiles is a long, long way in the future!

What are the means for reducing motor accidents? Statistics show that a surprisingly small proportion of the casualties result from material imperfections, such as signals out of order, defective cars or poor roads; they charge the vast majority to the erratic performances of human beings, both in cars and afoot. Then, if there is to be any significant relief, it must come through correction of this faulty human element.

First, consider the intermittently vacuous-minded among pedestrians. Unlike children, they cannot be recognized by their size and given special consideration—nor by any other feature, since the momentary lapse is often from a state of high intelligence. Neither can policemen lead them by the hand across the street, because there is no way of telling just when this ought to be done. They fall victims quite impartially to drivers careful and careless.

When the same sort of individual gets behind a steering wheel, he becomes a menace to every cautious motorist and pedestrian within range of his machine. Here we have a chief killer. What do we do to discover him before he kills?

Almost nothing. Twenty-six states do not require so much as a license to drive, while only 17 out of the 48 require any instruction or demonstration of fitness. In most of these 17 states anyone, from a doddering old man to a 16-year-old girl who can back a car around twice without maiming the teacher, is entitled to a license.

The National Safety Council made a careful study of accidents in the eight states which have the soundest driving license and examination laws. From the study, it derived an estimate that these states had reduced their normal expectation of motor fatalities 29 per cent. Yet none of the eight states has a system of licensing drivers that can be dignified by the term "selection"; they merely throw out a few of the obviously unfit and let everybody else drive.

Probably the country's total of motor fatalities could be reduced by several thousand if the 40 other states were to have even as mildly restrictive driver-licensing laws as the eight. A much greater saving of life would be possible if every state were to compel a selection of drivers commensurate with the obvious demands of a road locomotive. Why this extraordinary backwardness in the effort to get safe drivers?

Again there is the self-assertive twist in human nature: a universal desire for anything under heaven has never yet been known to put an effective curb upon itself. In a country where nearly everybody wants to drive, nearly everybody is going to drive, and that settles for good the prospect of any adequate selection of drivers.

* * *

The next best means for achieving greater safety lies in rigid exclusion of all drivers found guilty more than once of gross carelessness or of driving while drunk. One such offense on the part of a trolley operator would bar him forever. Yet, against the popular will, not one state has been able to make more than a fair beginning in the elimination of unfit drivers.

If we must tolerate unfit drivers, why not try to worry them into a semblance of fitness by a rigorous system of supervision on the road, with sure penalties for every infraction of the rules for safe driving, regardless of whether the breach of road etiquette causes an accident or not?

The best feature of this scheme would be its getting at the careless driver before instead of after he has demonstrated with an accident. It would give a drill in safety to a lot of unpromising human material in whom any increase in caution would be a godsend to the community. But the scheme's fatal weakness lies in the obvious fact that it would take a few million more traffic officers to make it work. So far as supervision could be achieved, it would undoubtedly result in saving lives. But the limit of public toleration for both the added expense and such intimate police regulating would be reached long before the attainment of adequate supervision.

The best we can expect of our most valiant efforts is to hold the killings down to an irreducible minimum. The trouble lies deeper than in bad driving. It lies in the fundamental incompatibility of machines and men, steel and flesh, in a running mix-up on the highways. Nothing on earth can make their intimacy safe.

Mr. Tobin and the Charter

From the Bulletin of the League of Women Voters.

AT the December meeting of the Education Committee, John C. Tobin discussed the Public School Charter. This charter was granted by the State in 1897 as a result of a public uprising against the inefficiency and corruption then existing in the school administration. By the provision of this charter, the schools became fiscally independent of the municipal government, the object being to keep the schools out of politics.

The Board of Education, which heretofore had consisted of 28 members, one representative for every ward, was then reduced to 12 members elected from the city at large, four being elected every two years. At that time, such a reduction in number was considered a great step in advance. Since then, however, there has been a consistent tendency to reduce the number of School Board members still further. Mr. Tobin thinks that seven members would make for even greater efficiency.

There are six officers of the executive staff as it stands at present, and each of these officers is separately responsible to the whole board of 12. In a survey of our public schools made in 1917 by Prof. Judd, this weakness in the St. Louis charter was brought out and Mr. Tobin emphasized it again. Both Mr. Judd and Mr. Tobin believe efficiency in school administration depends upon the principle of undivided responsibility.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Tobin discussed our unsatisfactory method of electing School Board members. He suggested that there be a School Board Nominating Committee, provided for by statute, consisting of the presidents of various recognized non-partisan organizations. This nominating committee would submit a list of names from which the Mayor might select his appointees, two each year. The list would be published in the public press. Mr. Tobin's feeling was that the office should seek the man or woman, not the man or woman seek the office.

MAKING A COMMUNIST MARTYR.

From the Philadelphia Record.

JUDGE McDEVITT has denied bail to Orlando Spartaco for heckling Foreign Minister Grandi. The Judge declared Spartaco's offense was "one against the community," and therefore not bailable. He had already sentenced Spartaco to two years for jumping on the running board of the Grandi car and shouting, "Down with Mussolini!"

Foreigners who continue homeland political quarrels in this peaceful country are terrible nuisances. Shall we consider them a menace to our social order? Or shall we give them the same even-handed justice we invoke in punishing our own nuisances? Orlando Spartaco's offense was little more than that of the noisy, obstreperous baseball fan who yells, "Kill the umpire," and tosses a couple of pop bottles onto the field of play. The fan would have been arrested, given a sharp reprimand, possibly fined a few dollars. At most, he would have gotten 10 days in jail.

The Record considers the treatment that was accorded Spartaco as much out of proportion as the hanging of petty thieves in Old England. Judge McDevitt's decision has made a major issue out of a minor incident. The silly, futile Reds will gloat over his severity and believe that they have capitalism panic-stricken. Judge McDevitt has lent aid and encouragement to the Communists, whose little egos feed on martyrdom for a cause.

GUILD SEASON OPENS WITH A BARRY PLAY

Fine Cast is Seen in Great Advantage in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

"TOMORROW AND TOMORROW," a play in three acts by Philip Barry; presented at the American Theater under auspices of the New York Theater Guild, with the following cast:

Gail Redman	Harvey Stephens
Eve Redman	Zita Johann
Ella	Marion Willard
Nicholas Hay	Glenn Anders
Samuel Gillespie	John Eldredge
Jane	Frances Higgens
Walter Burke	John T. Doyle
Christian Redman	John Jordan
Mary	Laura Straub
Miss Fraser	Mary Elizabeth Forbes
Miss Blake	Alice MacIntosh

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

PHILIP BARRY, playwright, turned to two great sources for inspiration when he wrote "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," a drama produced by Gilbert Miller, but offered at the American Theater last night under the auspices of the New York Theater Guild as the first play of its St. Louis subscription series. For his theme Mr. Barry fell back upon the Bible and the verse from 11 Kings, IV, "And it fell on a day, that Elisha passed to Shunem, where there was a great woman—." Where he got the idea for the title is, we dare say, more familiar to theatergoers for it comes from Macbeth's lines, in scene four of act five when Shakspeare makes his character say:

> Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow,
> Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
> To the last syllable of recorded time;
> And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
> The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
> Life's but a walking shadow; a poor player,
> That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
> And then is heard no more: it is a tale
> Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
> Signifying nothing.

The Elisha of "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" is Nicholas Hay, lecturer and physician; Shunem is the modern little town of Redmanton, Ind., and the great woman is Eve Redman, the childless wife of Gail Redman, a wealthy and likable young fellow who shares his devotion for her with a love for class reunions, business and horses.

And there, almost completely you have the story of the play. Dr. Hay, a rising young man in the world of science, a world which has cut him off from romance, comes to Redmanton on a lecture tour and is invited to stay at the Redmans' home. Before he leaves, he and the young wife are deeply in love, so deeply that Mrs. Redman has given herself to him entirely and, it develops after his departure, her dreams of motherhood are to come true.

In a later act their love child, scarcely more than a baby, is overtaken by a fever which is seated in his tiny brain. Eve, in her desperation, calls Dr. Hay, now grown famous, from Chicago to come and save her boy. He does, their old passion, which had only smoldered, is rekindled and they decided to fly in the face of all conventions and go away together. Love for the boy and a genuine affection for her husband intervene and at the finish of the play Eve sends the doctor away to continue his lonesome climb to greatness while she remains where she belongs, at home.

The story is not entirely novel. Much the same thing has been done on the stage before but Mr. Barry has made it beautiful and dramatic by his clever handling. At times it suggests—perhaps recalls would be a better word—"Strange Interlude" for Eve Redmond's long outlines of her hopes and her desires, addressed to a sleepy and not very interested husband are realy Nina Leed's soliloquies. Eve, too, is cast in the same mold as Nina. She might easily have become the morbid woman of Eugene O'Neill's earlier drama except for the fact that her love is not for a phantom but for a very real and very alive—it sometimes slightly effeminate—human being.

The Eve Redmond of Zita Johann is superb and Glenn Anders is a magnificent Nicholas Hay and to them fall most of the lovely and dramatic situations of the play. But the drama has been perfectly cast throughout. As the young fun loving husband Harvey Stephens is very genuine and very real and there is a small town family doctor magnificently done by John T. Doyle. Some minor roles are perfectly done, too, so that "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," in cast and story, is one of the real dramatic treats of this, or of any other season.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MRS. GEORGE REEVES THROOP, wife of the Chancellor of Washington University, will be hostess at a tea tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at their home, 6510 Ellenwood avenue, in honor of Mrs. Harriet Steel Pickernell of New York, executive secretary of the International Collegiate Musical Association, who is in St. Louis for a few days.

Mrs. Throop will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles Nagel and Mrs. Robert McKittrick Jones. Those serving at the tea table will be Mrs. Alfred L. Shapleigh, Mrs. Edward Mallinckrodt Jr., Mrs. Daniel K. Catlin and Mrs. Harry Brookings Wallace.

Christmas decorations of poinsettias intermingled with greenery will adorn the receiving rooms. About 300 guests have been invited to call.

A pgeholiday party took place at the St. Louis Woman's Club today when Mrs. William H. Keech of Hotel Chase was hostess at luncheon for her debutante niece, Miss Caro Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes of the St. Louis Country Club grounds, and Miss Lillian Bixby, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby, 13 Portland place. Sharing honors with the debutantes was Mrs. Francis Boyer of Philadelphia, Pa., the former Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes, 6500 Forsythe road.

Mrs. Keech received in the lounge. Two tables were arranged in the dining room and were decorated in poinsettas and greenry and lighted by Christmas candles in silver candelabra. Seated at the table with Miss Holmes and Miss Bixby were the following: Miss Katherine Dart, Dayton, O., who is Miss Holmes' guest; Miss Caroline Kennard, Miss Mary Lucas Hart, Miss Jaquelin Chapman, Miss Helen D'Arcy, Miss Mary Carpenter, Miss Helen Hemingway, Miss Caroline Simpson, Miss Amelia Overall, Miss Mary Jane Baumas, Miss Mary Dana and Miss Eleanor Conant. At Miss Boyer's table were Mrs. Allan T. Smith, Mrs. Paul Franco, Mrs. William A. Borders, Mrs. Robert N. Hawes, Miss Martha Love, Mrs. Warren Lammert, Miss Mary Papin Thomas and Miss Marion Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Gaylord of the Hanley road will have with them for the holidays Mrs. Gaylord's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Urner Wiley of Cincinnati. Mrs. Wiley will arrive next Monday and Mr. Wiley will be here Christmas day.

Miss Henriette Pirrung, debutante daughter of Mrs. Gaylord, will have as her guest Miss Virginia Wright of Cincinnati, who will arrive a few days before Christmas to spend the holidays with her, and to attend Miss Pirrung's debut dinner dance Christmas night at the Bellerive Country Club.

Miss Marie Eleanor Busch, daughter of Mrs. Florence Parker Lambert Busch of Grand View Farm, is expected home next week from the Finch School in New York to spend the holidays with her family.

Her brother, Stafford Lambert, has just returned from an airplane trip to New York, where he visited his sister for a fortnight.

Invitations have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Price, 6320 Forsythe boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Ceverda D. Blake, 501 Clara avenue, for a theater party to be followed by supper and dancing at Hotel Coronado, Monday, Jan. 4, in honor of three debutantes, Miss Helen D'Arcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. D'Arcy; Miss Eleanor Hoblitzelle, sister of Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle, and Miss Mary Coit Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day.

Cards also have been issued by Dr. and Mrs. James Archer O'Reilly, 6369 Pershing avenue, for a theater and supper party, Wednesday, Dec. 30, at which Miss Mary Douglas Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Oliver Carpenter, and Miss Mary Boiland Taussig, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Taussig, 4506 Maryland avenue, will share honors.

Three hundred invitations have been sent out for a mixed tea to be given by Miss Louise Emily Hoyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hoyle, 33 Dromara road, Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 30, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Among those who will serve are Miss Virginia Stewart, Miss Elizabeth Bay, Miss Alyce Allan, Miss Mary Bruce Nicols, Miss Ada Crosby and Miss Dorothy Reismeyer.

A buffet supper to have been given by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Henry Rumpf, 625 Skinker road, for their daughter, Miss Anne, Tuesday, Dec. 22, has been postponed indefinitely because of the serious illness of Mr. Rumpf's mother, Mrs. Mary Rumpf of Quincy, Ill. Miss Rumpf made an informal debut at a buffet supper given by her parents at their home, Nov. 29.

The following group of young women, students at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., will arrive home Sunday to spend the holidays with their families: Misss Ruth Ferriss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Ferriss, 18 Lenox place; Miss Elizabeth Russe, daugther of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Russe, 4280 McPherson avenue; Miss Laura Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Gray, 9 Lenox place; Miss Marian Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel W. Ewing, 46 Kingsbury place; Miss Elizabeth Wyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wyman, 7160 Washington boulevard; Miss Bliss McConnell, daughter of Mrs. Guthrie McConnell, 401 North Newstead avenue; Miss Virginia Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Grace, 5051 Cabanne avenue; Miss Mary Chambers, daughter of Mrs. Lionel Chambers, 6111 Pershing avenue, Miss Babette Treumann, daughter of Mrs. Paul Treumann, 4752 Westminster place; Miss Margaret Switzler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal H. Switzler, Ridgewood and McKnight roads; Miss Marjorie Henger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Henger, 3459 Halliday avenue; Miss Inez Hall, daughter of Mrs. Marshall Hall, 6362 Waterman avenue; Miss Jane Caulfield, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Henry Caulfield; Miss Jane Stocke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Stocke, 6400 Cecil avenue, and Miss Margaret Sample, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sample, 6500 Ellenwood avenue.

Miss Louise Montague Stinde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Stinde, 6379 Waterman avenue, who is a student at Miss Bennett's School, Milbrook, N. Y., will arrive Friday for a holiday visit with her parents. She will be accompanied by Miss Jane, Miss Myra and Miss Helen Crump, students of Miss Bennett's School, who will spend a short time with Miss Stinde on their way to their home in Memphis, Tenn., for the holidays.

A benefit bridge party, sponsored by socially prominent women, will be given tomorrow evening in the Empire room of the Park Plaza, for Welcome Inn, a welfare station for the immediate relief of the needy.

Among those who have reserved tables for the party are: Mr. and Mrs. Seth Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezzell, Mrs. J. Dwight Dana, Mrs. John F. O'Neil, Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin, Miss Mary Scudder, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wright, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Pettus, Mrs. Alexander de Menil, Mrs. Otto Spaeth, Mrs. H. W. Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas B. Houser. Hostesses for the affair will include members of the board, Mrs. James M. Franciscus, Mrs. Price Lane, Mrs. C. E. Rostrom and Mrs. Nat S. Brown.

Mrs. J. C. Heman, 53 Fair Oaks, and her daughter, Miss Mary Jacque, have departed for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will meet Mr. Heman, to sail for Honolulu. They will return to St. Louis in about three months.

Gift Suggestions from Leppert-Roos 809 WASHINGTON for the Family's Christmas

A fur scarf is a princely gift. It may be silver or cross fox, baum marten, stone marten, Hudson Bay or Russian Sable.

"Sable for Mother" is our slogan—and what a gift that is!

The small scarf and matching muff of galyak is an interesting high fashion. Also smart in Ermine or Mole.

Fur gloves are a gift that a man will appreciate....for driving, football games or severe weather (below)

Leopard & Beaver are combined in this chic coat (right)

This little mink cape is a smart evening accessory

For the lady who has everything we offer fur laprobes, fur rugs, or that supreme luxury—a footmuff.

A gift of a muff and scarf in Leopard, Beaver, Baronduke or any soft pelt would be charming for the daughter of the house.

A fur coat for Christmas would make any little girl happy—in squirrel, raccoon lapin—or your own choice

OPPOSES GRADE CROSSING

P. S. Co. Attacks County's Proposal to Extend Highway.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 15.—The St. Louis Public Service Co. filed an answer yesterday to the application of St. Louis County which has asked the Missouri Public Service Commission for authority to extend Laclede Station road across the tracks of the Brentwood car line of the company, by constructing a grade crossing.

The company contends the crossing would be a hazard to the operation of its Brentwood line, and would be a detriment to the line, but that if the commission should find there was public necessity for the crossing, the entire cost should be paid by the county.

Pastor to Run for Senate.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 15. — The Rev. R. P. Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, here, whose radio broadcasting license was recently revoked by the Federal Radio Commission after several years of local political turmoil, last night announced his candidacy for the U. S. Senate.

INCREASED DEMANDS ON PROVIDENT SOCIETY

Expense for Two Years $1,145,890—$727,937 for Material Relief.

S. Louis Provident Association in the two years ended Dec. 1, the first two of the present business depression, spent $727,937 for the material relief of 41,643 families, E. G. Steger, manager of the association, has reported.

Total expenses in that time were $1,145,890, material relief accounting for 64 per cent of its budget. The association received $689,569 from the Community Fund, $353,660 from the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, and $96,269 from other sources.

More than half of those who applied for help had not been known previously to social agencies. About 25 per cent of the applicants at present are of the "white collar" class.

The smallest expenditure for material relief in any month, Steger said, was $8170 in September, 1930, and the largest, $63,660, last month, when 7976 families were receiving assistance. In November, 1929, 1738 families were helped.

MILLS URGES RISE IN TAXES TO SAVE FEDERAL CREDIT

so little on inheritance and death taxes."

Must Stop Borrowing.

Mills described the Government's borrowing to meet the deficit piled up last year. This practice must now be stopped, he said, and added:

"If we are called upon to finance, through borrowing, another huge deficit in 1933, and all manner of unwise and uneconomic expenditures in the meanwhile, leaving aside for the moment the general effect on the credit of the Government, our difficulties become very serious indeed."

Mills said the unimpaired credit of the Government was the most priceless possession of the people of the United States.

Preservation of Credit.

"We assume its existence as we assume the continuance of unlimited supplies of air and sunlight," he went on. "It has been established through the pursuance of sound fiscal policy in the past and so must it now be preserved. The immediate cost in increased taxes is small in comparison with the immediate and lasting benefit to the nation."

He warned that additional and unnecessary expenditures by the Government would further complicate a situation which he said already had driven the price of Government bonds below par. Expectation, he said, by the investing public that there would be a large additional increase in the public debt undoubtedly was responsible for this in some degree.

"There is fear of further huge grants to veterans," he continued. "There is fear of major drains upon the Treasury through uneconomic expenditures. All of this fear can be swept away only by adherence to sound financial principles and the development of a program of restricted expenditures and of increased revenues, which, if they do call for temporary sacrifices on the part of our people, will in the long run bring infinite benefit."

Credit Basis of Nation.

The credit structure of the nation depends to a great extent, Mills said, on the belief that the Government will meet its financial obligations promptly and punctiliously, on every occasion and in every emergency. He continued:

"Our currency rests predominantly upon the credit of the United States. Impair that credit and every dollar you handle will be tainted with suspicion. The foundation of our commercial credit system, the Federal Reserve banks and all other banks which depend upon them, are inextricably tied into and dependent upon the credit of the United States Government.

"Impair that credit today, and the day after, thousands of development projects—they are still going on—will stop; thousands of business men dependent upon credit renewals will get refusals from their bankers; thousands of mortgages that would otherwise be renewed or extended, will be foreclosed. Merchants who buy upon credit will cancel orders, factories that would manufacture on part capacity at least will close down.

Majority Still Earn Living.

"It is true that a distressingly large minority of the wage earners of this country are now out of work. But we must not forget that a majority still have enough work to make a living. We have lost much; but we have infinitely more to lose.

"What we still have, what we hope for in the future, are dependent in a large degree upon the preservation, unimpaired, of the credit of the United States. It will cost something to preserve it. The cost is additional taxation.

"The wealthy, the captains of industry, the bankers, must contribute to meet this cost; but the small business men, the white collar men, the farmer and the wage earner have an equally vital stake in the preservation of the nation's credit. The new taxes will cut into the income of the rich, and they will affect by some small amount the contributions made to the Government by those in moderate circumstances. But the result—the preservation of the nation's credit—is worth this cost, and for that matter, an even greater one, to all who are called upon to make some temporary sacrifice."

G. O. P. COMMITTEE SELECTS CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

Government for relief. It offers an opportunity on a partisan basis to seize upon the depression as the one chance of riding into office. The great temptation will induce leaders to withhold support which otherwise would be generously given. . . .

"It is the purpose of this committee to assist in convincing the disaffected that the President is not responsible for the spots on the sun, the storms at sea, the drouths on land, nor the numerous epidemics that frequently sweep sections of the country. Our business is to place Mr. Hoover in the minds of the public, where his stupendous efforts and brilliant leadership justify. This stage reached, there will be no doubt about the results of the contest next November."

The Dole and Suffering.

Fess reviewed in detail many things that has been done by the administration toward restoring confidence and stability. If Hoover succeeded only in preventing suffering and preventing adoption of the dole system, he would have done enough to distinguish him in history, said the Senator. Of the foreign debt situation, he said:

"The interrelation between Governments today is so close that a default on the part of one Government would be felt among the people of all Governments. This would especially be true in the case of a breakdown in Germany, to whom American funds were loaned for purposes of readjustment after the war. A default in meeting these obligations would further disturb our credit system by absorbing much of the liquid assets in our larger banks, which otherwise could be loaned to productive industry."

Applause interrupted Senator Fess' review of President Hoover's record at frequent intervals. The committee stood and applauded as Fess concluded his speech with an assurance President Hoover "will steer the ship of state safely to port."

Fess added, after his prepared address was concluded, "there isn't any doubt that Herbert Hoover will be re-elected next November by a tremendous majority."

A dinner was given last night in the state dining room for 28 Republican leaders in addition to the President and first day and Chairman Fess of the National Committee.

Those invited were: Ralph E. Williams, Oregon; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Kentucky; Daniel E. Pomeroy, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. George D. Keim, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nutt, Ohio; James Francis Burke, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lucas, Kentucky; Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, Missouri; Mrs. O. P. Clark, California; Mrs. Manley L. BROOKLYN SLAYER SENTENCED Gets 20 Years to Life; Dismembered Victim's Body.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Charles Obrietes, 26 years old, a former Brooklyn butcher, was sentenced to 20 years to life in prison yesterday for manslaughter in the slaying of Andrew Zubriski, who police said operated a speakeasy in Brooklyn.

Zubriski disappeared March 27 and shortly thereafter parts of his body were found in Brooklyn and Queens. When Obrietes was arrested he made a confession in which he stated Zubriski's wife gave him $300 for murdering her husband. He later repudiated his confession, however, and Mrs. Zubriski, who had been arrested, was released.

WOMAN ARRESTED, ACCUSED OF $718 MAIL FRAUD PLOT

Mrs. Beatrice von Tromp, Operator of Boarding House Used Another Name in Bank Deals.

DRAFTS NEVER REACHED NEW YORK

Instead Orders Were Received by Philadelphia Depository and Attempt Made to Draw on It.

Mrs. Beatrice von Tromp, who describes herself as "operator of a residential club at 4522 Lindell boulevard—some persons might call it a boarding house," was arrested last night in the Western Union office near Kingshighway and Delmar boulevards charged with using the mails to further a scheme to defraud. A warrant embodying that charge was issued against her today.

Mrs. von Tromp's arrest followed an investigation of more than six months by postoffice inspectors of the diversion of 12 checks for a total of $718.77 mailed on May 1 by the Bank of Maplewood & Trust Co. to the Chatham-Phoenix Bank in New York.

In a manner not yet determined by Postoffice Inspectors, the checks were diverted. They never reached the New York Bank. Instead, they were mailed from St. Louis by registered letter on May 28 to the Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia.

They were indorsed "Marion L. Shephard." In the letter accompanying them, Marion Shephard asked that they be deposited to open an account in her name. She explained that shortly she was to be a visitor to Philadelphia and wanted to have an account available for her withdrawal at that time.

Checks Reported Missing.

The postoffice inspectors were notified immediately of the appearance of the checks, which had previously been reported missing in transmission through the mails. For a time they were puzzled as to the manner to be employed in converting the fraud scheme to cash, but it all became clear when the Girard Trust Co. received a wire signed "Marian L. Shephard," on July 31. The telegram was an announcement that the trip had been postponed, and "might Marian Shephard draw on her Girard Trust Co. account from St. Louis."

The trust company was to reply in a letter addressed to the Coronado Hotel. The letter was sent and for a week Postoffice inspectors watched it. But Marian Shephard did not appear to claim it, and the investigators waited for the trust company to hear from her again.

She Makes No Statement.

Thursday she wired the bank again, the same message as was sent in July. The bank was instructed to wire her its reply and did so after notifying postoffice inspectors. Yesterday a woman who identifed herself as Marian Shephard instructed Western Union to relay the message to its office on Delmar boulevard.

It did so. When a woman visited the office to claim the message she was arrested. She proved to be Mrs. von Tromp, who was willing to describe her "residential club" on Lindell boulevard and her domestic force—a butler and three housemaids—but who refused to make a statement about the crime with which she is charged.

Postoffice inspectors questioned her closely, hoping to get some clew to explain how the checks were abstracted from the mails, apparently before they left St. Louis destined to the New York bank. To these and other questions she refused a reply.

Once, in determining her status in the "residential club" an inspector asked her whether she operated the establishment for herself, or as the agent or servant of someone else.

"Do I look like a menial to you?" she countered.

Mrs. von Tromp is about 40 years old. Her bond has been set at $2500.

GAS DEATH HELD ACCIDENTAL

Coroner's Verdict in Case of Walter Kammermeyer.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Walter Kammermeyer, 22 years old, who was found dead of gas poisoning in his flat at 3509A Missouri avenue Sunday morning.

According to testimony, a pot of coffee had boiled over, extinguishing the burner on a gas stove. The body was on a bed in an adjoining room.

Food Prices Rise in Japan.

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Japanese housewives already are feeling the pinch that followed suspension of the gold standard. The cost of rice and fish has gone up and on the whole money has lost about 20 per cent of its value.

HIGH WIND AT PHILADELPHIA

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15. — A Reading company barge loaded with 12 steel freight cars and carrying two men, was torn from its tow and blown across the Deleware River, and damage was done to homes in Philadelphia during a high wind early last night.

The barge was found later on the New Jersey shore near the mouth of Cooper Creek. The men were safe. Charles Yopp, 34 years old, Trevose, was blown off a scaffold 12 feet in the air. He suffered a fractured skull, concussion of the brain and internal injuries when he fell.

WOMAN'S CRIES THWART ROBBERY OF HER HUSBAND

Three Men Flee After Holding Up Bowling Alley Owner and His Wife in Front of Home.

The screams of Mrs. Cecelia Coibion, 3714 Fairview avenue, routed three holdup men who pointed revolvers at her and her husband, George, as they got out of their automobile in front of their home at 1 a. m. today. The men fled without searching Coibion, who operates a bowling alley at 3630A Olive street.

When three Negroes pointed revolvers at Robert Epstein, a druggist, and his wife in their store, 2730 North Taylor avenue, yesterday, Epstein ran to his apartment above the store and obtained his revolver. Returning to the store, Epstein fired two shots at the robbers, who fled without loot.

Eight persons, including a woman customer, were held up in a Kroger grocery at 4395 Laclede avenue, at 6:15 p. m. by a man armed with a revolver. The robber took $100 from the cash drawer and fled on foot.

Store Manager Robbed.

Guy Koby, manager of a Kroger grovery at 1247 South Vandeventer avenue, was robbed of $20 by an armed man, who entered the store.

B. W. Beinke, 4120 Holly Hills boulevard, was robbed of $17 by two men in an automobile, who crowded his machine to the curb at Gravois and Ellenwood avenues.

Harry Halt, proprietor of a restaurant at 3910 Laclede avenue, was robbed of $80 by two Negroes, who drew revolvers after asking for something to eat.

Octavio Capnaro, 2729 Cass avenue, an insurance agent, was robbed of $55 by two men armed with revolvers, who held him up in the 2500 block of Madison street.

Insurance Agent Robbed.

John K. Shaner, 2134 Victor street, an insurance agent, was robbed of $52 by two men, one armed with a revolver, who held him up at Ferry street and the Wabash tracks.

Fred Arbogast, 2811A Miami street, collector for a real estate company, was held up by two men in front of his home. The men asked for "company's money," but, when told by Arbogast that he had none, took $3 belonging to him.

Charles Smith, a taxicab driver, was robbed of $7 by a passenger who held up Smith at Second and Wright streets after riding from Eighteenth street and St. Louis avenue.

Three Men Rob Two Coal Concerns in East St. Louis.

Three men held up two East St. Louis coal concerns yesterday, fleeing in a stolen automobile in which a fourth man waited.

At 4:15 p. m., the men, armed with revolvers, forced three employes of the Gundlach Coal Co., 1001 North Twenty-fifth street, to lie on the floor, while one robber took $75 and a check for $28 from the cash drawer.

Fifteen minutes later robbers answering the same description entered the coal office of State Representative R. H. Huschle, 1922 St. Clair avenue, and stole $5 and a $40 check after forcing Mrs. Celia Sheer, a clerk, and two drivers to lie on the floor. Police later recovered the automobile, which was stolen in Brooklyn, Ill., abandoned on Sixteenth street.

Vernon Patterson, 733 North Eighth street, East St. Louis, was robbed of $26 and a ring by two men, who held him up near his home at 1:30 a. m. today. The robbers fled in an automobile.

$15,000,000 SUIT AGAINST R. C. A. BY RAYTHEON CO.

Violation of Anti-Trust Laws Alleged Through Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—The Raytheon Manufacturing Co. of Cambridge has filed suit against the Radio Corporation of America in Federal Court for $15,000,000, alleging injury to its business through acts of the defendants. The Raytheon company seeks three-fold damages totalling $9,000,000 and costs of the suit.

In charging that the Radio Corporation had damaged its business to the extent of $3,000,000, the plaintiff alleged violation of the anti-trust laws through conspiracy in restraint of trade. The Raytheon company manufactured Raytheon rectifier tubes.

The Raytheon company was first organized in 1922 as the American Appliance Co., later changing its name to the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. It has since become Raytheon, Inc., but the suit was brought in the name of the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. In 1926, the plaintiff stated, its net profits were $454,935 and prospects were at that time that they would be greatly increased.

The plaintiff alleged that the defendant corporation made contracts and engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade in interstate commerce. In carrying out the alleged conspiracy, the plaintiff said, the defendant made leases and contracts on the condition that the lessee or the licensee should not use or deal in the goods of competition of the defendant. It also was charged that the defendant sought and obtained a monopoly.

U. S. INVESTIGATING ENTRY OF MME. SCHIPA'S JEWELRY

Seeks to Levy $2650 Duty on $4000 Bracelet Owned by Opera Tenor's Wife.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A $4000 bracelet of Mme. Tito Schipa, wife of the operatic tenor, was held today by Fred H. Gardner of the Federal Secret Service, while the Government attempted to establish whether it was brought legally into this country by Mme. Schipa in the fall of 1926.

Schipa himself was questioned by Gardner yesterday. The tenor explained that 1926 was the year he had established residence in the United States, having previously avoided duty payments by maintaining legal residence in Italy. The agent insisted Schipa had established residence de facto when he purchased a Florida home in 1923. If Gardner's contentions are confirmed, a duty of $2650 will be assessed, he said. The statute of limitations prevents the Government from attempting to levy a penalty which, in this case, would amount to $12,000.

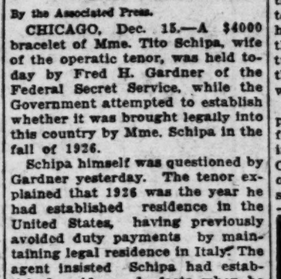

FRIED CHICKEN FAVORITE FOOD OF MISSOURI WIVES

Result of Questionnaire of 30,000 Women Announced at Meeting of Hotel Men.

Fried chicken won a close decision over bacon-and-eggs as the most popular dish in Missouri in a vote taken last night among members of the St. Louis Stewards' Association at the organization's monthly meeting at Hotel Jefferson. Third most popular was apple pie.

After the vote it was announced that in a questionnaire conducted by a New York hotel, a majority of 30,000 Missouri housewives circularized voted fried chicken as their favorite.

TAMPA CIGAR STRIKE ENDS

5000 Workers Tire of Idleness and Accept Factory Terms.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 15.—Five thousand tobacco workers returned to their benches in cigar factories here yesterday, ending a strike that started Nov. 27. Manufacturers said about 70 per cent of those employed before the walkout were taken back.

About 7000 quit work the latter part of November and the first few days of December in protesting against the imprisonment of 17 Communists for disorder in a demonstration recently. Adding to the situation was a decision of manufacturers to prohibit the factory readers who for generations have read aloud to the cigarmakers as they worked. Last week the strikers tired of their idleness and offered to go back to work on any terms suitable to the manufacturers.

HOTEL CLARIDGE IN RECEIVERSHIP; TO BE REFINANCED

Owners Consent to Action When They Fail to Arrange for Retirement of Bonds Maturing Today.

$355,000 DUE ON FIRST MORTGAGE

Bank Had Threatened Foreclosure; President of Firm and O. T. Remmers in Charge.

Receivers are in charge of the Claridge Hotel because the owners have been unable to make refinancing arrangements which would enable them to retire $355,000 in first mortgage bonds which mature today. The hotel, a 350-room, 10-story structure, on the southwest corner of Eighteenth and Locust streets, was erected 10 years ago at a cost of $1,290,000.

Charles F. Levy, president of the Claridge Hotel Co., which holds title to the building, and president also of the Hub Furniture Co., 701 Washington avenue, was appointed temporary co-receiver yesterday, with Oliver T. Remmers, attorney. Circuit Judge Rosskopf made the appointments, acting on a petition filed by the furniture company, which alleged the hotel company owed it $60,485 for furniture purchased a year ago.

Company Consents to Action.

The hotel company, through its attorney, Joseph Grand of Greensfelder & Grand, consented to the receivership. Grand, in a statement, said this was done to conserve the company's assets and maintain it as a going concern until re-financing arrangements can be made.

The petition for receivers alleged the Mercantile-Commerce company, trustee for the bondholders, had threatened to foreclose if the bonds were not retired on maturity, and that a foreclosure sale, under present market conditions, would result in substantial losses.

The hotel property, it is stated, is worth $1,500,000, but that amount could not be realized by sale at this time because of the present depressed real estate market. The hotel can, however, the petition relates, continue to meet its current obligations and is prepared to make substantial payments on the mortgages.

$140,506 in Unsecured Claims.

There are, the petition sets forth, $140,506 in unsecured claims against the hotel. In addition, there is a second mortgage for $190,000, given to Straus Bros. Investment Co. of Chicago, in partial payment for the Mark Twain Hotel, purchased while under construction three years ago by the Claridge Hotel Co.

The Mark Twain, a 16-story building at Eighth and Pine streets, is also in receivership.

The original mortgage on the Claridge, promoted by Levy in 1921, was $600,000, and financing was arranged through the Mortgage Trust Co. In November, 1926, the project was refinanced through the Mercantile-Commerce Trust Co., and the loan was reduced to $400,000. Since then $45,000 of the bonds have been retired, leaving $355,000 outstanding.

Jacob M. Lashly was appointed as attorney for the receiver.

LEGISLATIVE AND TAX BUREAU OF COMMERCE BODY FORMED

Scott R. DeKins and Thomas H. Rogers to Have Charge of Department.

Formation of a Legislative and Tax Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce to kee St. Louis firms informed on tax measures pending in Congress was announced today by Clifford W. Gaylord, recently elected chairman of the board of the Chamber.

The new unit will be under the direction of Scott R. DeKins, with Thomas H. Rogers as assistant director. The bureau will not concern itself with any local tax situations, which will continue to be handled by the Municipal Research Bureau and other agencies.

"As to legislation, the first function of the bureau is purely informative," Gaylord announced. "We will make an attempt to acquaint St. Louis business men with any pending measures affecting their business. Action on these may be handled individually or through their trade groups or associations.

"There may be questions like dole, or sales tax, or others, which would concern the entire business community and concerning which there seemed a necessity for action on the part of the whole Chamber. In these cases special committees will be asked to consider the pending measures. Otherwise we are not intending to make group presentations and canvas sentiment on all forms of legislation."

Closing Time for Foreign Mail.

Mailing times for dispatch to foreign countries are announced as follows: Mails for France, Italy and Jugo Slavia, 9 p. m. today; parcel post for Great Britain and all European mails except France, Italy and Jugo Slavia, 9 p. m. tomorrow. Air mail for Europe closes at 3 p. m. Friday.

SANFORD B. STANBERY DIES, BRIGADIER-GENERAL IN WAR

Enlisted as Private When Past 45; Decorated for Gallantry; Southern Railway Trustee.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15.—Sanford B. Stanbery, 60 years old, Brigadier-General during the World War and a trustee of the Southern Railway system, died here last night after an illness of several months.

Gen. Stanbery, past 45 when America entered the war, was ineligible for an officers' training school, so he enlisted as a private in the Ohio National Guard.

One month after his enlistment for service in the World War, he was commissioned a Colonel by Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio and transferred to Montgomery, Ala., as commanding officer of the 145th Infantry. He went overseas with the Thirty-seventh Division. He was promoted to Brigadier-General on Oct. 1, 1918, commanded a brigade of the Seventy-eighth Division in the Argonne offensive and received the Distinguised Service Medal for gallantry in action.

DEPUTIES FOR LAVAL'S PLAN TO MAKE GOOD SILVER LOSSES

Vote of Confidence Necessary to Ratify Agreement to Compensate Bank of France.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Premier Laval obtained ratification from the Chamber of Deputies last night of a Government agreement to make good losses of the Bank of France resulting from depreciation in sterling holdings last autumn.

The agreement, under which the state would compensate the bank for losses of $100,000,000, was ratified by a vote of 321 to 269 after the Premier was obliged twice to raise the question of confidence.

The sharpest attack in the stiff fight from the opposition was led by Germain Martin, former Budget Minister, who moved to refer the measure back to the Finance Committee. This motion was defeated by a majority of only 33, the Chamber rejecting it in a vote of confidence by 307 to 274.

'SKI GIRL' LEAVES HOSPITAL IN COMPANY OF MOTHER

Parent Hurriedly Drives Away, and They Leave no Forwarding Address.

By the Associated Press.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Miss May Gledhill, known throughout Canada as "the ski girl," because of posters she posed for, left the hospital today recovered from an illness the cause of which she had told police to "try and find out."

Mrs. Anna Peel Gledhill, the girl's mother, drove up to the county hospital in a closed car, ushered her daughter out and drove away so quickly that hospital officials even neglected to present their bill. They said they had no forwarding address. Inquiries disclosed that mother and daughter had not gone to the home of Mrs. William Conner, who had been keeping Miss Gledhill's 2-year-old son during her absence.

Miss Gledhill, who had been living with Mrs. Conner, collapsed Nov. 29 after a visit from men she thought to be immigration inspectors. Officials sought to determine if she had taken poison and she told them to try and find out. Mrs. Conner told officials that her husband was the father of Miss Gledhill's child.

TO HEAD LACLEDE GAS LIGHT CO.

EDWARD P. GOSLING.

PRESIDENT EVANS QUITS LACLEDE GAS

To Be Succeeded Jan. 1, by E. P. Gosling, Now Manager of Subsidiary Concern.

Retirement of George B. Evans as president of the Laclede Gas Light Co. was announced today.

He will be succeeded Jan. 1, when his resignation is effective, by Edward P. Gosling, vice president and general manager of the Laclede Power & Light Co., a subsidiary.

Upon his retirement, President Evans will have concluded 26 years in various capacities for the Laclede organization. He joined the company in 1903 as a structural steel engineer. After four years he took a position in New York, returning to St. Louis in 1909 as plant superintendent.

From 1909 to 1925, when he was elected prsidnt of the Laclede Gas Light Co., h held th eoffices of general superintendent, chief engineer, vice president and general manager.

Evans upon retirement will divide his time between St. Louis and a family farm near Madison, Wis. He is unmarried.

Gosling joined the Laclede Power and Light Co. last year, holding the position of vice president and general manager. Formerly he was general manager of the Newport Electric Corporation, Newport, R. I. He has served 40 years as an officer of public utilities. His home is at 3 Arundel place.

PAROLED ST. LOUIS CONVICT HELD IN CHICAGO AS ROBBER

Charles Weber Caught by Policeman but His Two Companions Make Escape.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Charles Weber, who gave his age as 22, was captured by Policeman Peter Maguire last night when fleeing with two companions from a candy shop they had robbed. As the officer seized Weber and wrenched a pistol from his hand the other two escaped in an automobile.

Weber is said to have told police that he was convicted of a robbery in St. Louis and served five years of a sentence in the Missouri State penitentiary, from which he is now on parole. He refused to identify his companions.

St. Louis police records show that Charles Leonard Weber, now 25 years old, pleaded guilty of robbery June 7, 1927, and was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. He and another youth were charged with holding up the operator of a gasoline station with a toy pistol.

TELLER AND $30,000 MISSING

Warrant Issued for Employe of Racine, Wis., Bank.

By the Associated Press.

RACINE, Wis., Dec. 15.—Search for Charles Harvey, 22 years old, orphan and junior teller in the American Trades and Savings Bank, was under way here today following discovery by auditors that he was $30,000 short in his accounts. A warrant for his arrest was obtained yesterday. The discovery of the shortage was made yesterday when Harvey failed to appear for work.

Grover C. Weyland, president of the bank, said Harvey had approximately $45,000 in cash in his cage when the bank opened Saturday night and no check was made after closing at 9 o'clock. Investigation disclosed the teller who lived with his grandparents had turned in only $15,000 when he left the bank.

URGES CUT IN ARAMENTS

Christian Endeavor Group Presents Petition to Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—President Hoover was urged today to "take leadership with a definite program for the reduction of armaments," by 40 officers and leaders of the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

The visitors presented an engraved petition calling for a strong program at the Geneva disarmament conference. Mr. Hoover received the petition on the south lawn of the White House, where he stood with Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the society, and the entire delegation.

SOVIET SAYS GRAIN CROP EXCEEDS 1930'S

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—Collections of the 1931 Russian grain crop up to date exceed those of 1930, according to an official Government announcement.

In 1930 upwards of 800,000,000 was turned in at Government warehouses. No figures on this year's crop were given out and there was no indication of how much the 1931 crop surpasses its predecessor. The announcement merely added that collections reached 84.4 per cent of the 1931 plan on Dec. 10 and that the whole program would be fulfilled by the end of this month.

The report was considered as refuting previous reports abroad that this year's available export wheat from Russia would be considerably diminished. Such reports were regarded here by foreign observers, as very exaggerated, in spite of the intention to increase home consumption of grain in Russia.

The Communist party and Soviet agricultural organizations have begun a drive against delays as part of a program to forestall any hitch in the program. These delays, they have charged, were due to "opportunism among collective farmers who have withheld grain for their own use," to "class enemies," such as rich peasants and to inefficiency of those responsible for collections.

Cutting off of credits extended for machinery and fertilizers on state and collective farms has been threatened as a penalty for failing to fulfill quotas. Such credits last year amounted to half a billion dollars.

Lawyer Leaps to Death.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Harold G. Curtis, a lawyer, committed suicide today by leaping from a window of his suite on the fourth floor of the Hotel Devon. The body crashed through an inner skylight and fell on the floor of the lobby, where a dozen of the hotel's guests were lounging.

MANY INTERSECTIONS WITHOUT STREET SIGNS

Due to Change in Contractors for Maintenance of Gas Lights.

Due to a change of contractors for maintenance of the gas street lights which still serve about one-third of the city's area, hundreds of intersections have been lacking street signs during the past month.

Director of Public Utilities Pritchard said today that installation of an improved type of sign to replace the old ones is expected to be completed within a few days.

In the meantime, as the result of complaints, the Street Department will make a survey to determine where signs are missing. There are about 4600 gas lamps, of which, Pritchard estimated, about 1000 should have street signs, inscribed on the glass globes.

The Welsbach Street Lighting Co. of America, which had the maintenance contract for 25 years, used a sign consisting of red letters painted on a glass band on the globe. Its contract expired Sept. 1 and it was succeeded by G. Locke Tarlton, who was low bidder on a three-year contract. A month ago the Welsbach company began removing its mantles, leaving many streets in darkness the night of Nov. 13. An agreement was reached to avoid continuance of this condition, but then the Welsbach company began gradual removal of the globes, or exterior covers, while Tarlton installed his own. In connection with this, the old signs began to disappear.

The new signs will have black letters and should be easier to read than the old ones, Pritchard said. Deliveries of all sorts have been confused and delayed by the absence of signs. Outlying districts chiefly are served by gas lamps.

Packing Houses Increase Force.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 15.—Officials of the Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. packing plants here said 300 men had been added to their working forces within the last two weeks. They said if receipts of cattle and hogs continued large throughout the winter, the added employes would be retained.

NEW ZEALAND'S FINANCIAL SITUATION GROWS WORSE

Chances of "Making Ends Meet" Rapidly Disappearing, Cabinet Member Says.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 15.—New Zealand's chances of "making ends meet" in the current financial year are rapidly disappearing, despite increased taxation and governmental economies, Finance Minister Downie Stewart said yesterday. He urged further economies, saying he thought prospects for the next financial year would be still more difficult.

While a considerable falling off in revenue had been allowed for in the current year, his statement said, the actual drop during the eight months ending Nov. 30 had been nearly $15,000,000.

Expenditures were $5,000,000 below the budget estimate for the period, but owing to the fluctuations in sterling this figure was not so favorable as it might appear, Stewart stated.

Shot in Leg While Hunting.

Millions gargle uselessly while colds hang on

3 out of 4 gargle uselessly while sore throats get worse and colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that can't kill germs unless used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds, even when diluted with two parts of water. It goes 3 times as far as other antiseptics. Thus $1 worth does the work of $3 spent for ordinary kinds.

A NATION of garglers! Lusty gargles. Gambling—75% of them—with mouth antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. You may fool yourself that way. But always remember—you can't fool a cold. You can't fool sore throat. You can't fool bad breath. If you dilute your antiseptic—as 3 out of 4 do—you must choose one that still kills germs when diluted with water.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

A new discovery, safe yet powerful

Modern research laboratories have thrown away the old ideas on killing germs.

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 worth of results for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Combating colds and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head	After Shaving
Throat Irritations	Minor Cuts
Voice Hoarseness	Blisters
Bad Breath	Loose Dandruff
Cold Sores	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration
Canker Sores	Tired, Aching Feet
Mouth Irritations

THREE SHOT IN PISTOL FIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Three persons were wounded in a pistol fight between a policeman and a robber at a busy street intersection here yesterday.

Policeman Olin Wheeler was called by an owner of a shoe store from which Thomas Nolan, recently released from a jail term, was fleeing with $57. The robber fired four shots at the officer. One struck the policeman's badge, another wounded him in the left wrist, and a third struck Robert R. Miller, a salesman, who was passing by. The officer returned the fire and a bullet struck the robber in the wrist, knocking his pistol from his hand. All of the victims were taken to hospitals.

BRIDGE APPROACH FOUNDATION BIDS TO BE RECEIVED JAN. 19

Western Structure for Railroads to Come to Grade Near Twelfth Street.

Bids will be received on Jan. 19 by the Board of Public Service for construction of the foundations of the western rail approach of the Municipal Bridge. Total cost of the approach has been estimated at $906,000, including $127,000 for the foundations, but city engineers believe the price will be lower because of reduced construction expenses.

The approach will connect with the present bridge structure at Seventh and Gratiot streets, and will reach grade in the yards near Twelfth and Poplar streets. It will enable the Terminal Railroad to start using this crossing for passenger trains. The Terminal has advanced the funds and will be reimbursed through credits on tolls. There will be engineering difficulties in erecting the western approach, chief among which will be the presence of mucky subsoil left from Chouteau Pond, which existed in this district many years ago. Proximity to buildings and to tracks which are in use, will add to the problem.

SUES TO REMOVE MISSOURI STATE LIFE DIRECTORS

Holder of Five Shares of Stock Seeks Accounting Order for Alleged Acts of Mismanagement.

HEARING IS SET BY COURT FOR DEC. 24

Company Counsel Says Firm's Assets Are $160,000,000, It Has $1,000,000 in Bank and No Debts

Charges of mismanagement of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., made by rival factions in the recent sharp fight for proxies with which to control the approaching annual stockholders' meeting, were repeated in a bill in equity against the company and eight directors filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Jerome F. Duggan, a stockholder, through his attorneys, Hyman G. Stein and Carl Dubinsky. Circuit Judge Hartmann made an order to show cause returnable Dec. 24.

Asserting the insurance company is solvent and policyholders in no danger of loss, despite losses caused the company by the management of the defendant directors and officers, the petition asks the court to remove the eight directors and restrain them from further acting as directors, and to order them to account to the corporation for the alleged acts of mismanagement, in order to avoid possible further results which might adversely affect the interests of stockholders and policyholders.

Morton Jourdan of the law firm of Jourdan & English, general counsel of the company, declared today the suit is without foundation, as the company has gross assets of $160,000,000, more than $1,000,000 in banks and no debts. He said the company's records show that Duggan, a lawyer, owns only five shares of the company's capital stock, of which 500,000 shares are outstanding in the hands of more than 4000 owners.

Directors Under Fire.

The directors named as defendants are F. O. Watts, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of St. Louis; E. D. Nims, chairman of the insurance company's board; Hillsman Taylor, president; Charles S. Sargent, New York; W. S. Bransford, Nashville, Tenn.; C. S. Arnett, Louisville, Ky. (C. G. Arnett, president of the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Co. of Louisville, Ky., is a director); Theobald Feiss of Cincinnati, and Thomas M. Pierce, a St. Louis lawyer.

Four other directors are not included as defendants. They are Machir J. Dorsey of Hammond, Ind., president of the Keystone Holding Co. which controls 29½ per cent of the Missouri State stock; Melvin L. Emerich and Stephen Paul of Hallgarten & Co. New York, and H. S. Tressel of Chicago. There is one vacancy on the board caused by the recent death of J. Sheppard Smith of St. Louis.

Reviews Caldwell Connection.

Duggan's petition reviews the connection of Caldwell & Co., defunct investment banking institution, with the insurance company, and asserts Missouri State Life suffered large losses from the purchase of securities for about $2,000,000 in cash from Caldwell & Co. early in 1930 in consummation of a deal whereby Inter-Southern Life acquired a large block of stock of Missouri State Life. The petition asserts this transaction was with the knowledge and consent of the directors named as defendants.

The petition also asserts that when Caldwell & Co. failed about $1,400,000 of Missouri State Life's funds were on deposit in banks which also failed because of their connection with Caldwell & Co. Another transaction complained of was the payment of about $45,000 in fees to a lawyer.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the insurance company is to be held Jan. 19. As has been told, the factional fight for control was settled recently by agreement on a prospective board of directors and on a plan for selection of a new president to succeed Hillsman Taylor. Attorney Jourdan pointed out that this action removed the dissension within the board of directors and provided for harmonious management.

HOOVER CHATS ON POLITICS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—President Hoover dedicated his midday hours today to a swift and varied discussion of political conditions. In rapid succession four groups from as many different states entered his office before luncheon. Later more than 20 men and women members of the Republican National Committee were at the White House for luncheon. He entertained other committee members at luncheon yesterday. Senator Dale of Vermont and a delegation of four were the first to enter Mr. Hoover's office.

James A. Harris of Tulsa, Ok., representing Mrs. E. S. Rood, Republican committeewoman from Oklahoma, said his delegation of six had given the President an optimistic report. Gov. Brucker of Michigan also talked briefly with the President.

CHURCH SERVICE TO SUCCESS OF DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Archbishop of Canterbury Deplores Expenditures for Arms Since World War.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Despite the lesson of the World War, the nations are still pouring tremendous amounts into the building of armaments, the Archbishop of Canterbury said today at a service in St. Paul's dedicated to the success of next year's disarmament conference.

"The world is spending no less than £2,000,000 a day," he declared, "and we in this country are spending £200 a minute."

Prime Minister MacDonald and others of the country's distinguished figures attended the service.

DEMOCRATIC POLICY GROUP EXCHANGE VIEWS ON PROGRAM

Expenditure, Taxation and Tariff to Be Studied Further; No Details Settled.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Democratic Policy Committee announced today that every effort would be made to reduce Government expenditures, but that no details with respect to the tariff or tax devision were agreed upon. A statement issued after a meeting read:

"There was a partial interchange of views regarding the proposed moratorium, Government expenditures, taxation and the tariff. . . .

"It was agreed that every possible effort shall be made to reduce Government expenditures and with that end in view studies will be carried on.

"No details with respect to the tariff and revised internal revenue taxes were agreed upon, these and other matters being deferred for future consideration. Speaker Garner and Senator Robinson were authorized to reconvene the committee at an early date."

For Congressional Broadcast.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A resolution proposing a study of the practicability of broadcasting Senate proceedings was approved yesterday by the Senate Rules Committee. Immediate action was blocked by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

From Colds Where You Want
Extra Help

Coughs from colds call for super help. Don't take the chance with anything less than Creomulsion. That combines seven major helps in one. See label. It does the utmost for such coughs.

But wise people use it for milder coughs—use it to be safe. It costs a little more than lesser helps based on a single factor. But it costs nothing if it fails to bring you prompt relief. Your druggist guarantees it. Is it not worth more to have supreme help for a trouble that breeds danger?

GEHRIG BROKE RECORD FOR DRIVING IN RUNS, LAST SEASON

LOU ACCOUNTED FOR 184 TALLIES; KRESS, GOSLIN LED BROWNIES

Hack Wilson to Play With Cards, Sam Breadon Says

HACK WILSON will be seen in a Cardinal uniform next season, notwithstanding earlier reports to the effect that Wilson was acquired merely as trading timber. President Sam Breadon yesterday said that he intended to give Wilson every opportunity to come back as a member of the Redbirds.

"I think we have made a fine deal," Breadon observed, "although it looked for a while as though Wilson had no great value. I have had numerous letters from fans urging us to keep Wilson and give him a chance.

"Of course, when I say I will keep Wilson that is always subject to the possibility that some club will make us a sensational offer, which we would have to consider. But I expect no such offer.

"It will not surprise me if Wilson completely regains his batting form and in that case he will be of great value to us. I do not anticipate any difficulty in signing Wilson."

Breadon will depart for the Bahama Islands next Thursday.

By Herman Wecke,

That great hitting combination of Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth of the Yankees paired together again in the 1931 American League campaign to run one-two in the matter of driving in runs, according to official averages of the league, released today. Gehrig was the leader with 184, while Ruth came next with 163. So between the pair, they clubbed in 347 of the total for Joe McCarthy's club.

Gehrig's total of 184 established a new record for the league, surpassing his own figure of 175, set in 1927. It was the fifth consecutive campaign in which Gehrig has batted in 100 or more runs. In this time, he was first three times and tied for the honor on another occasion.

Two of the 12 athletes who batted in 100 or more runs during the season were members of the Browns. They were Ralph Kress, with 114 tallies clubbed across and Goose Goslin, whose total reached 105. These two supplied about the only punch for Bill Killefer's club, since Oscar Melillo, next in line for the St. Louis team, drove in but 75.

Two newcomers, Ray Chapman of the Yankees and Joe Vosmik of the Indians, broke into the 100 runs batted in circle, with 122 and 117, respectively. Al Simmons, the league's batting champion, batted in 128.

The honor of drawing the greatest number of passes again went to Ruth with 128. He was given a close race by Lu Blue, former Brownie with the White Sox, with 127. Gehrig, 117, and Max Bishop, 112, were the only others to draw more than 100 bases on balls. The Yankees as a team drew 748 passes for a new record.

The doubtful honor of being the strikeout king went to Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics with 84. Ruth struck out but 51 times to established a new major league record for himself.

SOUTH BROADWAY BOUT WINNERS MAY SHOW ON CHARITY PROGRAM

Winners of three special events featuring an amateur boxing tournament Thursday night at the South Broadway A. C. may be pitted against the senior or junior Mississippi Valley A. A. champions of their respective weight divisions in the preliminary fistic attractions of the Community Fund benefit show at The Arena on the night of Dec. 23, according to plans outlined by Matchmaker Willie Miller.

Joe "Peanuts" Borich of the Mound City A. C. meets Edwin Stopke of Sherman Park Community Center, in a lightweight feature of the South Broadway tourney, while Johnny Bush of the Tower A. C., and Eddie Edson of the National A. A., will clash in a middleweight event. The third star bout brings Mike Logliolo, South Broadway featherweight, against Carl Schafer of the E-K Athletic Club.

Charley Schober, senior middleweight champion of the Valley organization, is preparing to take on the winner of the Edson-Bush match, an engagement between two of the sturdiest punchers in the local amateur ranks, while Danny Durso, senior featherweight titleholder, is the scrapper Miller has in mind for the winner of the Schafer-Logliolo contest.

COACH MAL STEVENS TO SPEAK AT ST. LOUIS YALE ALUMNI DINNER

Mal Stevens, head football coach at Yale University, will be the principal speaker at the St. Louis Yale Alumni's annual dinner tomorrow night at the Racquet Club, at 7:30 o'clock. More than 200 guests are expected, according to G. H. Walker Jr., president of the local association.

Kansas Signs a 3-Year Contract With Billikens

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 15.—Scheduling of St. Louis University for a game at St. Louis next Oct. 29 completes the University of Kansas football schedule for 1932.

The university's Athletic Board today approved the game, which will find the Jayhawkers playing eight games as compared with nine this past season in addition to a charity encounter.

Notre Dame, Nebraska and Oklahoma Universities will be played in Lawrence and Denver University, St. Louis University, Iowa State, Kansas State and Missouri will be played on foreign gridirons.

Coach Charles J. Walsh said the agreement with Kansas was for three years, the first two games to be played here and the place of the next one decided upon later.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

NEW YORK—Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight, defeated Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo (10); Jimmy Slavin, New York lightweight, defeated Joe Leone, New York (10); Don Petrin, Newark light heavyweight, knocked out Eddie Malcolm, New York (7); Eduardo Duary, Cuban welterweight, knocked out Frankie McKenna, New York (10); Jackie Rosenberg, New York middleweight, defeated Milton Hunter, New York (8).

HOLYOKE, Mass.—Johnny Pena, Spanish featherweight, defeated Roland Lecuyer, Holyoke (10).

MIAMI—Vince Dundee, Baltimore middleweight, scored a technical knockout over Ernesto Sagues, Chile (9).

FRANKLIN, Pa.—Battling Gizzy, Pittsburg, outpointed Mickey Doyle, Wilkes-barre, Pa. (10).

LONDON—Jack (Kid) Berg, London, stopped Baudry, France (5).

PHILADELPHIA—Tony Herrera, Chicago, outpointed Lew Massey, Philadelphia (10); Pat Igoe, Shenandoah, knocked out Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich. (3).

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—Buddy Jones, Elkhart, knocked out Davey Rosen, Joliet, Ill. (3).

Notre Dame Plays Purdue.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 15.—Notre Dame will face Purdue in a game of basketball here tonight with two of the Irish stars on the sick list. John Baldwin and Leo Crowe, considered two of the Notre Dame mainstays, were in the university infirmary suffering from severe colds. Purdue is strongly favored to win by many critics.

ST. LOUIS U. ANNOUNCES 10 FOOTBALL DATES FOR NEXT YEAR

With the closing today of a game with Marquette University, for next Oct. 14, Coach "Chile" Walsh announced the 1932 football schedule of St. Louis University. It includes 10 games and winds up with three big games in succession—Missouri U., Washington and Carnegie Tech. Nine of the games will be played at home.

Sept. 30 will be the opening date and the season will run to Dec. 3, the second Saturday after Thanksgiving, when Carnegie Tech will be the attraction.

The list shows that the first three games will be played on Friday nights and then the dates change to Saturday. Coach Walsh said the Saturday dates might not all be adhered to; that he had the prerogative of moving up games to Friday night if he decided that would be a better day and he elected to dispense with the extra day's practice afforded by playing on Saturdays.

The Washington U. Bears have no home games next year from Oct. 22 to Thanksgiving day, and this leaves the weekends open to St. Louis.

The full schedule follows:

Sept. 30—McKendree, here, night.
Oct. 7—Wyoming, here, night.
Oct. 14—Marquette, here, night.
Oct. 22—Loyola at New Orleans, night.
Oct. 29—Kansas here, hour undecided.
Nov. 5—Drake, here, night.
Nov. 12—Haskell, here, night.
Nov. 19—Missouri, here, afternoon.
Nov. 24—Washington U., here, afternoon.
Dec. 3—Carnegie Tech, here, afternoon.

The Kansas game has just been closed as a date and decision as to whether it will be played in afternoon or at night will be made later.

REGINALD SMITH HOLDS SCORING LEAD IN HOCKEY LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 15.—Reginald (Hooley) Smith, pugnacious right wing of the Montreal Maroons, continues to lead the National Hockey League in scoring.

Latest averages issued by the league to cover games played up to and including Sunday night credit Smith with four goals and nine assists for 13 points and a lead of a point over Charlie Conacher of Toronto and Dave Trottier of the Maroons. Bill Cook of the New York Rangers and Aubrey Clapper of Boston are tied for fourth place with 11 points.

Conacher's 11 goals give him the lead in that department, Cook and Trottier being tied for second place with nine. Smith's nine assists lead the league, with Joe Primeau of Toronto second with seven. Nels Stewart of the Maroons and Eddie Shore of Boston each has served 32 minutes in penalties.

Figures for the leaders follow:

PLAYER.	G's.	A's.	Pts.
Smith, Montreal Maroons	4	9	13
Conacher, Toronto	11	1	12
Trottier, Maroons	9	3	12
W. Cook, New York Rangers	9	2	11
Clapper, Boston	7	4	11
Siebert, Maroons	8	2	10
Stewart, Maroons	6	4	10

SOLDAN REJECTS FOOTBALL TITLE; NO 1931 AWARD OF YALE BOWL

Herbert P. Stellwagen, principal of Soldan High School, at noon today announced that Soldan High School declined to accept the Yale Bowl or any other trophy or honors that hight accrue to it from the ineligibility of Allison Graves Shannon, quarterback of Roosevelt High School.

Soldan had been awarded the trophies in a resolution passed yesterday at a meeting of the Athletic Board at Cleveland High School, when Roosevelt forfeited all athletic contests in which Shannon, ineligible athlete, appeared.

The Roosevelt action followed an investigation of Shannon's age which revealed that he was born on Dec. 4, 1910, and not on Dec. 4, 1911, as shown on his registration card at Roosevelt High School. In an open letter issued by Maynard M. Hart, Roosevelt principal, it was stated that "inasmuch as there was ample evidence to the effect that Allison Graves Shannon, who played on the Roosevelt football team this past season against Central and Soldan high schools, misrepresented his age, giving the date of his birth at Louisville, Ky., as Dec. 4, 1911, instead of Dec. 4, 1910, we (Roosevelt) are willing to forfeit the victories over the teams herein mentioned. Further, we forfeit any points made by this pupil since Dec. 4, 1930."

McKinley May Re-Enter Field.

The celebration planned by the Roosevelt authorities for tomorrow afternoon was canceled. Soldan's decision follows the precedent established in 1923 when a Central player was found to be over age and no award was made of the Yale Bowl.

If Soldan had accepted the trophy it would have retired the Yale Bowl permanently since the West Enders needed only one more leg to have five and sole ownership. The situation now is that the bowl will remain in competition until some school shall win it five times.

Roosevelt's forfeiture may have an unlooked-for effect because it is not improbable that McKinley will be returned to its former status as a senior high school and insist upon retaining its two legs won in 1915 and 1917. If that happens Roosevelt's number of legs will be reduced from four to two and the new arrangement would leave Soldan with four, Cleveland three and Central, Roosevelt and McKinley each two. In the 17 years of competition there were two ties and two "no awards," in addition to the 13 championships.

Soldan's Letter.

Besides the Yale Bowl, the senior track trophy and the Hellmich trophy were given to Soldan, but all were rejected in the letter sent by Stellwagen to Karl L. Ware, chairman of the Interscholastic League board, which follows:

"My Dear Mr. Ware:

"We have received report of the statement made by Mr. Maynard M. Hart, principal of Roosevelt High School, relative to the episode involving the eligibility of one of the high school athletes, and also report of the action taken in the situation last night by the Interscholastic League Board.

"It is cause for regret that a single action of an individual can so unfortunately involve many people and affect many events.

"We at Soldan have only respect and admiration for Mr. Hart, for the athletic management at Roosevelt, and for Roosevelt High School. The fine spirit revealed in Mr. Hart's statement does not surprise us at all.

"After very careful consideration of the whole matter, by the administration and the athletic managers at Soldan, Soldan declines to accept the football championship for the past season, the permannt possession of the Yale Bowl at this time, the championship in senior track for last sping and the award to us of the Hellmich trophy for the past season. Our earnest suggestion to the high school principals, to the Interscholastic League Board, and to the St. Louis Club of Alumni of Yale University is that the championship and trophies be not awarded this year.

"Sincerely yours,
"HERBERT P. STELLWAGEN."

PORTSMOUTH ELEVEN IN DEBT $17,000 ON SEASON'S PLAY

PORTSMOUTH, O., Dec. 15.—A committee of local manufacturers, business men and directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday launched a stock-selling campaign to assure the continuance of the Portsmouth Spartans as a member of the National Professional Football League.

The committee appealed to football fans to subscribe to stock. The Spartans finished the 1931 season with a deficit of more than $17,000 and Harry Snyder, club president, said that last year's deficit of $30,000 remains unpaid.

ST. LOUIS BOY NAMED KANSAS U. CAPTAIN

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 15.—Otto Rost, St. Louis, all-Big Six tackle, was named honorary captain of the 1931 University of Kansas football team at a community celebration here last night.

At the same time Victor Costo, flashy tackle, was chosen 1932 captain of the Haskell Indian eleven.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Another Man o' War.

PHAR LAP, Australia's Man o' War, is now on his way to the United States, where he is to compete in the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, next year.

As has been told, this great horse has won $285,000 and has beaten all the great thoroughbreds of his own country, winning the Melbourne cup twice, once under 145 pounds weight. His failure to win it this year may have been due to the impossible impost of 150 pounds which he was asked to shoulder.

The entries for the Caliente stake, which is at one and one-fourth miles, have closed although the complete entry list is not available.

Among the entrants that Phar Lap may have to meet are Dr. Freeland, a Preakness winner, and Brown Wisdom, My Dandy, Plucky Play, Vander Pool, Bargello, Sidney Grant, Alexander Pantages, Reveille Boy, Spanish Play, Lightning Bolt, Marine, Pansy Walker, Up and other stake winners.

Sun Beau is out of it, having been retired, while Mike Hall's name thus far has not been mentioned.

If Phar Lap is the horse his record indicates, there is a good chance that about $100,000 of American gold will find its way back to Australia next March.

• • •

Much Too Early.

THIS year's Kentucky Derby will be run on May 7, preceding instead of following the Preakness Stakes by one week. This probably will result in a smaller number of entries and considerably more uncertainty about the result. It will give Kentucky trained horses an advantage over those conditioned in the East, because the milder climate will permit earlier workouts.

The change will make the Kentucky Derby an even less reliable test of championship class than ever before, both the early date and the short distance contributing to weaken the event as a definite test.

Too bad this race is not held later in the season, say the first week in June, and thus give all the three-year-olds of class time to get into condition to travel one and one-half miles without harm.

This is not the first time, however, that the Derby has been run before the Preakness. In 1919 Sir Barton won the Kentucky Derby first, and then was shipped East to grab the rich Preakness prize—the first time in history that the same horse had ever won both events.

Gallant Fox repeated the double victory in 1930, but the Derby last year was run after the Preakness, which is at the shorter distance of one and three-sixteenth miles.

• • •

Come and Bring the Bankroll.

THE city of Miami's optimism stands out like a red nose in a dry district. For this brave community, which has fronted plenty of economic and meteorological terror in recent years, Old Man Depression is just another joke.

At least that's what one gathers from the ambitious sports program that it has been arranged there for the winter and spring, beginning the day after Christmas. Among the features scheduled and in the making are:

A 23-day racing meet at Tropical Park (Dec. 26-Jan. 16).

A 38-day racing meet at Hialeah Park (Jan. 14 - Feb. 27).

A 24-day meet at Tropical Park (Feb. 22-March 19).

A dog racing meet at Biscayne Kennel Club, Dec. 12, for 59 days.

Dog racing at Miami Beach, Jan. 19-March 20.

Dog racing at West Flagler Club, Jan. 27-March 11.

Championship fight between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker, Miami Stadium, late in February or early March.

Two open golf tournaments with major professionals competing.

Big league baseball games at Miami baseball park throughout the training camp season.

• • •

There are other features on the schedule, too. It all involves a firm belief that the tourist migration South will be bigger and richer than the one in 1930 which, Miami business men estimated, was 30 per cent below normal.

• • •

Counting the Cost.

THE operating cost of the dog and horse racing meets, involving a total of 85 days for the horses and 147 days (some of them concurrent) for the dogs, means that the public will have to spend about two million dollars, before the nut is lifted.

The cost of operating a first-class horse racing plant is close to $15,000 daily, a rather conservative figure, if the purses are good. A dog-racing track can get by for much less, perhaps $3000. The grand total for both horses and dogs at these figures would be above $1,500,000.

As a matter of fact this total would be very much more because in addition to the track's "take," the State gets 3 per cent of the handle, which would run the total up another half million.

To earn this sum through the pari mutuel percentage of say 10 per cent would mean that about $15,000,000 would have to pass through the mutuel operators' hands in the form of bets during the three meetings.

This would mean an average daily handle of about $180,000 for the horse tracks.

That is not an unreasonable amount to expect, however, based on last year's meeting which reached a $500,000-a-day peak on the Hialeah Park's big day.

For the tracks to make real money it will have to average better than that, say $150,000 a day, for the entire meeting.

Miami is hopeful this will be done. If it can, it will certainly tend to prove that the backbone of the economic pinch has been broken.

NOTRE DAME STARS PRACTICE HERE FRIDAY

Seven of the Notre Dame alumni will leave Baltimore, Md., Thursday for St. Louis to prepare for the charity game Sunday at the Walsh Stadium, between the Notre Dame All-Stars and the St. Louis All-Stars, it was learned today.

It is believed that this group, which will practice together for the first time since graduating from Notre Dame, will be in top shape, because they have been coaching on the East Coast during the past season.

The galaxy of stars includes Chrisie Flanagan and John O'Brien of the Navy staff; Bucky O'Connor, Yale assistant; John Law, Manhattan U.; John Colerick, Georgetown; George Vlk, Catholic U., and Marty Brill, Columbia. They will not arrive in time for the initial workout but will take part Friday afternoon and Saturday morning and afternoon.

Coach Charles "Chile" Walsh of St. Louis U. announced that the starting lineup of the Notre Dame team would be changed with Pat Boeringer, line coach at Detroit, moving from center to tackle. Tim Moynihan will take over Boeringer's job and the guards will be Tom Cannon and John Law. This will put three All-America selections in the center of the line.

Neither Gene McEver nor Dodge of Tennessee will be brought here to play on the St. Louis squad, because Walsh stated that the expense would be too great, considering that a great deal is being spent to bring Notre Dame's representatives here.

The St. Louis squad will have its first practice Thursday afternoon, another Friday and two Saturday. The probable backfield will consist of Bullet Baker, Joe Lintzenich, Mayes McLain and Corbett from James Milliken U.

Draws Forbidden In Mat Bouts Held in Illinois

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.

WRESTLING fans who insist upon a winner for their money will get it at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Under a rule passed by the Illinois State Athletic Commission draws are forbidden and definite decisions must be given the customers.

The new rule goes into effect tonight when Don George and Karon Zybszko lock grips in the headline heavyweight attraction at the Chicago Stadium. If there are no falls, the referee must name the winner.

The commission recently passed a rule forbidding wrestling promoters from advertising matches in any other form than "exhibitions."

NOTRE DAME PUTS THREE U. S. C. STARS ON ALL-OPPONENTS' ELEVEN

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 15.—For a very good reason, Southern California placed three of its stars on Notre Dame's all-opponent football team for 1931. The three, Baker, Mohler and Arbelbide, were big factors in halting Notre Dame's great victory march this fall.

The team, selected by Notre Dame coaches, scouts and players for the official football review of the university:

Baker, Southern California, left guard.
Daugherty, Pittsburg, center.
Underwood, Navy, right guard.
Price, Army, right tackle.
Arbelbide, Southern California, right end.
Mohler, Southern California, quarterback.
Rentner, Northwestern, right half.
Perina, Pennsylvania, fullback.

Petrin Scores Kayo.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Don Petrin of Newark knocked out Eddie Malcolm of New York in 2:31 of the seventh round of their eight-round bout at Prospect Hall last night. Petrin weighed 177; Malcolm 191½.

PEWEE KAISER FAVORITE OVER HARRY CHAPMAN; PURVIS ON CARD

THE PROGRAM

Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis, vs. Roy Mitchell, Centralia, Ill., 10 rounds, 150 pounds.

Johnny Kaiser, St. Louis, vs. Harry Chapman, Terre Haute, 10 rounds, 135 pounds.

Dave Barry, St. Louis, vs. Kid Woods, Fort Wayne, Ind., 10 rounds, 135 pounds.

Johnny Miles, St. Louis, vs. K. O. Brown, Fort Harrison, Ind., six rounds, 185 pounds.

Starting time, first bout, 8:30 p. m.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Johnny Kaiser will return to the scene of the earliest triumphs of his boxing career tonight when he climbs into the ring at the South Broadway A. C. for his bout with Harry Chapman, Terre haute in one of the three bouts on the card to be presented by Art Bode, understudy to Kid Bandy as matchmaker for the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion.

Kaiser was to have fought Chick Wagner of Indianapolis, but Wagner was injured yesterday and Chapman is substituting for him. Wagner and Chapman are about in the same class.

The other two 10-rounders bring together Dave Barry and Kid Woods of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Jack Purvis, Indianapolis, and Roy Mitchell, Centralia, Ill. In the curtain raiser, Johnny Miles is to box K. O. Brown of Fort Harrison, Ind.

Kaiser, while not the trim youngster he was when he defeated Patsy Drennan 12 years ago in his first pro match, still retains that kick in his right hank, and he is expected to score a knockout over Chapman.

Barry, declared by his manager to be of championship material, will be facing a boy who has fought Kaiser twice and lost on each occasion, once on a technical knockout and another time on points.

Mitchell Packs a Punch.

It is to the welterweight scrap between Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis, and Roy Mitchell, Centralia, Ill., that the fans are looking for the most action, for Purvis has shown on three occasions here that he can fight and is as game as they come. Against Mitchell he should be right in his class and should win, although Mitchell showed when he dropped Eddie Kid Wolfe for a count of nine and stopped Joe Herbst Jr. that he is a dangerous boy, with a kick in his right hand.

The South Broadway A. C. is located at Seventh and Sidney streets. Seat prices will be from 55 cents to $2.20.

Furman Defeats Lamar Ottsen in Handicap Race

Probably the most exciting of ice skating events is held in the form of handicap racing. At least the spectators at the Winter Garden last night showed more enthusiasm in the outcome of the opening handicap races than at the regular series of scratch races.

Adolph Furman of the Arkansas team won his first race of a half-mile in his life. He had a 40-yard advantage but was only a few inches ahead of Lamar Ottsen of the Winter Garden as they went over the line. Ottsen skated from scratch in the Class A senior event.

Roy Beckman of the Plegges team won the Class B 440-yard event from the 20-yard line. Len Fogassey of the Sunsets had a commanding lead but fell 15 yards from the finish line. He started from 15 yards.

The intermediate boys' event went to Jerry Cohen of the Winter Garden from 15 yards. Truman Connell, the only scratch starter in the event, was second.

Elsie Laskowitz of the Sunsets defeated Miss Power of the Winter Garden in the third race of the series and won the Class A girls' championship for the first series. Miss Laskowitz is the state champion and Miss Power the city title holder. The distance was one mile and the time 3:55.4.

The results of the handicap races:

Senior Class A half-mile—Adolph Furman, Arkansas, 40 yards; Lamar Ottsen, Winter Garden, scratch; Jim Jamieson, Winter Garden, 20 yards; Harry Furman, Sidonian A. C., 10 yards. Time, 1:28.

Senior Class B 440 yards—Roy Beckman, Plegges, 20 yards; Ted Young, Winter Garden, scratch; Howard Robinson, unattached, 10; Ralph Prinz, Greenbriars, scratch. Time, :45.

Intermediate Boys' 440 yards—Jerry Cohen, 15 yards; Truman Connell, scratch; Bob Fiske, 25 yards; James Mackey, 10 yards, all Winter Garden. Time, :44.5.

By Harold Tuthill

The Missouri University basketball team departed last night for Columbia, where the Tigers will play Southern California tonight after disposing of the St. Louis University Billikens, 25 to 23, in a thrilling game at the St. Louis U. Gym. The attendance was estimated at 1200.

It took some great sharpshooting on the part of John Cooper before the Tigers could subdue the Billikens in the closing minutes of the battle. St. Louis steadily overhauled the State team until the score was tied at 16-16, 18-18 and 20-20. Then Cooper rushed in to the basket with one field goal and followed with another. As he sank the second he was fouled by Arnold Arenz, and Cooper made the try good for the twenty-fifth point.

Leo Grandone added a free throw to the Billikens' total when he was fouled by Capt. Max Collings, who was ejected from the game on four personals. Grandone drew the spectators to the edge of their seats with a field goal and the excitement continued as there was a fierce struggle under the St. Louis basket as the forwards batted vainly at the ball in the last 30 seconds of play.

Wagner High Point Man.

Both teams took the floor, using the same style defense and offense. The Tigers made good use of their not too-frequent shots at the basket, while Owen McCarthy, St. Louis' starting center, was so closely guarded by Norman Wagner that he only counted once from the field all evening. Wagner, on the center-feed plays, scored four field goals and two free throws for high point honors.

Barney Passer, former Soldan forward, and Collings cleverly handled the ball on the offense, despite the fact that Passer is only 5 feet 4 inches tall and Collings is not much bigger. This pair kept manipulating the ball between them until the Tigers had run up a lead of 12 to 4, but St. Louis rallied and managed to score six points before the half ended.

Shea Ties Score.

Missouri maintained its lead until Jim Shea replaced Grandone, who was injured, and counted twice from the left side of the floor before the Tigers checked him. Shea's shots tied the score at 15-all and it was nip-and-tuck for the rest of the way.

Southern California, after playing Missouri, comes to St. Louis to meet the Washington University Bears, tomorrow night, and the Billikens Thursday night.

By Harold Tuthill

The Missouri University basketball team departed last night for Columbia, where the Tigers will play Southern California tonight, after disposing of the St. Louis University Billikens, 25 to 23, in a thrilling game at the St. Louis U. Gym. The attendance was estimated at 1200.

It took some great sharpshooting on the part of John Cooper before the Tigers could subdue the Billikens in the closing minutes of the battle. St. Louis steadily overhauled the State team until the score was tied at 16-16, 18-18 and 20-20. Then Cooper rushed in to the basket with one field goal and followed with another. As he sank the second he was fouled by Arnold Arent, and Cooper made the try good for the twenty-fifth point.

Leo Grandone added a free throw to the Billikens' total when he was fouled by Capt. Max Collings, who was ejected from the game on four personals. Meehan Through With High-Pressure Football, He Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.

JOHN F. "CHICK" MEEHAN, who withdrew as head coach at New York University yesterday, returned to his duties as vice president of a contracting firm today, determined that he will never coach football "on a big time basis" again, not even for an $18,000 a year salary, such as New York University paid him.

"I'm through with the big gates and high pressure football," he said. "I have no coaching plans and the only thing I would accept along that line is a part-time position where the fun of the game alone was important. I have had no offers to coach anywhere.

"I'm tired of driving boys, cajoling them, berating them, driving them to win, only to see them crack through tiredness, late in the season. The grief in that kind of football is too great."

Thistlethwaite Is Mentioned as Badger's Director

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 15.—With the resignation of George Little, director of athletics, providing the third casualty of the post-season debate on football in the Western Conference, attention today turned toward a legislative investigation of the University of Wisconsin athletic department.

The resignation of Little came as a big surprise late yesterday. It followed that of Coach Burt Ingwersen of Iowa by only a few days.

The Legislative Committee planned to go into action today rather than later in the week as previously arranged.

The consolidation of the positions of coach and athletic director is almost certain, in view of the retrenchment program proposed by the athletic council. A heavy deficit caused by decreased football receipts is considered one of the major factors in the reorganization of the athletic department, although criticism has been directed at Coach Thistlethwaite recently for his record during the past two years.

Coach Thistlethwaite was reported to have decided to remain steadfast despite the resignation of his chief defender of last year. Shortly after the end of the football season, he announced he would not resign, but whether Little's resignation will cause a change of heart was not definitely known.

On the other hand, the secrecy with which the council has deliberated has produced a report that Thistlethwaite may be made director as well as retaining his present post.

DODGERS MAY BUY ATLANTA BALL CLUB

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. — Dave Driscoll, secretary of the Brooklyn National League club, said today the Dodgers were considering an offer to purchase the Atlanta club of the Southern Association.

"There is nothing definite about it now," he told the Associated Press. "In fact, the Atlanta owners have not yet set a price. But they have indicated a willingness to sell and we have it under consideration."

The Dodgers also were reported to have been negotiating for the purchase of the Jersey City club of the International League. Their only minor league "farm" at present is Hartford of the Eastern League.

"OLD TIMERS'" CONTEST AT ROGERS, JAN. 9

A novel handicap contest of three games will be featured at Roger's Recreation on Saturday, Jan. 9, with squads shooting at 6, 7, 8 and 9 p. m. The entries will be limited to men who have been active as bowlers for at least 15 years, and as there are quite a few veterans still bowling in the different leagues in town, a large entry is expected. The entry fee will be $2, including bowling, and all money over the bowling charge will be put in the prize fund. the prize list of course depending on the number of entries.

RESIGNATION OF MEEHAN SHOWS CHANGED POLICY AT NEW YORK U.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The process of de-emphasizing football at New York University began nearly a year ago, but it took the resignation of John F. (Chick) Meehan as coach to bring that fact to light.

Dr. Elmer E. Brown, chancellor of the university, in a formal statement issued in connection with Meehan's resignation, announced that the faculty board of athletic control on Jan. 6 had adopted a new athletic policy of "sports for sport's sake."

"This policy," Dr. Brown said, "has already gone into effect and will determine the selection of a head coach to succeed Mr. Meehan and the future management of our football coaching. This policy is based upon a careful survey of our athletic situation with special reference to football which was initiated by the council of the university two years ago. In general, the policy of the university and its athletic authorities is to give wholehearted support to a campaign of sport for sport's sake, encouraging competition on the part of the largest possible number of undergraduate students."

Tribute to Meehan.

Paying tribute to Meehan, Dr. Brown's statement said the coach had accomplished "great results" and his "time with us will always be remembered by New York University men with a sense of appreciation and admiration for what he has accomplished."

After pointing out that the "situation in the country at large as regards intercollegiate football has altered profoundly" in the last seven years, Dr. Brown explained the new athletic policy as adopted Jan. 6 provided for:

"The minimizing of the importance and the shortening of the duration of spring football practice, looking forward to its possible final elimination.

"The shortening of the duration of the fall preliminary practice to a period of not more than two weeks prior to the opening of the regular academic year.

"The barring of all freshmen from preliminary fall football practice; the shortening of the freshmen football season.

"The elimination of all organized recruiting and subsidizing as such terms have been understood popularly.

"The continuance of the present policy of giving every possible support and encouragement to the further development of our intramural sports program."

Three East St. Louis Players Chosen on 1931 All-Illinois High School Football Eleven

Three members of Southwestern Illinois High School football teams were successful in being named on or given honorable mention on the All-State selections as given by the Chicago Evening Post. Those to receive this honor were Frank Kavalier, captain of this year's East St. Louis High School team; Thermon Parker, Collinsville, flashy halfback ,and Herbie Fash, East St., Louis high center. The selections were made after a canvass of coaches all over the State of Illinois and also of sport writers interested in the various schools throughout the State,

The East St. Louisans were fortunate in placing two men on the mythical list and Kavalier, besides being named fullback on the team, was also selected as captain. Fash, probably the best center the East St. Louisans have ever had, was selected as the first string center among those to receive honorable mention. Thermond Parker of the Collinsville eleven, was put on the second team as a halfback and he received the backing of all the coaches in the Southwestern Illinois Conference as well as some coaches in Northern Missouri who had played the Collinsville eleven.

Kavalier High Scorer.

Kavalier's fame spread throughout the State as the captain of the East St. Louis High School eleven, who had won the Southwestern Illinois Conference football championship, and as the mainstay of the East St. Louisan's attack who had scored over four-fifths of the East St. Louis Louisans' touchdowns.

The East St. Louisans also defeated other teams of note besides Southwestern Conference elevens, those being Webster Groves of St. Louis, Western Military Academy of Alton, Central High or East St. Louis, and Roosevelt of St. Louis. The East St. Louisans in winning these games collected a total of 193p oints to their opponents 10.

The All-Illinois selections were made with the first named player being on the first team with an alternate and a list of those who were outstanding at their positions to merit an honorable mention.

The All-Star lineup follows:

The Standing

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15. — American League hockey standings including games of Monday, Dec. 14:

	W.	L.	T.	C.	OG.	Pts.
Chicago	6	4	1	29	18	12
Kansas City	5	3	1	11	9	10
Duluth	5	3	0	17	15	10
Tulsa	4	4	1	12	13	8
Buffalo	2	4	1	10	23	4
St. Louis	1	5	2	10	14	2

Inability to get the ice plant ready in time has forced the St. Louis Hockey Club to postpone its home opening from Dec. 17 to Christmas week. Ben Brinkman announced today. Chicago, which was scheduled for the opening date, will afford the opposition on Dec. 25.

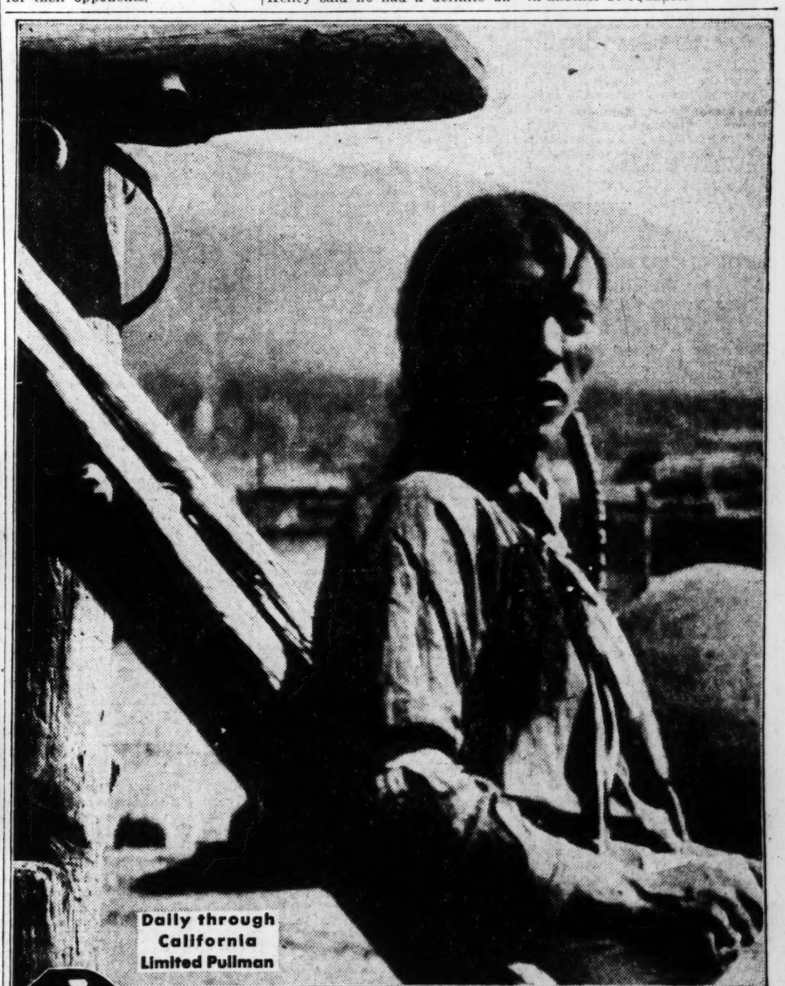

In the meantime the St. Louis team, which finished the first stage of its schedule Saturday night at Kansas City, will remain there to practice until time to go to Chicago for a game Dec. 22, after which the club will come home to prepare for their first game here.

The game with Chicago for the 17th and one with Tulsa scheduled for Dec. 20, which also has been postponed, will be played later in the season.

Thus far the club has shown little, if any, improvement over last season. Today it is last in the standing of the American League with one victory, two ties and five defeats.

Dick Carroll, who led Tulsa to two championships, the new coach of the St. Louis Flyers, apparently has been unable to get the team going, although the acquisition of Burr Williams, Tulsa star, gives the Flyers one of the best defenses in the league with Walter Creasy and Dutch Singer to aid Williams and the efficient Rheaume in goal.

Although they have lost the great majority of their games, the Flyers have scored 10 goals to 14 for their opponents.

BUSH EXPECTED TO CLOSE DEAL WITH MINNEAPOLIS TODAY

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 15. —Donie Bush, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, is expected to become manager and part owner of the Minneapolis American Association club as the result of his failure to purchase the Toledo club.

Mike Kelley, manager and principal owner of the Minneapolis team, said he expects to complete his negotiations with Bush today. Kelley said he had a definite understanding with Bush to take over the Millers' management if the Toledo deal did not go through.

Kelley will be president of the Minneapolis club and look after the business affairs, while Bush will run the team on the field.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 15.—Battling Gizzy, Pittsburg, outpointed Mickey Doyle, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in 10 rounds last night. Gizzy weighed 135, Doyle 135½. Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburg Negro, 121, outpointed Joe Botta, 121½, Cleveland, in another 10-rounder.

SCHMELING OFFERED $200,000 TO FIGHT WALKER AT CHICAGO

FOUR CITIES IN BIDDING MATCH FOR CHAMPION'S NEXT TITLE BOUT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight boxing champion, today was the prize in a spirited auction.

John Chapman six-day bicycle race promoter, and Nate Lewis of Chicago, engaged in a bidding match for the services of the German boxer for a Chicago bout. Madison Square Garden and a Los Angeles club are also seeking Max's signature.

In a telegram made public by Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, Lewis offered to guarantee Schmeling $200,000 with a privilege of 40 per cent of the gate receipts, for a 10-round bout against Mickey Walker, the former middleweight champion.

Chapman has been quietly negotiating with Jacobs for an outdoor battle in Chicago between the German and Jack Dempsey. Jacobs declined to give the financial details of Chapman's offer.

Lewis said he wanted to stage the fight at the Chicago stadium some time during February or March. He said he would scale the bout from $5 to $25. At these prices, Jacobs estimated the gate would gross over $400,000.

It was noised about that Chapman was willing to give Schmeling a $200,000 guarantee but that he would insist on the German opposing Dempsey. Chapman intends to stage his fight, if he signs both boxers, at Soldiers' Field in June.

Meanwhile the busy Mr. Jacobs was conferring with Madison Square Garden officials as to whether and when Schmeling would defend his title under the Garden's direction this winter.

The Garden plans a Schmeling-Walker fight for Miami and in addition Jacobs has an offer for the same bout in Los Angeles.

Regarding the Chicago site, Jacobs said that only 10-round fights were permitted in Illinois and the champion does not want to battle over the short route. Jacobs told Lewis if the regulations in Illinois were changed to permit a 15-round fight, Schmeling would be glad to box in Chicago.

NORMANDY HIGH OPENS BASKETBALL SEASON

Normandy High will open its basketball season tonight when it opposes Beaumont High on the Normandy floor. Beaumont is well along in early season play, having defeated Warrenton, Ferguson, Edwardsville and Cleveland.

BOWLING NOTES

Frank Schalk, 17-year-old bowling star, rolled his second 300-game at the Virginia Recreation alleys Saturday when he scored 12 straight strikes in a doubles match. Schalk, who has a combined average of over 200 in five leagues, was paired with A. Nathe against Ray Holmes and Ollie Reimer in a five-game match, the latter team winning by 81 pins. Schalk totaled 1144, Reimer 1130, Holmes 1128 and Nathe 1033.

A five-man scratch sweepstakes will be held at the Rogers alleys Saturday night with squads bowling at 7 and 9 o'clock. Most of the leading tenpin teams of the city are expected to take part in the event. Entry fee is $10 per team, including bowling, and reservations can be made by calling GArfield 8647.

A special match game has been arranged between bowlers of the City Hall and the Municipal Courts Building and will be rolled at the Congress alleys Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Municipal Courts will be represented by Judge Ed Butler, Conrad Alfeld, George Lutkenholder, George Butler and Arthur Houser, while the City Hall team is composed of John Spielman, Fred Kuenstler, Nelson Tanner, Christ Burke and George Ahrens.

Bud Schmitt's Charlottes increased their lead to two games in the Washington Scratch League last week by winning two games from the Generals, while the second-place Badens were dropping two to the Freuhaufs. In the other matches the Witters took three from the Washingtons and the Alexanders won three from Pop's Sixth Floors. The Charlottes paced the teams with 3063, while Erv Wolfe's 674 led the individuals.

Wood Replies to Criticism Of Davis Cup Team Captain

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Friction on the last United States Davis Cup tennis squad, which may have contributed to its unsuccessful play in the interzone final against England, was disclosed yesterday by Sidney B. Wood Jr., 19-year-old member of the team in an attack on its captain, Samuel Hardy.

Wood, answering a recent article by Hardy in which the latter suggested Wood was hardly of international caliber and should not be considered for the team next year, charged the captain with severely criticising him during his match with H. W. (Bunny) Austin, instead of encouraging him.

"Had you been in the locker room of the staid Roland Garros in Paris during the rest period of my match against Austin (Austin two sets, I one)," Wood wrote to the editor of the magazine Tennis, "and overheard my captain telling me, with a lack of control surely to be regretted in one supposed to lead and encourage his players, that I was no good, that I looked like a fool on the court and that I had no chance to win—had you heard all this, you would understand why I can employ invective toward my former captain."

Hardy declined to comment on Wood's letter, beyond saying the whole matter was regrettable and the article to which Wood took offense—in substance, Hardy's report on the season's play to the Davis Cup Committee— had been published in Tennis against his desire and best judgment.

"I would prefer to let the matter rest as it is," he said.

Hardy spoke quite frankly in his article, said he thought Wood was a promising player but he was too young and unstable emotionally for the task of representing the United States in Davis Cup play. He also questioned the advisability of having a feminine contingent of wives and fiancees along, a criticism which applied to the other three members of the team—Frank Shields, George Lott and John Van Ryn.

Lott and Van Ryn took their wives abroad with them while Shields' fiancee was in Paris during the Davis Cup play. No comment has been forthcoming from the latter three, as yet.

Wood's letter was published without comment by Tennis, official publication of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

BRENNANS REGAIN LEAD IN WELLSTON LEAGUE

The Brennans, recent winners of the Midwest championship at Des Moines, again took undisputed possession of first place in the Wellston Scratch Bowling League when they trimmed the International Greyhounds three straight last night, while the Zappala Specials, who were in a tie for the lead, were losing two to the Allhoffs.

The Brennans, paced by George Foss, who had the night's high total, 684, shot 3054 for the three games, while the Greyhounds, who have been knocking off 3000 totals with monotonous regularity, shot their worst series of the season, a 2767 count.

In the other matches the Arcades took three from the Salas and the Wellstons made a clean sweep of their series with the Schneiders.

JIMMY LONDOS THROWS JENNINGS IN MEMPHIS

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—Jim Londos, claimant to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, made short work of Sun Jennings, Oklahoma Indian, here last night. Londos won two straight falls, the first in 41 minutes and the second in one minute and 30 seconds. Londos weighed 200 pounds; Jennings 225.

In a preliminary match George Tragos, St. Louis heavyweight, threw Barney Nobis of New York in 24 minutes, 30 seconds, with a body slam.

East Side Five Trims Soldan, 14-13

The Soldan High's basketball team dropped a tough contest last night to the East St. Louis High quintet, 14 to 13, on the East St. Louis floor. It was East St. Louis' third straight victory and they will be in the best of shape for the opening Southwestern Illinois Conference basketball contest this week-end.

Although East St. Louis led Soldan throughout the entire game, the margin was always close. The score at the half was East St. Louis 12, Soldan 8. During the second half, East St. Louis scored only two points and they were both on charity tosses.

Sanders was high scorer for the winners, making four points. He was followed by Herb Fash and Charlie Vaughn, with three points apiece. King, Lahey and Braudrick were the leading scorers for the losers. They collected 10 points between them.

HAL CHASE INJURED, MAN HELPING HIM MEND TIRE KILLED BY AUTO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 15.—Hal Chase, noted major league star of a few years ago, today was recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident near here last night in which one man was killed.

The dead man was Aaron Gordon of Houston, Tex., who had stopped at the roadside to aid Chase in mending a blowout. The machines of both Chase and Gordon were struck by a car driven by a man who gave the name of O. K. Anderson of Tucson, and who said that the lights had blinded him.

Gordon died of shock as the result of a mangled leg. Chase's injuries were not serious. The old time baseball star has been living in Nogales, Ariz., since his retirement.

BOXING RECEIPTS IN ILLINOIS DROPPED $242,536.60 IN 1930

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Boxing suffered a 20 per cent cut in returns in Illinois during the past year, Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, had revealed today in his annual report. The net loss exceeded a quarter of a million, totaling $242,536.60.

The depression was blamed for the shrinkage. Receipts this year were $1,004,332 as against $1,246,863.20 for 1930. Attendance records showed a corresponding decline, 424,219 being the total for 1931 and 643,582 being the record of last year.

Primo Carnera drew the largest crowd of the year with 19,244 fans out to watch his battle with King Levinsky.

Alongside of the drop in professional boxing returns, the report showed a gain in interest in the amateur side of the sport.

DEMOCRATS EFFECT HOUSE ORGANIZATION

Committee Places Distributed Without Friction—Six Posts to Farmer-Labor Member.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The organization of the House was completed today when Democratic and Republican committee slates were approved. The approval makes the House ready to begin work on bills.

Under the committee assignments, Representative Marty T. Norton of New Jersey became the first woman chairman of a House legislative committee. She heads the District of Columbia Committee.

After the House Democratic party caucus picked its committee chairmen and members yesterday, Representative Canfield of Ohio issued a statement through the Democratic National Committee, saying:

"The distribution . . . was accomplished without friction. In fact, everybody appeared most anxious to subordinate personal ambitions to party harmony. . . . Never in my recollection has the organization of the House been effected with less delay and more satisfaction than the Congress of today."

The Democrats gave posts on six committees to Representative Kvale from Minnesota, the lone Farmer-Labor member of the House. Although some held these appointments would assure another vote for the Democrats in the closely-divided House, Kvale insisted he had "made no promises."

The committee chairmen include: Agriculture, Jones, Texas; Banking and Currency, Steagall, Alabama; Census, Lozier, Missouri; Civil Service, Jeffers, Alabama; Education, Douglass, Massachusetts; Election of President, Vice President and Representatives in Congress, Rutherford, Georgia; Expenditures in the Executive Departments, Cochran, Missouri; Flood Control, Wilson, Louisiana; Foreign Affairs, Linthicum, Maryland.

Collier, Mississippi, Ways and Means, and Byrns, Tennessee, Appropriations, were named last week.

The Democratic House, by special legislation, has created posts for William Tyler Page and Joseph G. Rodgers, who were deposed as clerk and sergeant-at-arms, respectively, when the Republicans lost control.

Page and Rodgers, both Republicans, had in one capacity or another given the House more than

The Democratic House, by special legislation, has created posts for William Tyler Page and Joseph G. Rodgers, who were deposed as clerk and sergeant-at-arms, respectively, when the Republicans lost control.

Page and Rodgers, both Republicans, had in one capacity or another given the House more than 80 years of service. Page will complete his fiftieth year Dec. 19. Rodgers has been there upward of 30 years.

The resolution designates them as special employes and fixes their salaries at $5000 annually each, about $3000 less than they had been receiving. They will perform many duties in connection with the legislative machinery of the House.

30 STREET IMPROVEMENT PROPOSALS BEING CHECKED

Aldermanic Committee Visiting Each of Thoroughfares; Majority Expected to be Disapproved.

Improvement of 30 streets, estimated to cost $796,181, is being given special consideration by the Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen. The committee is visiting each of these thoroughfares, to determine how badly it needs new pavement as proposed. The expectation at City Hall is that virtually all the pending appropriations will be disapproved by the committee because of property owners' complaints that they cannot stand assessments for the improvements.

The 30 ordinances covering the undertakings, which have been approved by the Board of Public Service, have been held up in the aldermanic committee at the request of individual Aldermen. There is a practice of aldermanic courtesy whereby an Alderman may obtain delay in this way in considering public works in his ward.

One group of five undertakings being held up, at the request of Alderman Eilers, consists of five adjacent streets, for three blocks, between Kingshighway and Union boulevard. These streets, now surfaced with macadam, and the proposed appropriations for each, are: Maple avenue, $50,900; Vernon avenue, $50,900; Raymond avenue, $54,000; Cabanne avenue, $49,700; Cates avenue, $38,600.

Other outstanding improvements being deferred include: Pine street, Fourth to Twelfth, $16,810; Hickory street, Jefferson to Ranken, $66,300; Papin street, Fourteenth to Eighteenth, $24,300; Palm street, Blair to Twentieth, $15,100; Goodfellow avenue, Maple to Page, $34,030; Spring avenue, McDonald to Arsenal, $38,478; Wells avenue, Kingshighway to Academy, $16,480; Macklind avenue, Pernod to Marquette, $14,575.

Cadillac Payroll Normal.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 15.—L. P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., announced today that the concern was operating on a normal payroll of 6000, and that this number would be maintained throughout the winter. From 200 to 300 former employes of the company will be taken on within the next few weeks, he said. Fisher said the Fisher and Fleetwood body plants had added 2000 men in the last two weeks to take care of Cadillac's increased requirements.

Mother of Eight Children Shot.

By the Associated Press.
LOGAN, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Called to the door of her home at Switzer, Mrs. Pearl Milton, 30 years old, mother of eight children, was shot and seriously wounded today by Walter Rittle, 40, who later shot himself. His condition is serious. Rittle sent a bullet into his head when officers prepared to throw tear gas bombs into his home after he denied them entrance. No motive for the shooting was apparent.

SHARP UPTURN IN WHEAT PRICE ON LOCAL BOARD

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 15.—May and July wheat closed 2c higher today following recovery from a lower start. May corn was up 2¼c at finish. Report of improved export demand, takings of North American wheat being estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, was a late bullish factor.

Winnipeg was ¼c to ½c higher at opening and shaded the gain in price but subsequently rose to close 1⅛@2⅜c net higher.

Liverpool came ⅜c to ½d lower in one cable. The close was ⅝@¾d lower.

Local wheat receipts, which were 79,800 bushels, compared with 50,400 last week and 22,400 last year, included 20 cars local and 37 through. Corn receipts, which were 22,400 bushels, compared with 39,200 last week and 107,800 last year, included 16 cars local. Oats receipts, which were 15,400 bushels, compared with 19,800 last week and 19,800 last year, included 7 cars local. Hay receipts were 7 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the Exchange today were as follows:

WHEAT—No. 2 red winter, 58¾c; No. 1 red garlicky, 55½c; No. 1 hard, 55⅝c.

CORN—No. 3 mixed, 35½c; No. 4 mixed, 34½c; No. 2 yellow, 38½c; No. 3 yellow, 36c; No 4 yellow, 35c; No. 3 white, 33c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 26c; No. 3, 25½c; No. 2 mixed, 25c. Cereal white oats, 23c.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Enlargement of export demand for wheat from North America hoisted wheat values in lively fashion late today, despite stock market weakness. New takings for overseas were upward of 1,000,000 bushels. This was the fifth successive day the wheat market has risen, notwithstanding contrary action of securities.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅛@2¼c cents higher than yesterday's finish, corn 2⅜@3⅛c up, oats 1⅛c advance, rye showing 3⅜@3⅝c rise, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents better.

Wheat prices tended downward early today, taking a cue to some extent from action of the New York Stock Market.

Adverse harvest weather in Argentina, however, continued to operate as a check on sellers. Opening unchanged to ⅜ off, wheat afterward sold off all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ higher and subsequently reacted somewhat, but then scored a general upturn.

Open interest in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade: Wheat, Saturday, 119,651,000 bu; Friday, 119,863,000; week ago, 121,546,000. Corn, Saturday, 37,639,000 bu; Friday, 37,760,000; week ago, 37,436,000.

Rallies from early downturns lifted wheat at times to well above yesterday's finish. The rallies were simultaneous with advices that export interest had been active buyers of futures at Winnipeg. There was also estimate that the amount of whineat in the hands of Canadian farmers amounted at present to only 25,842,000 bushels.

Giving aid to upturns in wheat values were assertions that although Balkan countries have been exporting freely in the first six months of the season, it will not be possible to keep this up during the last half of the season. A factor cited in this connection was that Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia have smaller crops. Continued absence of rain in domestic winter wheat territory southwest, together with curtailment of domestic primary arrivals of wheat served as a further handicap on bears. Corn and oats were strengthened by scantiness of receipts. Chicago corn arrivals to day totaling but 38 cars.

Provisions held about steady, influenced by hog values.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 7 TO 11 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Cotton was comparatively quiet again today, with prices holding generally steady on a very moderate demand, which seemed to be encouraged by steadiness in Liverpool and an absence of any aggregate selling by the South. Fluctuations were narrow, with the midafternoon market holding around 6.04c for January, or about 4 to 6 points net higher.

Futures closed 7 to 11 points higher. December, 6.05c; anuary, 6.06-6.07c; March, 6.26@6.27c; Hay, 6.46@6.47c; July,, 6.62@6.63c; October, 6.90c. Spot quiet; middling, 6.20c.

The market showed no special feature later in the morning. Business continued quiet and prices held fairly steady with January selling around 6.02 and May 6.39, or 3 to 5 points net higher.

Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 5 points on covering and trade buying which was promoted by relatively steadier cables and reports of small offerings from the South. January sold at 6.04.

The demand was limited, however, and prices sagged off a few points under realizing combined with some commission house selling which was supposed to come partly from Liverpool sources. General business continued quiet and prices were about net unchanged to 3 points higher before the session had gone far.

Liverpool cables said that Bombay liquidation on the improvement in sterling had been absobed by trade calling and continental buying in that market.

DRYING UP OF SELLING IS FOLLOWED BY STOCK RISE

Market Closes Higher for the First Time in 10 Days Advance is Helped by Upturn in Wheat.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — The stock market closed higher for the first time in 10 days today. Liquidation dried up after midday, and the advance was helped by the strength of wheat. The closing tone was firm, with numerous gains of 1 to 3 points. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

While the bond market remained rather ragged, the stock market come up strongly as selling pressure lifted. Net advances of 1 to 2 points were scored by such issues as American Can, American Telephone, General Motors, American Tobacco B. Bethlehem, duPont, National Biscuit, North American and Union Pacific. Eastman and Coca Cola gained 3. and Auburn made the exceptional advance of nearly 6. U. S. Steel dropped 2 to a new low at 39⅞ in the morning, but regained all but a minor fraction of its loss.

Most quarters in Wall street feel that there is still considerable adverse dividend news in store, although much of it has undoubtedly been discounted, as for instance the expected M-K-T preferred dividend omission today.

Tax Selling Over.

With the ides of December finally at hand, one source of selling was removed. Today was the date of the final quarterly payments on taxes on 1930 incomes. Brokers believed there had been considerable liquidation of securities to raise funds to meet them.

It was pointed out that tax selling to establish losses in 1931 incomes might continue for the remainder of the month, although some brokers felt that the major portion of this type of selling had been accomplished. Selling of this character, it was pointed out, has been particularly disturbing, notably in thinly traded issues, inasmuch as sales are made without any consideration of intrinsic values.

Wall street was inclined to take a more hopeful view of the railroad situation, as Eastern executives announced appointment of a committee to "negotiate to a conclusion" the wage controversy, and it became known that bank loans based on the higher revenues to be derived from the increased freight rates may become almost immediately available.

U. S. Steel's preferred issue has broken under par to the lowest level since 1908, but important banking quarters feel that this represents a thin market and forced liquidation.

Call money renewed at 2½ per cent.

The agreement of Eastern railroad presidents to negotiate further with the unions caused a feeling in some quarters that labor might agree to a 10 per cent cut in return for approval of its employment plans. Another development affecting the railroad situation was news that large banks here were willing to extend early assistance to needy roads through immediate advances in anticipation of the higher freight rates revenues from which are to be pooled by the railroad Credit Corporation.

Canadian Exchange Weak.

The weekly statement of reporting member banks indicated, in part, the source of security selling. Investments dropped $79,000,000, of which $36,000,000 was in Government securities, while collateral loans declined $47,000,000, and all other loans, $66,000,000. Demand, time and Government deposits were off sharply. In consequence of contraction of loans.

Market circles were deeply interested in the address on short selling to be made at Syracuse tonight by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange. Reports have it that wider publicity is to be given to the extent of the short interest, and that weekly reports on the composition on the entire market may be made.

The upturn in wheat amounted to 1½@2¼c a bushel at the close, and was attributed largely to better export sales. Corn rose 2½@3⅛c. Cotton gained 35 to 55 cents a bale.

Weakness of the Canadian dollar, which dropped ¾ of a cent to 80⅛ cents, was a feature of the foreign exchanges. The Japanese yen, however, recovered ½ cent. Sterling was off a little. The German mark was steady. Banks were said to be acting to restrict speculation in foreign exchanges generally.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Local profit-taking and some foreign liquidation weakened most sections on the Stock Exchange, especially the gilt-edge, and caused an uncertain close. The market derived no support from sterling, which fluctuated erratically.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Bourse was slightly heavy on weakness in Wall street, though the strength of the pound sterling had a good effect. French rentes improved as a result of the Government's approval of the Bank of France convention covering bank losses due to the fall of the pound. The closing was irregular.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Total bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $16,134,000, compared with $16,790,000 yesterday, $9,955,000 a week ago and $14,066,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,918,029,000, compared with $2,645,170,000 a year ago and $2,916,894,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

Rochester, N. Y.

THIRD largest industrial city in New York, an important lake shipping port and center for many industrial enterprises with world-wide distribution, Rochester is one of the 3,118 communities served by the Associated System.

In our opinion, bonds of companies comprising the Associated System are sound investments, combining acknowledged security with attractive yield.

SELLING OF RAILS WEAKEN BOND LIST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Further selling in the rails today further weakened an already feeble bond market and a score or more new lows were reached in various sections.

Foreign loans generally followed the rest of the list but Japanese Government obligations exhibited considerable resistance and for the greater part of the session were purchased at higher prices. British 5½s reacted as did the German loans. South Americans were soft.

Few of the transportation loans could make headway against the downward tide although some of the low priced carriers exhibited rallying inclinations near the close. Several of the utility convertible bonds made partial recoveries. Industrials, as a whole, were heavy.

United States Government obligations were steadier.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stockholders of Detroit Aircraft Corporation have approved a proposal of the special stockholders committee to sell the company's interest of approximately 89 per cent in the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, subject to approval of the Federal Court, with a view of obtaining sufficient funds to dissolve the receivership.

The name of the Continental Construction Co. has been changed to Natural Gas Pipe Line Co. of America, and capital has been increased to 1,500,000 shares from 500,000 shares.

Standard Commercial Tobacco Co. has called a special meeting for Dec. 29 to consider a proposal of the company to purchase from stockholders and retire 7500 shares of preferred stock at $55 a share. If stockholders approve the 7500 shares of preferred will be purchased from Ery Kehaya, president of the company.

Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. has formed a Canadian subsidiary to manufacture a complete line of Pierce-Arrow cars for the Canadian market. Headquarters of the subsidiary will be at Walkerville, Ontario.

Otis Elevator Co. has obtained a contract calling for modernization of elevators in use in the New York Life Building at Kansas City, Mo.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—American Brake Shoe and Foundry Co. declared a dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 31 to stockholders of record Dec. 22. Previously 60 cents a share quarterly was paid.

Maryland Casualty Co. has omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago a payment of 15 cents a share was made, and six months ago 30 cents was paid, prior to which the stock was on a $3.25 annual basis.

National Gas & Electric Corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the $6.50 preferred stock due at this time.

Loew's Boston Theaters Co. declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Dec. 23 to stockholders of record Dec. 18.

Island Creek Coal Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $3 annual basis, against $4 previously. The dividend is payable Jan. 1 to stockholders of record Dec. 24.

CORPORATION REPORTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corp. and wholly owned subsidiaries report net profit of $6,257,998 for the year ended Aug. 31 against $9,924,869 for the previous fiscal year. The company's common stock is held by Loews' Inc.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON THE M. K. T. PREFERRED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—The board of directors of the Missouri, Kansas, Texas Railroad took no action regarding the payment of dividends on its preferred stock at a meeting today.

The M.-K.-T. preferred stock was on a $7 annual basis since it became cumulative Jan. 1, 1928.

The board issued the following statement:

"Total operating revenues on the M.-K.-T. lines this year will be more than 35 per cent under the average for the five years previous to 1931. The operating expenses will be approximately 34 per cent under the five-year average.

"The general business depression and the inroads made by truck and waterways competition brought about a shrinkage during the first 11 months of $10,500,000 in operating revenues, although our net for the first 11 months is off only $5,500,000.

"Through economies and improvement in efficiency we will earn in excess of fixed charges upwards of $700,000 to apply on the preferred stock. Had the improvement in business that was noticeable in October been maintained in November and through December we would have made a most noteworthy showing for such a year as this."

Operating revenue of the M.-K.-T. declined nearly 20 per cent in 1930, as compared with 1929.

Dividends on the common stock of the road were omitted last March.

Hour Boerse Meeting Weekly Recommended.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—Representatives of the Government, the Reichsbank and the Boerse committee recommended today that members of the Boerse be permitted to meet at the Stock Exchange for one hour every Thursday without conducting any business and without fixing quotations.

In banking circles this was regarded as the first step toward reopening of the Stock Exchange.

LONG LIST OF NEW LOWS BEFORE CURB STEADIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Curb Market steadied in the afternoon trading today after an early decline had brought a long list of new lows. Some stocks closed with small net gains. Electric Bond & Share finishing around 10, or fractionally higher. Bond & Share had dipped down to 9 under the selling pressure of the morning. Short covering toward the close reduced or canceled many of the losses in other utility stocks.

Sugar.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged early today. No sales were reported, and while sugars were generally held at 3.20c, bids of less would have been accepted. However, buyers seemed to show no willingness to pay above past paid prices of 3.10c.

Futures opened 1 to 2 points lower except October which was 1 point higher, but soon turned easier under increased liquidation and some selling by houses with Cuban connections. The failure of the spot demand to broaden seemed partly responsible for the selling. After opening at 1.09c, January contracts sold off to 1.07c, while May declined from 1.17c to 1.15c, with the general market at midday 3 to 4 points net lower. The volume was moderate.

Refined was unchanged, demand being still of a hand-to-mouth character. Prices were quoted at 4.20c by all refiners.

Futures closed barely steady, 3 to 5 points lower. Approximated sales 8950 tons. Dec. 1.05@06c; Jan. 1.07@08c; March 1.11c; May 1.14@15c; July 1.19@21c; Sept. 1.25@26c; Oct. 1.28c.

FOR EXTENSION OF MORATORIUM ON REPARATIONS

Young Plan Committee Drafting Report at Basel on Germany's Capacity to Pay.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

BASEL, Dec. 15.—A recommendation for a further moratorium on Germany's conditional reparations payments will be contained in the final report of the Young Plan Committee which is studying Germany's capacity to pay, it is learned from the highest authority today.

The recommendation will be accompanied by a long summary of the facts presented so the world will be able to draw its own conclusions.

Sir Walter Layton of Great Britain, Prof. Charles Rist of France and Dr. Carl Melchior of Germany have been named as a committee to draft the report. They set to work immediately upon the basis for it, which was drafted by the "Big Three" of the committee, Sir Walter Layton, Walter W. Stewart, American representative, and Prof. Rist, in accord with Dr. Melchior.

Outline of Report.

The outline is understood to contain these headings:

1. The short-term credit situation, enlarging on the Wiggin report of last summer and perhaps offering further suggestions concerning their relation to Germany's public debts.

2. The extent and influence of Germany's favorable balance of trade since 1930.

3. The situation of the Reich's budget, including a possible critical paragraph on German expenditures.

4. The position of the Reichsbank, gold coverage and maintenance of the gold standard.

5. Possibilities or alternatives in the future German policy.

This basis leaves ample room for conclusions and recommendations, it was stated.

For Canceling Reparations.

A majority of the committee favored cancellation of reparations payments, but in view of the fact that the Young plan denies the right to recommend measures outside the plan itself the committee was said to be virtually certain to adhere strictly to this provision. If anything beyond this limit is admitted in the report, it is said, it will be by implication only.

The shadow of the expected subsequent conference of Governments on the reparations situation and the uncertainty of its scope is exercising considerable influence on the final report. No one, it is said, is willing to take the responsibility for overthrowing the Young plan.

The experts' conclusions will be extensively discussed in private before the draft is made and some changes may be made before it is signed.

Germany is being forced to dump products abroad in order to pay reparations, Hendryk Colijn, Dutch member of the committee, declared yesterday.

Asserting he spoke as an economist rather than a politician, Colijn said enforced German dumping was aggravating international commerce and was one of the elements stifling business.

His speech brought forth numerous replies and the American delegate, Walter W. Stewart, jumped into the fray for the first time.

Colijn's remarks were understood to have been so strong the committee decided not to publish them and he was bound not to divulge everything he had said.

November Balance of Trade in Favor of Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—The November trade balance favored Germany by 255,800,000 marks (about $63,950,000). Exports totaled 738,200,000 and imports 482,400,000 marks. November exports were down 127,400,000 marks and imports 400,000 marks under those of October. For 11 months of this year the favorable balance is 2,264,300,000 marks ($566,075,000). Gold and silver exports for November were 180,100,000, against 15,200,000 marks imported. For the year to date gold and silver exports stand at 1,419,200,000 marks against 399,800,000 imports.

TWO NORWAY BANKS SUSPEND

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 15. — Two large private stock banks, the Norske Creditbank of Oslo and the Bergen Privatbank of Bergen and Oslo, are suspending payments, it is announced today.

Negotiations are proceeding with the view of reorganizing them and continuing operations.

A special cabinet meeting decided to give the banks what is virtually a three months' moratorium. The difficulties of the two institutions are attributed to the international financial situation.

Boy Hero of Fire Dies.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—Herman Zimmerman, 17 years old, hero of a recent fire at Carmichaels, Pa., died in a hospital last night. The boy, son of Mrs. Mary Zimmerman of St. Paul, Monn., was visiting the Charles Ruppenburg home over a store Dec. 1, when fire broke out in the store. Zimmerman tied several sheets together, awakened Victoria Flechish, who was asleep in another room, assisted her down the improvised rope and then collapsed of burns.

$1,200,000 IN FIVE YEARS BANKED BY BOOTLEGGER

New York Graft Investigator Gets Evidence of Large Deposits by Murray Birnbaum.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—More than $1,200,000 in bank deposits made since 1926 by Murray Birnbaum, whom chief counsel Samuel Seabury has described before the Hofstadter Legislative Committee as a bootlegger and ex-convict, were disclosed to the committee today by Seabury.

The chief counsel previously presented evidence to the investigating body which is looking into New York City affairs that Birnbaum had close connections with police in the Bronx.

According to the transcripts presented by Seabury today, Birnbaum deposited $953,361 in various personal accounts since 1926 and $317,430 in several "business accounts."

Birnbaum was placed on the witness stand by Seabury before the testimony about his bank accounts was offered, but when he refused to sign a waiver of immunity he was not required to testify.

An earlier witness, patrolman Richard A. Frederick, testified that Lieut. Albert J. Stroh warned him to stay away from Birnbaum's affairs.

It was also shown by police records that during the entire time Birnbaum operated the Morehen Inn, in the Bronx, no arrests were made by the police of the district although Federal officers made arrests both for possession and sale of liquor.

TRAIN GOES THROUGH AN OPEN SWITCH, TWO PERSONS KILLED

Engineer and Unidentified White Youth Victims; Evidence of Vandalism.

By the Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 15.—With the discovery of the body of an unidentified youth half buried under the baggage car today, the list of dead from last night's wrecking of the "Louisiana Limited," Texas & Pacific passenger train, was increased to two. Still another body was thought to be under the wreckage. L. M. Gorman, 55, engineer of the train, was killed instantly as his locomotive plowed through an open switch.

The train was derailed at a late hour at Hutchinson Spur, 18 miles south of Shreveport. Officers expressed the belief the wreck was caused by vandals who had tampered with the switch. The list of injured was placed at seven.

Officers of the road said the switch had been disconnected completely from the switch stand and the signal light turned "clear", in what appeared to be a deliberate attempt to wreck the train. A single Pullman remained on the tracks.

Guy Green, fireman, of Marshall, Tex., suffered a fractured skull and a broken collar bone. Three youths riding the "blinds" were seriously hurt. They were John Vadey, 22, Phoenix, Ariz.; Richard Keffer, 16, Yakima, Wash., and William Runyon, 24. Sam Irby, 40, Lecompte, La., was injured about the neck, and A. Loup, 68, Denver, Colo., suffered a lacerated scalp. Mrs. J. E. Thorsell, Alexandria, La., was hurt when thrown against the arm of a Pullman chair.

Reserve Officers' Election.

Capt. William R. Gentry was elected president of St. Louis Chapter, United States Army Reserve Officers' Association, last night at its meeting at St. Louis University Medical School. Other officers: Lieutenant-Colonel Horace Rumsey, vice president; Maj. F. W. L. Peebles, secretary, and Lieutenant-Colored Arthur J. Widmer, treasurer. Maj. Jimmy Doolittle and Maj. Dan C. Smith were elected directors for two-year terms.

Whitney Employe Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 15.—A Coroner's jury held that Roy Rhodes, manager of the Harry Payne Whitney plantations in South Georgia and North Florida, accidentally fired the shot which killed him yesterday. Rhodes was found dead in his automobile on a road near Lake Iamonia, between here and the Georgia state line. His revolver was on the seat beside him.

How to Remember Cards Played and Those Still in Opponents' Hands.

—By SHEPARD BARCLAY—

"BY what mental process do you keep track of the number of cards of each suit played from start to finish of each deal? Is there some definite routine which one's mind goes through in remembering clubs, diamonds, hearts and spades in this order, or must one trust more or less haphazardly to his memory, with no ordered sequence of suits?"

Some memory students advise remembering the "dead" cards already played. Others counsel keeping track of the remaining "live" cards not yet played. There are two better ways. One is to take exact note of the four cards played on the first trick, and at the end of the hand remind yourself what they were; after a bit of practice at that, try it for the first two tricks, then later extend it to three and finally to an entire hand.

A great many fine players get along without exerting themselves along those lines. They concentrate more on establisning in their minds the "suit patterns" of the four hands and reconstructing them mentally" at critical stages, referring from the "depleted pattern" back to the "original pattern."

The late Wilbur C. Whitehead once gave a very fine example of how this is done. He used the following hands as illustrations:

North: ♠A J 7 ♥None ♦9 ♣10 9

West: ♠x ♥None ♦Q x x ♣J X

East: ♠Q x x x ♥None ♦x x ♣None

South: ♠K 10 5 ♥None ♦J ♣Q 6

Against a no trump contract, West led the three of diamonds, North played the deuce, East the king and South the ace. Considering the three a fourth-best and seeing the deuce in dummy, West is counted for four diamonds; they are headed by the queen, for if East had the queen he would not have played the king. Next came two club tricks, on the second of which East discarded a diamond, showing he had just one club and West four, headed by the jack; to continue clubs meant to establish that jack.

Now came three heart tricks, the last being a finesse of the nine, on the third of which west discarded a spade, showing he had only two hearts; therefore held three spades, for eight cards are already placed in the red suits; by subtraction, East held one club and four cards of each other suit. As a next deduction, West probably did not have the spade queen, or he would not have wasted one of his guards to it. When another heart, the queen, was led. West's discard of a second spade made three spade tricks sure.

By referring to the original hand patterns and eliminating one round of diamonds, two of clubs, four of hearts, two spade discards by West and one diamond by East, the depleted patterns are reconstructed, as follows:

DUMMY

♠AJ7 ♥AK3 ♦972 ♣10953

DECLARER

♠K105 ♥Q964 ♦AJ ♣AKQ6

The spade ace must drop West's last one, the finesse of the ten must succeed, then the king will win, leaving West three cards. If he hasn't unguarded his club jack, he will have those two clubs and his diamond queen. The diamond jack can be led into his queen and he must then lead a club, giving declarer a small slam.

A Law a Week

North bid two spades, South three hearts, North three diamonds. West commented: "Insufficient bid; the bid is four diamonds and South cannot bid again." Was he correct? West then added: "And since, of course, neither my partner nor I will bid, North must play this at four diamonds." Is there a penalty for that statement?"

West was not correct when he said the final bid was four diamonds. North had the privilege of making his bid sufficient in any suit or no trump, bidding as high as he might wish, so long as it was an overbid of the three hearts. He was right to the extent that the partner of the offender was barred from any further bidding. As to his second statement about neither himself nor his partner bidding, that can be construed as giving information about his hand to his partner. The only penalty for that is that his partner is barred from any further participation in the contracting, which as it happens probably is in effect no penalty at all in this case.

If a player bids two spades at contract, takes eight tricks and gets two extra tricks by virtue of an adversary's revoke, can he score a game from a love score? If he bids two spades, is doubled, fails by two tricks to make his contract, but gets two tricks by means of an adversary's revoke, thus making the contract for him, can he score game from a love score?

The Official System

PROBABLY the most important "strictly contract type of bid" in any system is the bid of one more than necessary in an as yet unnamed suit, after the partner has made an original bid. All of these are examples of game-demand takeouts, as those bids are called in the new system:

Original Bidder	Intervening Opponent	Opener's Partner
1♣	Pass	2♥
1♥	Pass	3♦
1♦	1♥	2♠
1 No Trump	Pass	3♣
1♠	1 No Trump	3♥

It wil be noted that in each case a new suit has been called exactly one more than necessary to be legal. A bid of two more than necessary, such as three spades over partner's original one diamond, would be more or less of a weakness bid with most advanced players, indicating a hand useless except at spades and endeavoring to shut out a bid from the next opponent. If the bid of one more than necessary is in no trump, such as two no trump over partner's original one heart, it is not a game-demand takeout.

The new system is in line with older ones in the way this bid operates, except that it presents the matter in more exact form. In all systems a game-demand takeout shows at least a certain amount of high-card strength as well as a biddable suit in the suit called.

With the tables provided by the new system, which count as high as three tricks in a single suit, a total of three and a half high-card tricks is required as a minimum for the game-demand takeout.

Regardless of what valuation method is used, the message conveyed is that the side holds enough high-card strength to make game virtually certain at some declaration; the opponents cannot take more than about three tricks with the high cards in their possession; such being the case, the side should be able to find some declaration fiting the two hands well enough so that the opponents probably can take only their few high-card tricks.

After a game-demand takeout, the preferential order of responses in the new system is as follows:

1. Name a new biddable suit if possible.

2. Rebid a strong major of five or more cards.

3. Raise a major suit takeout with adequate support; with neutral support if no other response is possible.

How Would You Bid These Hands?

How would you bid and play the following hand, West being the dealer with North and South vulnerable?

North: ♠K 5 ♥A 9 7 3 2 ♦A 10 ♣A K Q 3

West: ♠9 7 ♥K Q J 10 6 ♦K Q J 5 ♣10 2

East: ♠6 3 2 ♥8 5 4 ♦9 8 6 4 ♣9 8 7

South: ♠A Q J 10 8 4 ♥None ♦7 3 2 ♣J 6 5 4

When this hand was played in a rubber game in Washington recently, West started with a heart and set the stage for some brilliant bidding in the North by A. Philip Stockvis, a truly talented player. He at once called two hearts, to show a biddable heart suit in a good hand—the modern way of guarding against psychic bids of void suits by the opponents. After East's pass South called two spades. West three diamonds, Mr. Stockvis four clubs, East pass, South four spades. After West passed again Mr. Stockvis bid five no trump to signal slam likelihood and first-round control of the opponents' two suits. South took it to six clubs and Mr. Stockvis now surprised with his shift to six spades, having enough support for a rebid suit. Certain, by inference from West's bidding of the two red suits, that the latter couldn't possibly have the spade king and that therefore his partner had it, South went to seven spades.

The hand was pretty to play, after the king of hearts lead. The ace took it, South discarding a diamond. Next trumps were led twice, then came an effort to "ruff up" the fifth heart, if it happened that West had only four. After each heart lead to closed hand's trumps, a club was used for a reentry into dummy. When this failed the jack of clubs was played and then South's last trump. At that junction West was squeezed. He had left the queen of hearts and the king-queen of diamonds, dummy holding the heart nine and the diamond ace-ten. Whatever West discarded, dummy would discard from the other suit and thus be sure of the last two tricks, when South led a diamond to the ace. That made it a pretty deep squeeze, to a nine and ten-spot.

The New Problem

How would you bid and play the following hand, North and South being vulnerable and East having opened as dealer with a "psychic" bid of one spade?

North: ♠KQ6 ♥QJ84 ♦A109 ♣J86

West: ♠J43 ♥AK1075? ♦QJ6 ♣5

East: ♠8 ♥963 ♦8742 ♣AKQ103

South: ♠A109752 ♥None ♦K53 ♣9742

Mr. Barclay will give the bid and the play of this hand in the Bridge Forum next Tuesday.

Berets Lead List In Paris Styles

Height in Trimming Is Latest Note—Feathers and Tucks Are Also Used—'All the New Hats Dip Over the Right Eye.

By ALICE MAXWELL APPO

Rose Valois makes this beret of tucked felt with quill. It would seem it is no trick at all to have a feather in your cap these days. Berets are very important.

Black velvet or plush makes this hat with bird forming high back trimming. A fashion highly approved for winter hats as continued emphasis is placed on the turned-up back or back trimming.

The beret is now being shown again by all milliners. This Suzaune Talbot beret is made of tucked black felt with degrade pink and red quills.

THE beret is now the most important hat in Paris. Every milliner is making it. Its style is once again the familiar "tam" shape having enough material to drape down on one side, and many miles removed from the skull cap lately so tediously universal.

The more recent boat shapes, bowlets and all their kind, were slated to fall before the advance of the fur coat collar, that most arbitrary detail of winter apparel that bans all brims and bulk in headwear. Only the modified cloche survives, mostly because smart sports coat collars are seldom furred.

The beret is a particular winter type. The berets are sketched here, and in their shape and outline there is nothing to choose between them. They are practically identical, draped down at the right, raised to the highest possible level at the left. The difference lies in the trimming treatment.

Rose Valois makes the beret of tucked felt with quill at left side, Suzanne Talbot makes the other beret also tucked felt, but reverses the trimming and adorns the right side with colorful quills. The black velvet or plush hat with bird forming a high back trimming is a new model, especially good, for so many of the hats sport a quill or feather of some kind shooting straight up from the side or back. Emphasis is placed on the turned up back or back trimming. This type of hat nestles comfortably into a big fur collar and is very wearable indeed. Gaby Mono makes a beret of panne velvet with an upside has increased the vogue for velvet whose stiff lacquered stems provide height in a simulated aigret. The importance of velvet dresses has increased the vogue for velvet hats. Mado makes a beret of Karouba, a new long haired felt, with multi-colored slender feather fancy at side set on with a black grosgrain ribbon.

All materials used in the modern millinery are of a quality readily manipulated, an essential for the new draped berets especially. The new "satin" felts rival for softness. The "velvet" suedes have the feel of velvet itself. Taupe' felts are thinner and lighter than ever. Then, there are panne and Lyons velvets for formal afternoon berets and very small evening models.

The feather hat has been having a run in Paris, minoche feathers usually and often a small bird to give height in trimming. Soft breast feathers, gorges do pigeons, make bands and border details for hats.

Feather trimmings lead for the moment. All kinds of quills, used singly or in multi-color clusters. Some paradise for afternoon and evening turbans. Birds and breast feathers as described. Ostrich only in fancies.

In addition, ribbon becomes more important. The large chou at side-back takes a fairly wide ribbon which may be satin, satin faced moire or velvet. Velvet ribbon trims are often used on felt hats. Grosgrain, of course, continues in narrow widths.

Talbot, Patou and others make a beret the surface of which is ridged around with circular tucks. These tucks in the new soft felts stand out like accordeon pleating. Other berets are incrusted with fur or overlaid with it. Astrakhan forms a headband for a felt model and the ends crossed at the high side lie flat on top of the beret. A black suede beret has thin incrusted stripes of breitschwantz radiating sun-ray fashion from the beret's center.

All the new hats dip down over the right eye, or the right side front, rise positively to sheer heights at the left through shape or trimming, and leave very much of the back hair exposed through the pitch forward. Trimmings tend to move from back to left side as berets come in, but there is still much of the high back emphasis especially where Scottish bonnet shapes are concerned.

About veils, while young girls ignore them the older women wear them to keep the hair in place, using large plain meshes, diamond or hexagonal. Sometimes tiny chenille dots vary the plainness. Yard veiling is used in preference to shaped veils, and worn down to eyebrows or nose.

VELVET and lace form an alliance particularly suited to the woman of sophistication who desires a frock for formal teas and other afternoon functions that will be at the same time suitable for informal evening and the theater or concert. For her the lovely frock at the left is ideal. The gown of transparent velvet has those slimly moulded body lines that are so universally flattering. The full, soft lace sleeves fall gracefully over the wrists in charming fashion.

With this type of costume the snug little velvet of cire' ribbon turban with tiny nose veil is exactly right and inimitably chic.

Of course, every well-dressed woman, most particularly the woman over 30, needs a suit in her wardrobe. For the woman with real "style" as the French mean the word, the flippant "cute" things that the younger generation wears with such careless grace, will not do. She wants a suit with dignity, beautifully cut, suitable for mornings in town and for matinee and tea afterwards. Such a suit is pictured at the right.

Mink is subtly applied with discreetly lavish hand to exquisitely cut "rough smooth" woolen, one of those supple fabrics with a slightly rough weave that are so wonderfully done this season. The blouse is of metallic cloth, very soft and becoming. What a tremendously smart costume for town wear!

For the more modest purse fox or beaver may be substituted for the mink without any sacrifice of smartness.

Equally smart in black or brown, this suit is well adapted for wear with the very new accessories of Malya calf, handsomely done in bags and shoes. These heavy suede pull-ons luxuriously long and hand-stitched are the perfect glove and, of course, a felt hat, brimmed for the older woman.

If you ask my Opinion

by Martha Carr

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I found that the young man I have been going with has been married and since the death of his wife his mother has their little child. He was afraid to tell me he had been married for fear I would not marry him, and said I was too young (I am 21 years old), to be tied down with a child. But his mother is getting old and I want the child. Her father is afraid I will get tired of her, but I love children and I know I could be a good mother to her. And, besides, I try to tell him that if I love him, of course I would love his child. The baby loves me also and cries when I leave her. Oh, Mrs. Carr, please tell me what you think of it? DOT.

Feeling as you do, there isn't any reason that I can see why you could not marry and, with the little baby, be very happy. You are not too young to know that you will haves cares, and there are many happy little mothers at your age and with your disposition.

* * *

DEAR MARTHA CARR: I am a so-called "lucky girl," who has lots of boy friends. But I truly envy the girl who has a "one and only." My problem is this: "Should a girl marry her ideal, who dominates her completely and live as he feels is proper, or should she marry the man who is not quite so ideal and whom she enjoys immensely and with whom she has a marvelously good time?" THE DOLL.

It all depends upon how good you are at being "dominated." Ideals are mighty fine, but you might find it a rarefied plane, that would be uncomfortably high. To adapt yourself to a man who thinks his is the final word and that he is one jump removed from perfection, if any, isn't an altogether human way to live. Better let your real affection decide.

* * *

DEAR MRS. CARR: I made the mistake of wanting to go with too many boys, and encouraged a boy I liked to go with other girls. We did not go steady for that reason. Now I regret it, as the boy comes back sometimes and says he can't decide. I call him up and he comes, but he says I don't give him a chance to decide and suggests that we do not see each other for a while. Shall I go out with others now? WORRIED MARBLES.

Let him severely alone as long as he wants you to and stay away from the telephone. Go out with others, of course. Better for him not to be too sure.

The Caster That Drops

Aren't they irritating? A narrow strip of adhesive tape wound tightly around the stem of the loose caster until it fits the casing keep it from continually slipping out each time the furniture is moved.

Easily Handled

When having a number of guests to whom you desire to serve ice cream and cake, bake the cake in flat pans in one layer. Cut into squares, oblongs and diamonds and ice in different colored frostings. It will be so much easier to serve—and to eat—than sliced layer cake.

All Protected

Before you start that orgy of baking for the Christmas goodies, paper your kitchen floor with newspapers. Then anything spilled cannot stain the linoleum and, when you are finished all you have to do is to roll up the papers and enjoy a spotless floor.

A Fine Mattress

When we pay the price asked for a real hair mattress we like to be sure we have the best. The black hair is said to be better than the white, as the white has been bleached and is apt to mat more readily than the unbleached variety.

A Good Job

Before cleaning and pressing men's suits, be sure to turn out the pockets and brush out all accumulated tobacco, dust, etc. Hang on line to air and then proceed with the cleaning.

A Help on the Shiny Section.

If those of you having a husband, brother, or sister working in an office will go to the trouble of making a flat felt cushion for the chair of the worker, you will find it saves the trousers or skirt from getting shiny and also helps keep the garment in form.

CHAPTER NINETEEN.

THERE were, of course, happy interludes; times when she and Bill went together to the movies and laughed, hand fast, like children, at the absurd and ancient pictures; times when they sat off on little excursion; times when they lay, close embraced, in each other other's arms, in the dark velvet of a semi-tropical night, with a moon outside their windows as big as a dinner plate and the stars amazingly near, and murmured that they loved one another and were happy.

But Bill had lost weight and color. He was increasingly short-tempered. He threw a native who, pretending to no English was yet able to curse fluently, full through a window one day and quarreled interminably with one of his superiors, a fat-faced young man, whom neither heat nor mosquitoes could disturb and who was reluctant to permit Bill to know more than he had to to hold down his job, lest he lose his own to the novice.

They were not popular and they knew it. They were utterly unable to play the game as it was usually played. They talked too much and too openly.

Bill said seriously:

"Damned if I'll let 'em beat me. If I can make the grade, I'll do it. I'll go back to New York when I've learned enough about this business to make me useful to Uncle Walter and I'll give 'em an earful . . . of misery and graft and a choice pan-amalistic government which makes spying, bootlicking, wretched ruins out of what were once decent and ambitious men."

Nevis warned:

"He won't believe you. It won't be to his interest to believe you. It's his business after all, Bill."

Bill said, setting a lean jaw, his eyes very blue in his brown face:

"He'll have to believe me. What do you think I've been doing all this time beside riding the rounds and time clocking and vaccinating bulls and seeing the sugar processed? I've got figures and statistics! And I talked last week to Grayson, they fired him you know he was the chemist. It's a nice job."

Nevis said nothing. She leaned back in the wicker chair on the veranda and smoked steadily to keep the mosquitoes away. She thought . . . it isn't very different from New York, after all. The people are different and the surroundings, as far as background is concerned. But for the rest it is the same, the same idleness and fever heat and rushing about and getting nowhere. The same back-biting and scandal and gossip and hurting each other.

Bill said, again, heavily:

"Damned if I'll let them beat me!"

• • •

SHE was discovering a curious fact about himself; an ability to dig his teeth in and hang on; an ability to look ahead doggedly. There was no trading here, on his personality, his charm, his "contacts." He might make friends because of charm and personality; he might be treated a little gingerly by men who were suspicious of him because of his position as Walter Mason's brother, he might be able to be the social life of a rather dull party because of his talent for mixing. But otherwise it all got him nowhere. Hard work and plenty of it, the capacity for taking it on the chin, the knack for seeing through a situation, outwitting the usual spies, and spreading the usual narrow politicians, these were the things which counted. However dressed, what had been his university, what old college friends he had, how well he could put over a sale, helped by a diffident grin and a good luncheon and a flock of drinks, didn't count at all. He grew, by degrees, tremendously interested in the industry and in his end of it. Like all young people, he was a reformer at heart and burned to reform the entire organization, to say nothing of the business itself. In a very small way, he put through several such reforms, including one saving of waste, and one saving in time. But these reforms never reached Mason. "What the hell is the boy doing down there, anyway?" he asked his wife. Nancy writhed very guardedly about him. Wonder if he's hitting it off?

He was not, save for very occasional lapses, out of sheer boredom, at her work. The climate, malaria and liquor did not, he discovered, agree very well. He was, on the whole, happier than Nevis. He had a job to do, he had something to learn, he had a dogged determination not to give in, and he worked long hours a day, and, manlike, could find something in common, if only the discussion of past prize fights or present sugar methods, with most of the men he met. And was comfortably unaware that Nevis was very more miserable than the external circumstances warranted.

• • •

BUT she was. She was suffering deeply, by the time their first year in Porto Rico had passed, from the jealousy of other women who refused to understand why the Lancasters were persona grata with the Powers, as Bill made no more money than did their own husbands and had a less influential job. The former eager rush to call, to make friends, to entertain Nevis and Bill died away. And reports were spread much as in the case of Mrs. Brown. There was, said the women, very little reason why the Lan-casters should receive so much "important" social recognition unless Nevis had "a good deal of influence" with the male executives.

At the end of their first year, they were transferred back to the plantation and Bill started out again, riding the cane fields and vaccinating the excessively annoyed bulls, once, in very grave danger of his life when a bull got away from the ropes and hands of the helpers and started to charge the tall enemy with the large and painful instrument of bovine torture in his hand.

Nevis was glad to get back "home." Mrs. Jones had looked after her things for her, the house on stilts was as she had left it. There were fewer people, fewer necessary contacts. She could sit on her porch and watch the ox carts pad by and depend for her slight outside contacts on Mrs. Jones, with her nervous amiability and capacity for friendship.

Bill said:

"Another year and I'll be able to go back and tell them a thing or two!"

She echoed mentally — another year, another eternity! She saw herself growing less and less pretty, more and more faded, more and more prone to slackness in dress and hair and skin and hand care. She had not been able to find Anna again on her return and so was doing all the housework herself, and had learned, in the year, to haggle in Spanish with the tradespeople.

• • •

SHE had had one interlude of resolutions, their second Christmas, when the people from home sent down great boxes of gifts. Her mother had sent clothes, too. Not purchased in New York but looking like a Paris trousseau to Nevis. "I don't know," wrote her mother, "what you are able to get down there." Della had sent books and canned delicacies—"Bill, caviar and pate . . . we'll have to give a party for the Jones'!" and boxes of new cosmetics from the smartest shops. "Take care of your complexion, darling," wrote Della, who strongly suspected several things despite Nevis' defiantly gay letters, "and you needn't give a damn what happens."

But they ate up the pate and caviar and the other things; and after a month or two of experimenting with skin foods and astringents these lay idle in Nevis bureau drawer, a prey to cockroaches and ants. Because even the exertion of massage and heating water for steaming and of using a rubber patter strenuously. was, after a while, too much of an effort. And so she would let her hands fall to her sides and regard the sallowness and roughness of her skin wearily, and feel the sweat start out on her forehead, and give it all up as a bad job.

But she wouldn't cry quits. She studied Spanish assiduously, she made Bill tell her every last little detail of his work, she worked with him as much as she could, following his mental processes, arguing with him, discussing politics and policies and methods and ways and means. She said to herself, her teeth set, "I'll not give in before he does.

They tried reading together; not only the books Della sent out but the technical volumes Nevis asked for for birthday and anniversaries or for which she set aside a little every month. But it was impossible to keep a light on in the living room at night; and, once in bed, under the mosquito netting and with the bed lamp turned on, Bill would fall asleep, sometimes to wake to the brief delirium and headaches of the chronic disease which was entrenched in his thinned blood, and took hold of him at every letting down of a lowered resistance.

And now and then they quarreled, because it was so hot and sticky, and because they were so tired and if he did not accuse her directly of bringing them to this pass, she felt that he did so indirectly and answered back sharply and hotly, or dissolved into weak and unusual tears.

Rejuvenates Woolen Materials

If the cloth dress or suit looks a little passe as you take it out of camphor try this method of bringing back its life. Boil 5 cents worth of soap bark in two quarts of water for half an hour. Brush cloth or garment until quite damp with a whiskbroom dipped in the solution. Cover with a thin cloth and press with a hot iron.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Snow and Slush

THE little Black Clock led John and Peggy some distance away from where they had been.

There they could see Old King Snow and near him stood a most extraordinary creature.

He was dressed in a slightly snowy costume, but it looked as though he had worn it in the rain, and it looked as though you could poke him and his costume would just melt away in little pools of water.

"What's his name?" Peggy whispered.

"Sir Slush," replied the Little Black Clock.

Now the two were talking.

"Well," said the Snow King, "shall we let the children play with each other?"

"That's just what I've been suggesting," Sir Slush laughed.

"I know," he added, "that sometimes you feel my children aren't such good companions for your children. Their ways are untidy, and they aren't what you call a good influence for nice, neat, Snowflake children. My children aren't nearly as well mannered as yours."

"That's true," Old King Snow admitted, and John noticed, with surprise, that Sir Slush was not in the least offended by this speech.

"At the same time," he added, "I think it is good for children to play with your children. It keeps them from thinking they are too perfect as they might otherwise feel. And, too, I don't want my children to be too perfect."

Sir Slush grinned and then he put his fingers in his mouth and gave a long whistle. At that the Slush children all appeared and went forth at once to play with the Snowflake children. The Little Black Clock said they must hear what people had to say of this.

New Combination Model in Frocks

Women who like variety in their costumes can practice the economy they are preaching by getting one of the new two-in-one frocks created by an American dress house after a model inspired by a French couturier. The new frock is of heavy Canton crepe in navy or black and is worn with a detachable bib fashioned like a slip-over blouse. One of the bibs is in white moire, the other is in a contrasting color. They button in the back.

Take It Easy

Fold clothes carefully before putting them through the wringer. If put through in bunches the clothes are apt to be torn and the strain on the wringer soon tells on the springs, frequently causing breakage.

SECRET PAYMENTS TO COLUMBIA U. PLAYERS ALLEGED

New York Newspaper Reports Investigation by Committee Discloses Subsidies.

"LOANS" TO FAMILY OF ONE ATHLETE

University Authorities Deny Charges Which Are Said to Affect Other Colleges Also.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The New York World-Telegram said today that evidence of secret payments to Columbia University football players has been uncovered by a committee investigating the university's athletic administration.

The committee, composed of members of the Nacoms society, a secret organization of seniors and alumni, also has discovered, the newspaper says, that some athletes engage in professional sports during the summer months with the knowledge of Columbia coaches.

Proselyting and Payments.

Proselyting among preparatory school athletes also is practiced, the report says.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia College is making an informal and unofficial inquiry while a committee of the Alumni Association has been appointed to make an inquiry for the alumni, it is said.

Among the discoveries reported was one that a football star on Head Coach Lou Little's eleven received a $400 yearly scholarship by the Columbia University Club and was supplied with other money by "a friend of Columbia."

The same "friend," the investigators charged, had used his influence to obtain a promotion for a member of the player's family and had made "loans" to the family with such frequency that it was alleged they were enabled to purchase an automobile.

Other Colleges Mentioned.

The Nacoms Society Committee is made up of C. Leroy Hendrickson, chairman; Robert Watt, former graduate manager of athletics; Hugh Gardner, varsity crew man in 1929 and members of the student council while in college; Gavin MacBain, class of '32, present secretary of the student board and crew man, and Reed Harris, '32, editor of the Spectator, student publication, whose recent charges against football led to the investigation.

The possibility that the investigation will reach outside Columbia came through charges of the committee that a Columbia athlete who played professional baseball during the summer escaped "getting into trouble," as the committee quoted one of the coaches, when it was found that Yale, Harvard and Princton athletes were playing in the same league.

The matter was hushed up, the World Telegram said, the committee was told, with the common consent of the athletic authorities of the four universities.

One outstanding player, the committee charged, was won over to Columbia when an alumnus of the faculty of the player's preparatory school persuaded him to reject the offers of four other universities. This particular player, an outstanding member of the team, is paid regularly, it was reported.

Entertaining Prospects.

The proselyting was done on a large scale and one or more coaches made frequent trips into localities where preparatory schools were numerous, and set up headquarters in a hotel suite for the entertainment of prospects sent in by alumni, the committee reported.

So great is the amount spent for coaching at Columbia, the World-Telegram says, that the university committee on athletics, which includes several members of the board of trustees, has decided Coach Little's contract will not be renewed when it expires in 1932 unless he agrees to a substantial reduction in salary. Little's contract is for three years at $18,000 a year. He has been at Columbia two years, coming here from Georgetown.

Columbia University leaders, including Little, came forth quickly today with denials of the charges. "It is an outrageous lie," Little declared, after reading the story. Dean Hawkes declared he had been unable, after an investigation, to find a basis for the charges. He added: "I don't want to be mixed up in anything so rotten as this."

Harris, editor of the Spectator, denied any knowledge of the reported inquiry. The Spectator has
